Foreword

We have a world-leading higher education sector, admired for its quality in teaching, research and its capacity to innovate. We also have, thanks to bold school reform over the last 25 years, the best educated generation in our history pursuing higher education in greater numbers than ever before. This combination is central not only to our economic future but also to the richness, quality and diversity of our culture and society.

The Office for Students (OfS), set up by the Higher Education and Research Act of 2017, is the new regulator for this vitally important sector. Our role is to unleash greatness by creating the conditions in which the interests of students, short, medium and long term, are consistently prioritised and in which a diversity of institutions can thrive. It is not our role to guarantee the future success of the higher education sector and no amount of central direction could do so. Two vital ingredients are critical to the health of our higher education sector – institutional autonomy and academic freedom – and the OfS will protect and promote both.

In this context, in my first speech as the Chair of the OfS in June 2017, I set out the priorities for the future organisation. This document marks the completion of the first priority: the establishment of a regulatory framework that describes how we will carry out the core task of stewardship of the higher education landscape, working for positive outcomes in the student interest. Through this framework, we will achieve our other priorities – promoting social mobility, inspiring teaching, and contributing to economic growth.

Our regulatory framework enables the Director for Fair Access and Participation to develop a bold new approach to supporting social mobility, and equality and diversity, through higher education. The new framework equips us to deploy a powerful set of regulatory levers, not only to improve access to higher education, but also reduce the gaps in continuation, attainment and progression that are currently experienced by different groups of students. The sector has increased opportunity by widening access to higher education during the last two decades, but has not achieved equality of opportunity. We will be radical and ambitious to make sure we deliver on the promise of higher education as an engine for social mobility, and a gateway to a better life for those who undertake it.

Our approach to inspiring teaching is set out in this framework. As the Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework showed clearly, there are already many examples of excellent teaching across the full, diverse range of the higher education sector. I see such examples regularly as I visit institutions up and down the country. The new regulatory regime will seek to ensure that all students have a high quality higher education. Prospective students will be equipped with the means, underpinned by innovative and meaningful datasets and high quality information, to enable them to make informed choices about the courses that are right for them.

Throughout the development of this document, we have had a deliberate focus on securing outstanding outcomes for students. Perhaps now more than ever, students – regardless of age or demographic – need an education that equips them with the skills and knowledge to navigate work, study, and life in the 21st century. This is vital not only for students, but for the country too. A world-class sector producing world-class graduates will be critical, economically, politically, and socially. Nor will we forget the value of knowledge for its own sake and the importance of exciting curiosity, opening minds and creating the conditions for what Professor Timothy Garton Ash calls ‘robust civility’. These are the foundations of a free society.

The OfS and our regulatory framework are themselves innovative; our intention is that our world-leading higher education sector will be monitored by a world-leading regulator. That is the standard to which we aspire. While creating the conditions that enable the sector to deliver an excellent education to all students, we will simultaneously work to reduce unnecessary regulatory burden. Indeed, the two go hand in hand.

The new regime we are putting in place is designed with the long term in mind. We want to create conditions for success two or more decades ahead. We have a fantastic opportunity. For providers, the framework offers opportunities to achieve both incremental gains and transformative innovation. For students, the chance to make the most of what the 21st century has to offer to those with a good education and a lifelong commitment to learning.

This document and the regulatory regime it describes mark a historic shift for the sector, and indeed the country. I look forward to working with and learning from all those involved to make sure that we collectively seize the opportunity ahead. Golden ages don’t have to be in the past

Navigation of this regulatory framework

The Office for Student's regulatory framework

This document constitutes the regulatory framework for higher education in England required under section 75 of the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 (HERA). It replaces the previous regulatory framework for higher education in England which operated under part 2 of the Further and Higher Education Act 1992 and part 3 of the Higher Education Act 2004. It was first issued by the Office for Students (OfS) on 28 February 2018.

The audience for this regulatory framework is:

- Students, and bodies representing the interests of students, on higher education courses provided by English higher education providers.
- Providers of higher education in England and bodies representing the interests of such providers.
- Others including, but not limited to, employers, charities and research bodies that are not themselves providers.

This regulatory framework states how the OfS intends to perform its various functions, and provides guidance for registered higher education providers on the ongoing conditions of registration. The OfS will have regard to it when exercising its functions. The framework is composed of five parts:

- Part I: the OfS's risk-based approach
- Part II: sector level regulation
- Part III: regulation of individual providers
- Part IV: validation, degree awarding powers and university title
- Part V: guidance on the general ongoing conditions of registration

A copy of this regulatory framework has been sent to the Secretary of State for Education, who will lay it before Parliament.

The OfS will keep the regulatory framework under review.

Publication of regulatory notices and regulatory advice

The OfS will publish regulatory notices that provide additional information about its regulatory requirements. These constitute part of this regulatory framework under section 75 of HERA or are issued under section 29 of HERA. The first of these are as follows:

- OfS regulatory notice 1: Guidance on access and participation plans for 2019-20

- OfS regulatory notice 2: Regulation up to 31 July 2019 of providers that were previously funded by the Higher Education Funding Council for England
- OfS regulatory notice 3: Regulation up to 31 July 2019 of providers currently designated for student support by the Secretary of State
- OfS regulatory notice 4: Regulation of newly registered providers up to 31 July 2019

In addition, the OfS will publish regulatory advice to support providers in understanding and meeting its regulatory requirements. These do not constitute part of this regulatory framework. The first of these are as follows:

- OfS regulatory advice 1: The OfS's approach to regulation
- OfS regulatory advice 2: Registration of current providers for 2019-20
- OfS regulatory advice 3: Registration of new providers for 2019-20

Wider context for the regulatory framework

The legislative underpinnings for the regulatory framework are found in HERA, which itself is based on the government's strategy for the reform of higher education in England. The following links provide more details:

PART I – The OfS’s risk-based approach

1. The Office for Students (OfS) is a new regulator for English higher education. It will adopt a bold, student-focused, risk-based approach, reflecting the significant changes to higher education of the last 25 years and seeking to anticipate the changes still to come.
2. The OfS’s primary aim is to ensure that English higher education is delivering positive outcomes for students – past, present, and future. This ambition runs through the regulatory framework and the organisation as a whole. The OfS will seek to ensure that students, from all backgrounds (particularly the most disadvantaged), can access, succeed in, and progress from higher education. The OfS is concerned with all students within its remit: from the UK and beyond; undergraduate and postgraduate; studying full time or part time and campus based or distance learners.
3. The OfS will focus on delivering the four primary regulatory objectives set out below.

The four primary regulatory objectives

All students, from all backgrounds, and with the ability and desire to undertake higher education:

1. Are supported to access, succeed in, and progress from, higher education.
2. Receive a high quality academic experience, and their interests are protected while they study or in the event of provider, campus or course closure.
3. Are able to progress into employment or further study, and their qualifications hold their value over time.
4. Receive value for money.

4. The regulatory framework is designed to mitigate the risk that these primary objectives are not met.
5. In addition to seeking to ensure that students receive value for money (Objective 4), the OfS will seek to mitigate the risk that the sector does not deliver value for money for taxpayers and citizens who invest in higher education through: the allocation of public grant funding; research funding by UKRI; and the public subsidy to the student finance system.
6. The OfS will work with UKRI to monitor and mitigate the risk relating to the sustainability of those providers that contribute to the strength of the research base, and risks to the interests of postgraduate students.
7. The OfS’s regulatory approach will ensure:
 - a. A student focus: Regulation will be designed primarily to protect the interests of students, short, medium and long term (especially the most disadvantaged), rather than those of providers.

- b. Clarity: All registered providers will be primarily regulated by one body, with a clear path for new entrants to the sector.
 - c. Accountability: The OfS will be accountable for its decisions and subject to public scrutiny.
 - d. Consistency: There will be a single Register so students will know the minimum baseline of provision that they can expect every registered provider to deliver, and providers will compete on a level playing field.
 - e. Proportionality and targeting: Provision that presents low risk to students will be subject to less regulatory burden, while less secure elements of provision will face greater regulatory scrutiny.
 - f. Competition: The market will be regulated so that, wherever possible, choice and competition drive innovation, diversity and improvement. Where market mechanisms are not sufficient to achieve the desired outcomes, as is the case for access and participation, there will be direct regulation of providers.
8. The regulatory approach is designed to be principles-based because the higher education sector is complex, and the imposition of a narrow rules-based approach would risk leading to a compliance culture that stifles diversity and innovation and prevents the sector from flourishing. This regulatory framework does not therefore set out numerical performance targets, or lists of detailed requirements for providers to meet. Instead it sets out the approach that the OfS will take as it makes judgements about individual providers on the basis of data and contextual evidence.
9. There will be a marked shift from the previous approach to regulation. Once the regulatory framework is established, its implementation will reduce bureaucracy and unnecessary regulatory burden for individual providers and, as a consequence, for the academic and professional staff whose work is essential to successful outcomes for students.

The OfS's general duties

10. The OfS is independent from government and from providers. Its approach to regulation is underpinned by the functions, duties and powers given to it in the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 (HERA). In performing its functions, it will have regard to:
- a. The need to protect the institutional autonomy of English higher education providers.
 - b. The need to promote quality, and greater choice and opportunities for students, in the provision of higher education by English higher education providers.
 - c. The need to encourage competition between English higher education providers in connection with the provision of higher education where that competition is in the interests of students and employers, while also having regard to the benefits for students and employers resulting from collaboration between such providers.
 - d. The need to promote value for money in the provision of higher education by English higher education providers.

- e. The need to promote equality of opportunity in connection with access to and participation in higher education provided by English higher education providers.
- f. The need to use the OfS's resources in an efficient, effective and economic way.; and
- g. So far as relevant, the principles of best regulatory practice, including the principles that regulatory activities should be:
 - i. Transparent, accountable, proportionate and consistent.
 - ii. Targeted only at cases in which action is needed.

These are referred to as the OfS's 'general duties' and are set out in section 2 of HERA.

11. In making decisions, the OfS will take all of these general duties into account, weighing one against the others as it deems appropriate. Certain areas of the OfS's activity, such as the imposition of individual ongoing conditions of registration, may focus on one or more of its general duties. For example, the general duty that relates to equality of opportunity might be delivered through the work of the Director for Fair Access and Participation and through the requirement for providers to have in place access and participation plans and statements. The OfS will also develop equality objectives and an action plan to ensure that it takes equality of opportunity into account across all of its activities and decisions, and promotes equality and diversity across all aspects of its work. Issues of equality and diversity may be taken into account as the OfS makes regulatory decisions primarily, but not exclusively, through access and participation plans.
12. In exercising its functions, the OfS will have regard to this regulatory framework, and to any guidance it receives from the Secretary of State. It is also required to comply with any general directions given to it by the Secretary of State, and to the terms and conditions attached to any grants it receives from the Secretary of State, that comply with the requirements of sections 77 and 74 respectively of HERA.
13. The OfS is committed to adopting and contributing to best regulatory practice. It will comply with the Regulators' Code, and in developing this regulatory framework the OfS has consulted widely, drawn on best practice, and sought to learn from the latest in regulatory theory

Overview of the regulatory approach

14. The OfS's approach to regulation puts informed student choice and institutional autonomy at its heart. It sees the dynamic of providers responding to informed student choice as the best mechanism for driving quality and improvement, and will regulate at the sector level to enable this. The OfS will regulate at provider level to ensure a baseline of protection for all students and the taxpayer. Beyond that threshold the OfS will encourage and enable autonomy, diversity and innovation.
15. The OfS's regulatory approach also seeks to deliver social and policy objectives in areas where market mechanisms may not succeed. For example, the improvements in access and participation that students and society require will not be delivered by the market alone. This means that the OfS will take direct regulatory action to drive improvement in this area, beyond that necessary to preserve a minimum baseline.

Sector level regulation

16. At sector level the OfS will focus on creating the conditions for informed choice, competition, and continuous improvement. The OfS will:
 - a. Involve students in the way that it regulates.
 - b. Work with, and have oversight of, the designated data body (DDB) to coordinate, collect and disseminate information for students, to help them make the best possible choices. It will publish student outcomes and current and future employer needs as a way of informing student choice. It will incentivise focus on student outcomes, and support mechanisms that allow student transfer.
 - c. Operate the Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework (TEF) to incentivise the improvement of the quality of teaching across the sector and provide information to students about where excellent teaching and outcomes may be found.
 - d. Remove unnecessary barriers to entry for high quality new providers, increasing diversity and competition in the sector for the benefit of students.
 - e. Remove unnecessary regulatory barriers for all high quality providers, ensuring that providers that represent low risk to students and taxpayers experience a reduction in regulatory burden.
 - f. Regulate to enable and create space for innovation, including in teaching and learning, while ensuring that baseline requirements for quality and other areas of risk to students are met.
 - g. Champion issues and share evidence and examples of effective and innovative practice for students. It will be unafraid to speak out on behalf of students, and in particular will promote value for money for students and taxpayers, and will highlight inequalities wherever it sees them.
 - h. Use a range of indicators, qualitative intelligence and horizon scanning to understand and evaluate the health of the sector.
 - i. Use its teaching grant funding strategically, in line with government priorities, such as supporting priorities in the Industrial Strategy as well as access and successful participation for the most under-represented, and students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Provider level regulation

17. At provider level, the OfS will regulate, and intervene where necessary, to protect the interests of all students.

18. Registration and initial risk assessment:

- a. All registered providers will be listed on a single Register that is accessed through a single gateway. Providers will be able to choose to register in one of two categories. Each category allows access to a distinct set of benefits for providers, with regulatory requirements that are proportionate to the risks to student and taxpayer interests.
- b. To register, providers will have to demonstrate that they satisfy a set of initial conditions of registration to ensure they are able to offer high quality higher education to students. They will be subject to a risk assessment to determine whether they will be able to continue to satisfy their conditions. The risk assessment will consider whether they can achieve particular outcomes rather than whether their processes meet a pre-determined specification.
- c. The OfS will work with, and have oversight of, the designated quality body (DQB) to assess the quality of, and standards applied to, the higher education of providers seeking to register.
- d. Conditions of registration are the primary tool that the OfS will use to regulate individual providers, and the OfS will decide, based on its risk assessment, which general and specific ongoing conditions should apply to the provider. Conditions will, in the main, be used to ensure that providers continue to meet baseline requirements, rather than to drive continuous improvement. An exception to this will be access and participation for providers in the Approved (fee cap) category, where the baseline requirement is that a provider must have an agreed access and participation plan which will deliver continuous improvement.
- e. The OfS will use its risk assessment to decide if any enhanced monitoring is needed as further mitigation of the risks posed by an individual provider.

19. On the Register:

- a. All providers will be monitored using lead indicators, reportable events and other intelligence such as complaints. These will be used to identify early, and close to real-time warnings that a provider risks not meeting each of its ongoing conditions of registration. Regulatory decisions will not normally be taken solely on the basis of these indicators, but they will identify areas for the OfS to assess further. The OfS will respond swiftly with interventions (which may include sanctions) if deemed necessary.
- b. The OfS will also use random sampling to identify a small proportion of providers each year (e.g. 5 per cent) for a more extensive assessment of whether they continue to meet the general ongoing conditions of registration. This approach will be used to confirm the effectiveness of the OfS's monitoring system, and to act as a further incentive for providers to meet their ongoing conditions of registration.

20. Interventions and sanctions:

- a. If a risk of a breach of one or more conditions of registration is identified, the OfS will consider whether it should impose additional specific ongoing conditions of registration for the provider, to protect the interests of students and taxpayers. It will also consider whether to enhance monitoring.

- b. If a breach of a specific or general ongoing condition is identified, the OfS will consider the use of formal sanctions – monetary penalties, suspension or deregistration. Where appropriate, these will be applied decisively, but always proportionately. Which sanctions it uses will depend on a range of factors.

The OfS's relationship with students

21. The OfS's regulatory framework is designed to deliver the four primary regulatory objectives that are designed to protect the interests of students. The OfS will use its regulatory tools at sector and provider level to ensure that higher education in England works in practice for students from all backgrounds before, during and after their studies.
22. The OfS will engage with students to ensure that their voice is heard. The OfS's Student Panel will operate with a clear link to the formal governance structure of the OfS, and will support the ability of the student representative on the main board in ensuring that students' views on regulation and other issues are taken into account.
23. Alongside the student representation on the board and Student Panel, the OfS will seek the input of individual students and their representative bodies, including student unions. The main regulator of student unions is the Charity Commission. However, student unions can play an important part in the academic and wider experience of students, and form a significant element of the overall student experience. The OfS will therefore want to work with student unions, taking account of their role and contribution.

The OfS's relationship with providers

24. The OfS's risk-based approach is central to how it will interact with providers. The OfS's engagement with an individual provider is intended to allow the OfS to make appropriate regulatory decisions about managing risks associated with that provider. It is not to provide support for improvement activities, or to require the provider to take actions the OfS would like to see, unless there is a risk of the provider breaching its conditions of registration.
25. The OfS will seek open and trusting relationships with providers, because this is the mechanism best able to achieve effective regulation in the interests of students. This will not preclude immediate and decisive interventions where there is a risk of a breach of a condition of registration.
26. Dialogue will focus on specific regulatory issues rather than the general circumstances and activities of the provider. The OfS may alert a provider where there may be issues with the provider's compliance with a condition of registration, but it will not provide advice to providers about how they should run their organisation. Providers should look to other sources, for example to sector bodies, for such advice and support.
27. A provider will be expected to inform the OfS of an actual or potential breach of its conditions of registration, or a serious risk of such a breach occurring.

The OfS's information duties

28. The use of information, including data and qualitative intelligence, will underpin how the OfS undertakes its regulatory functions. The OfS will take an information-led and proportionate approach to monitoring individual providers, ensuring that students can access reliable information to inform their decisions.
29. The Secretary of State, on the recommendation of the OfS, has designated the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA) to perform specific data duties as the DDB. Schedule 6 of HERA sets out the framework for the relationship between the OfS and the DDB. The DDB will collect, make available, and publish appropriate information on behalf of the OfS, and the OfS will be responsible for holding the DDB to account for the performance of those functions. The parameters within which the OfS will require the DDB to operate will be set out in a designation agreement between the two organisations.
30. The OfS will develop a data strategy in 2018. This will set out how it intends to fulfil its responsibilities in relation to data; the data requirements it will place on providers; how it will work with the DDB; and the mechanisms it will use to ensure it takes account of the data needs of other organisations, including the sector itself and the DDB's statutory customers.
31. The information and data the OfS requires to fulfil its functions will be wide-ranging. It will need to be sufficient to support the OfS to:
 - a. Establish and monitor a set of lead indicators to understand provider performance and regulate in a proportionate and risk-based way.
 - b. Target, evaluate and improve access and participation, and equality and diversity activities.
 - c. Monitor the sector as a whole, to understand trends and emerging risks at a sector level and work with the sector to address them.
 - d. Ensure students can access reliable and appropriate information to inform their decisions about whether to study for a higher education qualification and, if so, identify which provider and course is most likely to meet their needs and aspirations.
 - e. Work with employers and with regional and national industry representatives to ensure that student choices are aligned with current and future needs for higher level skills.
 - f. Operate the TEF.
 - g. Support registered higher education providers in meeting their transparency conditions.
 - h. Support the Department for Education, given its overall responsibility for the policy and funding framework in which the sector operates, and other public bodies such as UKRI in the delivery of their prescribed functions.

32. It is envisaged that reliable information and data will be collected, as now, through a combination of data returns from the sector, annual surveys, data sharing with other bodies and bespoke requests.

The OfS's quality and standards functions

33. The Secretary of State, on the advice of the OfS, has designated the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education to carry out the quality and standards assessment functions set out in section 23 of HERA and to provide advice to the OfS under section 46 of HERA. Schedule 4 of HERA sets out the framework for the relationship between the OfS and the DQB. The DQB will be under a duty to perform assessment functions on behalf of the OfS. It is the responsibility of the OfS to ensure that the arrangements that are made to undertake these assessments are fit for purpose and consistent with the OfS's approach to regulation. The parameters within which the OfS requires its designated body to operate will be set out in a designation agreement between the two organisations.

The OfS's relationship with other regulators and bodies

34. Section 63 of HERA gives the OfS powers to cooperate and share information with other bodies. Section 112 gives the OfS a more specific power to cooperate and share information with UKRI, and section 113 empowers the OfS to work with the devolved administrations and their funding bodies, and with UKRI. The OfS may wish to use its powers under sections 63, 112 and 113 in a range of circumstances and, where necessary, will put in place collaboration agreements to achieve this.
35. Co-operation and sharing of information with UKRI will be essential across a range of areas of shared interest, for example in relation to: skills, capability and progression; knowledge exchange; infrastructure funding; building robust evidence and intelligence; and ensuring that the Research Excellence Framework and TEF are mutually reinforcing. The OfS and UKRI will work together to protect the interests of postgraduate students and to secure the research careers pipeline. UKRI will rely on the OfS's regulation of English higher education providers receiving research funding from Research England and UKRI and its Councils. The OfS will wish to be aware of any concerns identified by UKRI in relation to research funding or research ethics and/or where there are significant changes in this funding that could increase the risk of a provider breaching a condition of registration.
36. The OfS will seek active and constructive engagement with the devolved administrations and their funding bodies, and with other regulators and funding bodies in England, such as the Charity Commission, the Competition and Markets Authority, the Advertising Standards Authority, the Education and Skills Funding Agency, the Institute for Apprenticeships and the Office of the Independent Adjudicator. The OfS may use information from, and the views of, other regulators or funding bodies to inform its decisions about initial registration and ongoing monitoring of providers, where this is consistent with HERA.
37. The OfS's engagement with other bodies will be underpinned by the following principles:
- a. Cooperation by supporting and reflecting each other's duties and giving notice when there are changes to regulatory powers.

- b. Clarity on roles and responsibilities and how they work together where other bodies have responsibility for quality and regulation.
- c. Appropriate burden by working intelligently, openly and accountably to ensure that duplication of regulatory requirements is avoided when possible and there is the minimum regulation needed to deliver required outcomes.
- d. Mutual understanding of regulatory processes to enable confidence in and reliance on each other's processes and oversight.
- e. Mutual assurance, when it is needed, to ensure support on relevant emerging issues and risks.
- f. Information sharing of relevant and accurate data in a timely manner, where legally permissible, to minimise the data collection burden.
- g. Transparency on how data and information will be used, with whom it will be shared, under what circumstances and for what purposes, as determined by the Data Protection Act and other applicable legislation (including HERA).

PART II – Sector level regulation

Allowing the higher education sector to flourish, and creating the space for innovation

38. The OfS will focus on creating the conditions for competition, continuous improvement and informed choice. To achieve this, and ensure that the higher education sector is able to diversify, innovate and flourish, the OfS will take action at the sector level. As it discharges its stewardship role, the OfS will have its primary regulatory objectives in mind and will ensure that it is focused on influencing outcomes for students from all backgrounds.
39. The following sections outline the approaches that the OfS will use to promote diversity, incentivise innovation, and to manage the risks to the interests of students and taxpayers at the sector level.

Removing unnecessary barriers to entry and minimising regulatory burden for all providers

40. The OfS's regulatory framework has been designed to take account of the needs of a diverse range of providers, including providers entering the higher education sector for the first time, and existing providers that represent the diversity already present in the sector. The OfS will regulate providers based on any risks they pose, not their age, size, mission or legal form (although this context will be considered where relevant to risk).
41. The regulatory framework will support new and existing providers, in particular through the following mechanisms:

- a. Recognition of the diversity of the sector

A diverse sector supports student choice. The conditions of registration are explicitly tailored to a diverse set of providers, by focusing on the outcomes a provider is expected to achieve, rather than determining how this should be done. Providers are free to determine their individual mission, strategy and approach. For example, the management and governance condition requires a provider's governance arrangements to be appropriate for its size, complexity and legal form.

- b. Minimising regulatory burden

Providers that do not pose specific increased risk will be subject to light touch monitoring and should have less regulatory burden once this regulatory framework is established. Such providers will be free to innovate however they choose, provided that they continue to deliver positive outcomes for their students.

- c. New and faster options for market entry

The initial conditions of registration are designed so that providers do not need to have a track record of delivering higher education to be able to meet them. Where such a track record does exist, the OfS will take it into account, but there are other ways to evidence that a condition of registration is satisfied. For example, the financial viability and sustainability condition might be satisfied by demonstrating the availability of sufficient funds and sound business plans, or a legally binding financial guarantee from a third party, rather than evidence of past financial performance. There will also be a faster route for high quality new providers to gain access to degree awarding powers directly, without the need for a track record.

d. Validation

The OfS will take steps to improve the validation system, and address some of the barriers that providers may face when seeking a validating partner and that can make offering innovative and flexible provision unnecessarily burdensome. If the OfS considers it necessary, it may enter into commissioning arrangements with existing higher education providers, or as a last resort, become a validator itself, if authorised to do so in regulations made by the Secretary of State.

Ensuring a minimum baseline of quality for all and promoting excellence and innovation beyond that baseline

42. The conditions of registration for quality and standards that apply to individual providers are designed to ensure a minimum baseline of protection for all students and the taxpayer. Beyond this minimum, autonomous providers are free to pursue excellence and innovation as they see fit, and the OfS will use its sector level tools to create the space for this to happen.
43. The OfS has adopted the TEF as a sector level intervention to promote excellence in teaching and outcomes beyond the minimum baseline. The TEF provides information to students about where they might find such excellence. Participation in the TEF from the 2019-20 academic year is a condition of registration for providers over a certain size. Smaller providers, for whom the cost of participation might be disproportionate, may participate on a voluntary basis if they meet the eligibility criteria. The requirement is that an eligible provider must participate in the TEF, not least because if TEF outcomes are to provide reliable comparative information for students, they must be available for the majority of providers. It is for an individual provider to decide whether or not it wishes to perform beyond its regulated minimum quality baseline in order to affect its TEF outcome. The TEF provides a sector level incentive for improvement beyond the baseline.
44. The TEF is subject to statutory review in 2018, and the OfS will take the outcomes of this review into account as it considers the future scope and shape of the TEF.

Championing issues and sharing evidence and examples of effective and innovative practice

45. The OfS is well placed to champion particular issues, themes, and approaches. Although the OfS will not, in general, dictate how autonomous providers should act or what methods they should use, the OfS will be able to help shape sector wide debate and focus. Through its influencing power, the OfS may promote innovation in particular areas, or encourage the dissemination of information about what works best to enhance particular outcomes.

46. The OfS will scan the local, national and global horizon, and use intelligence obtained from its monitoring of individual providers, to identify specific themes or issues that it wishes to explore at the sector level. This will enable the OfS to anticipate future threats, challenges and opportunities that may not immediately be apparent, but have the potential to affect the higher education landscape.
47. Certain of these themes may be more relevant to some providers than others, and the OfS may choose to explore these themes in more detail through voluntary targeted engagement with specific providers, focus groups or thematic surveys. The findings of these thematic reviews would then inform the OfS's sector wide interventions to ensure that higher education in England works in the interests of students and taxpayers.
48. A cornerstone for the OfS's agenda-setting influence will be its annual report. Here, the OfS will set out the progress that has been made, the challenges that remain, and the future needs and direction of the sector.

Promoting student choice through diversity of providers and the provision of information

Information for students

49. The information landscape is continually changing. The OfS will work collaboratively with students to ensure that the information, advice and guidance that is offered, and the way that it is provided, is continually adapted to support students to make the right higher education choices for them. The OfS will also work with employers, regional and national industry representatives, government and UKRI, to ensure that student choice is informed and enabled by the skills needs of industry and the country.
50. The OfS will improve the quality of information available to students. It will revisit the operation and design of Unistats, taking the latest thinking on behavioural science into account, to consider how best to present this data in a consistent and helpful way to ensure that students have access to an authoritative source of information about higher education. Providers will be expected to provide information, advice and guidance to students from disadvantaged backgrounds and underrepresented groups through activity agreed within their access and participation plans.
51. The OfS will draw on the longitudinal education outcomes (LEO) dataset as an important source of information about graduate outcomes. Its further development will be a priority for the OfS, taking into account both its limitations and its significant potential.

Diversity of provision and providers

52. The OfS's risk-based approach is designed to promote diversity of provision, and of providers, because this is an effective way to extend choice for students. The OfS will also support student choice by:
 - a. Promoting the ability of students to transfer to another course or provider

Students sometimes wish to transfer from one course or provider to another. Research² suggests that students do not see the ability to transfer as a market mechanism, and that there is relatively little latent demand for transfer. However, it is an important way to improve the lives of a small, but significant minority of students who have made the wrong choice or who face a change in personal circumstances.

Many providers have formal transfer systems in place but many students are unaware of the transfer opportunities available. The OfS will work to ensure that in practice students are able to transfer within and between providers wherever it best meets their needs and aspirations.

In order to improve the information available to students, the OfS has set a condition of registration requiring providers to publish information about their arrangements for student transfer. The OfS will monitor and report on the availability and utilisation of student transfer arrangements, in accordance with section 38 of HERA.

b. Supporting accelerated courses

Accelerated courses provide students with the opportunity to study for a qualification over a shorter period of time than is typical, by increasing the intensity of study during the academic year. HERA includes powers for the government (subject to approval by Parliament) to set the annual tuition fee cap for accelerated courses at a higher level than their standard equivalent. This is intended to incentivise providers to offer accelerated courses, increasing choice for students. Maintenance costs and tuition fees for a student taking an accelerated course will usually be less than that for the same course studied over a longer period.

The OfS will support the development of this form of provision. It will make relevant information available to students, and may undertake thematic reviews to support the early and widespread adoption of such courses.

Strategic use of public grant funding for teaching and related activities

53. The teaching grant is designed to support a range of activities and provision across those providers that are registered in the Approved (fee cap) category. The majority of the funding is used to support provision where the cost is greater than the amount received as tuition fee income. This may be because the course is costly to provide, the location brings about additional costs or additional opportunities, or because the provision is highly specialised, as with the support provided to our world-leading specialist institutions. The teaching grant is also used to support access, success and progression for students from disadvantaged backgrounds and underrepresented groups where additional funding is needed to build on provider level regulation, for example to support collaboration. In addition, funding supports innovation, the Industrial Strategy, and the national academic broadband infrastructure.

54. The OfS expects to continue with these broad priorities, but to review its approach in the future to ensure that funding is deployed in a way that supports its student-focused objectives and complements its provider and sector level regulatory activity.

PART III – Regulation of individual providers

55. The following diagram provides an overview of the OfS's approach to the regulation of individual providers

The Register

56. The OfS will regulate individual providers to help ensure the delivery of its four primary regulatory objectives. The OfS will impose conditions that higher education providers must meet to join, and remain on, its Register. The initial and ongoing conditions of registration are set out in Annex A.
57. Section 3 of HERA says that the OfS must establish a Register. The Register is a list of all higher education providers officially recognised by the OfS.
58. A higher education provider in England will be required to register with the OfS if it wishes to:
- Access public grant funding, and/or student support funding.
 - Apply to the Home Office for a Tier 4 licence, or to maintain an existing licence.
 - Apply for degree awarding powers (DAPs) and/or university title (UT).

Registration categories and the benefits of registration

59. The OfS Register will contain two registration categories:
- Approved
 - Approved (fee cap).
60. Each provider is able to choose the registration category it wishes to apply for. A provider may subsequently choose to apply to change its registration category. Each registration category provides a set of benefits, as set out below.

		Approved (fee cap)	Approved
Public grant funding	Eligibility for direct grant funding provided by UKRI through Research England under section 97 of HERA.	Yes	No
	Eligibility for OfS teaching grant funding or any other OfS payments under sections 39 or 40 of HERA.	Yes	No
	Ability to apply for research council funding.	Yes	Yes ³

³ To access research council funding, providers registered in the Approved category will need to meet criteria specified for "Independent Research Organisations" (IRO) by UKRI). This will involve a separate validation process, although the OfS and UKRI will seek to coordinate and reduce duplication wherever possible, and the OfS will work with UKRI as it develops its process to minimise any burden on providers. A provider's ability to access these sources of funding does not depend on its registration status, as the criteria for IRO status is set separately by UKRI.

Access to the student support system	Ability for eligible students studying on eligible undergraduate courses to apply for support under the Education (Student Support) Regulations 2011 (as amended).	Yes Up to the higher amount with an access and participation plan.	Yes Up to lower fee amount with uncapped fees.
	Ability for eligible students studying on eligible postgraduate courses to apply for support under the Education (Student Support) Regulations 2011 (as amended).	Yes	Yes
	Ability for eligible students studying on eligible courses to apply for Disabled Students' Allowance under the Education (Student Support) Regulations 2011 (as amended).	Yes	Yes
Tier 4 sponsorship licence	Eligibility to make an application to the Home Office to recruit international students with a Tier 4 sponsorship licence ⁴ .	Yes	Yes

⁴ The Home Office has proposed that registered providers in the Approved or Approved (fee cap) categories will be assessed as having met the necessary higher education educational oversight requirements for an application for a Tier 4 sponsor licence. A registered provider is one which meets the OfS eligibility requirements to register, i.e. it is an English higher education provider, and is registered with the OfS and satisfies all its conditions of registration. The ability of a registered provider to sponsor students under Tier 4 will be conditional on remaining on the OfS Register. If a provider is not eligible to register with the OfS, it may continue with its current Tier 4 educational oversight arrangements.

The Home Office remains responsible for setting the eligibility and suitability criteria for a Tier 4 licence, and decisions on Tier 4 licences will remain solely with the Home Secretary. The provisions of the OfS's regulatory framework do not constrain the ability of the Home Office to determine the requirements for educational oversight as part of the process for obtaining a Tier 4 licence. If a provider also delivers courses that are not regulated by the OfS, for example, further education courses, it will also need to obtain and maintain educational oversight for those courses from the relevant body.

Degree awarding powers and university title	Eligibility to apply for authorisation to grant one or more of the following awards: a. Foundation degrees b. Awards in specific subjects c. Awards at bachelor-level d. Any taught awards e. Research awards	Yes	Yes
	Eligibility to apply to use 'university' or 'university college' in a provider's title.	Yes	Yes

Which providers are required to register?

61. A provider that wishes to access the benefits of registration must register with the OfS. A provider that does not wish to access any of these benefits may choose to apply to register, or not, in either of the categories.
62. A provider that offers higher education courses directly to students (i.e. it registers its own students and receives payment directly from students or directly from the student support system on behalf of its students) must register in its own right if it wishes to access the benefits. This requirement for a provider to register in its own right is unaffected by whether or not:
- The provider has its own awarding powers.
 - The provider's courses are validated by another provider or awarding body.
 - The provider validates another provider's courses.
 - The provider delivers subcontracted courses (where the subcontracting lead provider is receiving payment from, or on behalf of, students), if it also delivers its own or validated courses directly to its own students.
 - The provider is delivering some of its own courses through a subcontractual agreement with another delivery partner.

Providers in subcontractual arrangements

63. Where all of a provider's higher education courses are being delivered on behalf of another provider (the lead provider) under a subcontractual arrangement, the provider delivering the courses (the delivery provider) will not normally be required to register in its own right, although it may do so if it wishes. A delivery provider will be required to register in its own right if it wishes to apply to the Home Office for a Tier 4 licence, or to maintain an existing licence. In a subcontractual arrangement, the students studying with a delivery provider are students of the lead provider and the lead provider has responsibility for the higher education provision, including its quality and costs. The OfS will ensure, through its routine monitoring of lead providers, that this responsibility is fully exercised in practice.

64. A course is considered to be part of a subcontractual arrangement if, typically:
- a. There is a written, legally binding agreement in place between the lead provider and the delivery provider that sets out the conditions of the arrangement.
 - b. The student has a contractual relationship with the lead provider.
 - c. The fee and/or fee loan is paid to the lead provider.
 - d. The student is registered as a student of the lead provider and is included in its data returns.
65. Lead providers subcontracting all or part of a course to a delivery provider retain responsibility for the students on those courses and the quality and standards of provision. In complying with the general ongoing conditions of registration relating to quality and standards, a lead provider must demonstrate that it has reliable accountability mechanisms in place to protect the quality of provision across all delivery providers, and to support the collection of reliable data to allow the lead provider to meet its regulatory obligations.
66. Where an embedded college delivers higher education courses in partnership with a higher education provider, the college and the provider will need to consider the nature of the arrangement between them and consider whether one organisation or both are required to register. An embedded college will, in addition, need to consider whether it will qualify as an 'English higher education provider' under the definition in section 83 of HERA and be required to register in its own right for the purpose of being eligible to apply for and maintain a Tier 4 sponsorship licence from the Home Office.

Providers of initial teacher training

67. Providers of School-centred initial teacher training courses (SCITTs) will not be required to register with the OfS to enable their trainees to access the student support system. SCITTs will continue to be regulated by the Department for Education, and required to comply with the criteria for charging fees. SCITTs and other initial teacher training (ITT) providers that offer other higher education courses will be required to register with the OfS if they wish to receive any of the benefits of registration.

Tier 4 sponsorship without access to public grant funding or the student support system

68. A provider seeking only eligibility to apply for a Tier 4 sponsorship licence will be required to register in the Approved category, even if it does not wish to access the other benefits available from registration. Such a provider will be subject to the same initial and general ongoing conditions of registration as other providers registered in the same category.
69. A provider that is required to obtain, and maintain, a Tier 4 sponsorship licence, but does not qualify as an 'English higher education provider' under the definition in HERA, will not be eligible to register with the OfS and will be subject to the existing oversight arrangements as defined by the Home Office.

Providers with, or seeking, degree awarding powers and/or university title

70. A provider that currently holds degree awarding powers and/or university title will normally be expected to register. In the future, only providers registered with the OfS will be eligible to apply for degree awarding powers or university title.

Content of the Register

71. The Register will provide a single, authoritative reference for students, businesses, providers, other regulators, and members of the public about a provider's regulatory status.

72. The Secretary of State for Education has laid regulations under section 3(6) of HERA⁵ to set out the information that must be contained in a provider's entry in the Register. In addition, the OfS has decided that further information should also be published for each provider in the interests of transparency. Both categories of information are set out in the table below, with those items required by statute identified by an asterisk.

The provider's name*	The legal name and any trading names of the registered higher education provider, including any names granted by, or by virtue of, any Act or Royal Charter.
The provider's unique identifier	The UK Register of Learning Providers assigns a unique UKPRN number to a provider to support the sharing of information about learning providers with government departments, agencies, learners, and employers. This number helps to identify individual providers correctly and will be included on a provider's Register entry.
The provider's contact details*	An address, email address, and telephone number at which the provider may be contacted. An address at which the provider carries on its activities, or which is the provider's principal place of business or which is otherwise suitable for the service of documents on the provider.
The address of the provider's website*	The address of the principal website maintained by, or on behalf of, the provider. A link between the OfS Register and the provider's website will enable Register users to check that they are looking at the correct provider and to find further information about a provider's activities.

The provider's name*	The legal name and any trading names of the registered higher education provider, including any names granted by, or by virtue of, any Act or Royal Charter.
The provider's legal form	The provider's legal form, for example whether it was created by Royal Charter, Act of Parliament, or as a company limited by shares or by guarantee. Whether the provider is an exempt or registered charity and a link to information about its charitable status on the provider's website.
The category in which the provider is registered*	This information allows users of the Register to understand the regulatory requirements placed on a provider and the provider's eligibility for public grant funding, student support funding, and a Tier 4 sponsorship licence.
The general ongoing conditions of registration applied to the provider	The general ongoing conditions of registration that apply to the provider will be listed, together with information that shows any current breach of any of these conditions. Any general ongoing conditions of registration that have been dis-applied for the provider under section 5(6) of the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 will be listed. A link to explanatory text for each condition will be included.
A link to the provider's access and participation plan, where a plan is in place*	The Register will state whether the provider has an access and participation plan in place and the period for which the plan is in place. Such plans should be easily accessible to students and prospective students on the provider's own website. The Register will include a link to the plan on the provider's website.
A link to the provider's access and participation statement, where a statement is in place	The Register will state whether the provider has an access and participation statement in place. Such statements should be easily accessible to students and prospective students on the provider's own website. The Register will include a link to the statement on the provider's website.
The fee limits that apply to the provider*	Section 11 of HERA requires the OfS to publish annually a list of registered providers that have a fee limit condition and the level of that limit. The provider's Register entry will contain information about the fee limits applicable to the provider.

The provider's name*	The legal name and any trading names of the registered higher education provider, including any names granted by, or by virtue of, any Act or Royal Charter.
The provider's access to the student support system for its initial teacher training courses	Providers accredited by the Department for Education are able to deliver initial teacher training courses and their students are able to access the student support system. The provider's Register entry will contain this information.
A list of the provider's courses that provide access to the student support system, where the OfS has determined that approval on a course-by-course basis is desirable for that provider	The OfS may determine that access to the student support system should operate on a course-by-course basis for a provider. In these circumstances, the Register entry for the provider will contain the list of approved courses.
The outcome of any assessment of quality and standards undertaken for the provider by the DQB	The OfS may ask the designated quality body (DQB) to assess the quality and standards of the provider. The outcome of such assessments will be published on the Register.
The outcome of the provider's entry in the TEF	The Register will state whether the provider has met the eligibility criteria to take part in The Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework (TEF), and will contain the provider's current TEF rating(s).
Any specific ongoing conditions of registration applied to the provider	Any specific ongoing conditions of registration that have been applied to the provider will be listed, together with an explanation of the reasons that these have been applied unless the OfS considers it inappropriate to do so.

The provider's name*	The legal name and any trading names of the registered higher education provider, including any names granted by, or by virtue of, any Act or Royal Charter.
Any sanctions applied to the provider	Information will be published about any sanctions applied to the provider. This information will be published after the provider has completed any appeal process and remain available until the sanction is withdrawn. The OfS will maintain a summary of sanctions that it has previously applied over the last three years. A monetary penalty – including the amount of the penalty and the reason for it. Suspension of registration* – section 16 of HERA requires the Register to state that a provider's registration is suspended during any suspension, to show the limits of that suspension, and the end date for the suspension. The reason for the suspension will also be included. De-registration of the provider* – section 18 of HERA requires the OfS to maintain a list of deregistered providers and to publish this, together with any transitional and savings provisions. This list of deregistered providers does not have to be on the Register. In most cases, information about a provider's de-registration and reason for this will be published in the OfS's historic records, after a final decision has been made and any appeal process has concluded.
Any transitional provisions to 'teach out' a provider's students after the provider has been deregistered	When the OfS deregisters a provider, it may make a transitional or saving provision, which means treating the provider as though it were registered for a transitional period. Transitional and savings provisions may include any arrangements to teach out students registered with the provider at the date of its deregistration and to allow such students to continue to access the student support system until the end of their course. In these circumstances, the provider's deregistration and reason for this will be published on the Register for the duration of the teach out period.
Any authorisation for the provider to grant degrees*	The Register will include information about whether the provider has degree awarding powers and, if so, what type of powers it has and, where relevant, the period for which they have been granted.

The provider's name*	The legal name and any trading names of the registered higher education provider, including any names granted by, or by virtue of, any Act or Royal Charter.
Variation of authorisation to grant degrees*	The OfS has powers to vary a provider's authorisation to grant taught awards and research awards. The OfS will publish information on the Register about any variation in the provider's authorisation to grant degrees and the reason for this.
Revocation of authorisation to grant degrees	The OfS has powers to revoke a provider's authorisation to grant taught awards and research awards. When a provider remains registered after the revocation of such powers, the OfS will publish the timing and reasons for the revocation on the provider's entry on the Register. When a provider is deregistered after the revocation of such powers, it will no longer appear on the Register and information about the revocation will be recorded in the OfS's historic records.
Recognised awards*	The Register will identify whether awards granted by the provider have been designated by the Secretary of State or the OfS under section 214(2)(c) of the Education Reform Act 1988 (c).
The provider's validation arrangements*	The Register will identify where a provider has entered into validation agreements, which is where the courses of a provider without degree awarding powers are awarded by another provider with degree awarding powers.
The provider's subcontractual arrangements	The Register will include information relating to a provider's subcontractual arrangements. A lead provider may subcontract teaching of some or all of a course to a delivery provider or to another organisation. The lead provider remains responsible for the students studying at the delivery provider. The Register entry for the lead provider will include information about those providers delivering its courses under subcontractual arrangements.
The provider's right to use 'university' in its title*	The OfS has powers to authorise the use of 'university' or 'university college' in a provider's title. The OfS Register will state whether the provider has this right and, if so, when and how the right was granted.

The provider's name*	The legal name and any trading names of the registered higher education provider, including any names granted by, or by virtue of, any Act or Royal Charter.
Revocation of authorisation to use 'university' or 'university college' in the provider's title	The OfS has powers to revoke authorisation to use 'university' or 'university college' in a provider's title. When a provider remains registered after the revocation of such authorisation, the OfS will publish the timing and reasons for the revocation on the provider's entry on the Register. When a provider is deregistered after the revocation of such authorisation, it will no longer appear on the Register and information about the revocation will be recorded in the OfS's historic records.
A link to the provider's entry on the Home Office's Register of licenced sponsors, where the provider holds a Tier 4 sponsor licence	The Register will link to the Home Office's Register of licensed sponsors to show whether the provider has a Tier 4 licence to recruit students from outside the European Economic Area.
A link to the provider's primary regulator, where this is not the OfS	The Register will include a link to the provider's primary regulator where this is not the OfS (for example the ESFA for further education and sixth form colleges). It will also identify those of the provider's general ongoing conditions of registration that are satisfied by evidence provided by the primary regulator.
A link to information designed to support prospective and current students to make informed study choices	The Register is not intended to be the primary place for students to find information about higher education providers and courses. Instead the Register will link to the provider's entry on the Unistats website so that users can find further information about a provider and its undergraduate courses.

Requirements for initial registration

73. Section 3 of HERA states that the OfS must register a provider where it:

- a. Has applied to be registered in one of the categories of the Register.
- b. Is, or intends to become, an English higher education provider.
- c. Satisfies the 'initial conditions of registration' applicable to the relevant category of the Register.
- d. Has made a correct application that contains all of the required information.

Eligibility for registration

74. In order to be registered, a provider will need to demonstrate that it meets the definitions in HERA and the additional eligibility requirements set by the OfS. These are set out below.
75. Only a provider that is, or intends to become, an English higher education provider, as defined in section 83 of HERA, can apply to register with the OfS. There are three elements in determining whether an entity is an English higher education provider:
- a. Provision of higher education. This is defined as delivering a course of any description listed in Schedule 6 to the Education Reform Act 1988.
 - b. English provider. This is defined as a provider whose activities are carried on, or principally carried on, in England. 'Principally carried on in England' will be taken to mean that more than 50 per cent of a provider's higher education activities are carried on in England. In assessing where a provider's activities are carried on, the OfS will take 'activities' to mean the activities that support the provision of higher education, i.e. the delivery of teaching, designing of courses etc., not the learning (it is the location of the provision, not the location of students that will usually be the defining factor).
 - c. Institution. A provider can only be registered if it is an institution providing higher education⁶.
76. In order to determine whether an entity is an institution for these purposes, the OfS will consider the following principles:
- a. An institution is usually, but not necessarily, a distinct legal entity. This is therefore not a conclusive characteristic of an institution.
 - b. An institution can consist of various component parts which together make up a single institution, even where each of the component parts could, or does, form a distinct legal entity.
77. An institution must be able to demonstrate that it can satisfy the initial and ongoing conditions of registration in its own right. Normally, this means that an institution will have all of the following characteristics, which will persist over time:
- its own name and brand identity, which makes it clearly distinguishable from other institutions or entities, to provide transparency for both students and the general public
 - a clearly distinguishable student body for whose teaching the institution is responsible
 - its own distinct governance structure, governing body and governing documents
 - it will not be under the control of another entity which is itself registered with the OfS or which has applied to be so registered

⁶ A provider may be designated as 'an institution' by the Secretary of State under section 84 of HERA. Section 83 of HERA explicitly states that 'institution' includes training providers, as defined in that section. The exception are providers designated by the Secretary of State under section 84 of HERA.

- Its own separate, distinguishable finances that allow for the identification of the institution's income and expenditure, balance sheet and cash flow.
78. It will have all of the above characteristics for legitimate business reasons, a primary or dominant purpose of which is not to enable the entity to be separately registered in the OfS Register.
79. If a provider cannot demonstrate that it has all of these characteristics, it is unlikely to meet the eligibility criteria for registration. If a provider satisfies the majority, but not all, of the characteristics, the principles that the OfS will consider to determine whether an exception should be made, so that the provider is eligible, include, but are not limited to:
- whether separate registration of the provider would provide greater transparency and benefit for students
 - if the institution has historically existed, and for how long
 - whether it appears that the institution is being established with a purpose of avoiding regulation, or elements of it
 - how far registration of the provider would allow for regulatory alignment with other government departments or agencies.
80. An entity (Entity A) will be under the control of another entity (Entity B) if any of the following applies:
- Entity B holds or is entitled to acquire a majority of the shares in Entity A
 - Entity B holds or is entitled to acquire a majority of the voting rights in Entity A
 - Entity B has or is entitled to acquire the right to appoint or remove a majority of the governing body of Entity A
 - Entity B has or is entitled to acquire the right to exercise dominant influence over Entity A by virtue of provisions contained in either entity's constitution or in a contract, memorandum of understanding or other document regulating the entity. Such provisions may include, but are not limited to, the right to approve Entity A's business or financial plan or budget
 - Entity B has or is entitled to acquire the right to a share of more than half the assets in the event of a winding up or in any other circumstances, or of more than half the income or profits, of Entity A
 - Entity A is operated for the primary benefit of Entity B
 - both entities are in common or overlapping ownership or managed on a uniform basis or have a significant number of governors (or the equivalent) in common
 - Entity B has or is entitled to acquire the power, by any other means, to secure that the affairs of Entity A are conducted in accordance with the wishes of Entity B.
81. Where an entity is under the control of another entity the OfS expects that there will be transparency about the ownership, governance and financial viability and sustainability of the controlling entity to the extent that the OfS will be able to gain the same assurance from the controlling entity as it could from any English entity subject to UK laws.
82. Where there is a complex legal form, for example involving overseas control, the OfS may seek specialist advice including corporate intelligence and due diligence work from independent experts about these issues and may charge a fee to the provider for this work. If the fee is not paid, the OfS may decline to consider the application further. The OfS may apply a specific ongoing condition of registration if it is not satisfied that the same level of transparency and assurance over the controlling entity can be achieved as would be the case for any other entity subject to English law.

Providers not incorporated in England

83. It may be possible for a provider to meet the requirement of being an English higher education provider without being a legal entity that is incorporated in England or the United Kingdom. An example might be, where a provider incorporated overseas carries on the majority of its higher education activities in England. As long as the provider can and does comply with the conditions of registration, being incorporated overseas of itself does not prevent registration.
84. Any activities in England will be subject to the relevant law as it applies in England, for example tax and equalities legislation, or HERA. The OfS may impose a specific condition of registration to ensure that a provider will submit to English law and the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of England and Wales in proceedings relating to its English higher education provision (including where this is provided by a subcontractor).
85. There may be particular regulatory risks associated with providers that are not, and/or are not part of, a legal entity incorporated in the UK, which the OfS would take into account when assessing whether or not conditions of registration are satisfied.
86. In doing so, the OfS will consider principles including, but not limited to:
 - a. Whether it has sufficient visibility of the provider's set up, corporate, control and ownership structures. This will, in particular, be relevant when assessing compliance with the conditions of registration that relate to management and governance (and financial sustainability, where a provider's corporate arrangements impact on financial data and information).
 - b. Whether the feasibility of the provider's student protection plan is affected, for instance where funds are held overseas.
87. The OfS will be able to use specific ongoing conditions of registration to address any such risks, for instance to require sufficient financial resources to be held in the United Kingdom.

English providers with overseas activities

88. A provider that is based in England and meets the definition of an English higher education provider may also carry on some activity overseas, for example, by operating an overseas campus where it awards its own English degrees or by delivering distance learning provision to students based outside England. The OfS will regulate such overseas activity on the basis that the obligations of the registered provider extend to students for whom it is the awarding body wherever and however they study. The OfS would not regulate overseas activity where the registered provider is not the awarding body for students based outside England, for example, if it works in partnership with another awarding body that is not itself registered with the OfS. Where such unregulated activity exists, the OfS would, however, take into account any income or costs, or risks to management and governance, to which the registered provider is exposed in relation to any such activities or entities for the purposes of determining whether the registered provider satisfies its ongoing conditions of registration.

Providers not based in England, but currently designated for student support for students ordinarily resident in England

89. Students ordinarily resident in England are eligible to claim student support when attending higher education courses delivered by providers in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. This requires designation of the courses by the Secretary of State for Education under powers in the Teaching and Higher Education Act 1998 (THEA).
90. Under the current arrangements, where providers in Scotland and Northern Ireland are authority funded (i.e. in receipt of funding from the relevant regulator and subject to the associated assurance and compliance regimes), their courses receive automatic designation by way of regulations made under THEA. This process is operated on a reciprocal basis and will continue once the OfS's regulatory framework is fully implemented from 1 August 2019. This means that such providers are not eligible and so do not need to register with the OfS.
91. For students ordinarily resident in England to receive student support at courses delivered by non-authority funded providers in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland (i.e. alternative providers), the provider has to apply for specific course designation from the Secretary of State for Education. These powers will remain in force and enable the designation of such courses for the academic years 2018-19 and 2019-20. This means that such providers are not eligible and so do not need to register with the OfS.

Initial conditions of registration

92. Each registration category has its own initial and ongoing conditions of registration. The conditions of registration for each category are designed to be proportionate taking into account the benefits of that category and the need to protect students.
93. A provider must demonstrate that it satisfies the initial conditions of registration applicable to the category of the Register in which it seeks registration. The OfS may specify different initial conditions of registration for different descriptions of provider, and for different categories of registration.
94. In developing the initial conditions of registration, the OfS has had regard to its general duties as set out in section 2 of HERA.
95. The initial conditions of registration are designed to mitigate the risk that the OfS is not able to deliver its four primary regulatory objectives. The conditions are 'baseline requirements', i.e. the minimum level a provider must achieve to be registered. The conditions are expressed in terms of the outcomes that the OfS wishes to see, rather than the particular approach that a provider might take to achieve such outcomes.
96. Annex A in Part V below sets out the initial conditions of registration and the categories of the Register to which they apply.
97. Each initial condition of registration will become a general ongoing condition of registration when a provider has been registered. This means that a provider is required to satisfy these conditions both as it seeks registration and on an ongoing basis throughout the duration of its registration.

98. With the exceptions of the requirements for access and participation, and for receipt of public grant funding, the initial conditions of registration for providers in each category are the same. This is because all students, regardless of the type or level of funding that their provider receives, should expect their provider to meet minimum baseline requirements.

Registration process

99. A provider seeking registration with the OfS must make a correct application that contains all the required information. The OfS has published guidance that sets out the information about a provider that it requires to be submitted in an application 'Regulatory Advice 2: Registration of current providers for 2019-20', and 'Regulatory Advice 3: Registration of new providers for 2019-20'.
100. With its application, a provider is required to submit evidence that demonstrates that it satisfies the initial conditions of registration that are applicable to the registration category for which it is applying. The OfS will also be entitled to use other evidence that is available to it in assessing the application. The full evidence requirements for current providers seeking registration during 2018 are set out in guidance published in 'Regulatory Advice 2: Registration of current providers for 2019-20'. The full evidence requirements for new providers seeking registration from 2018 are set out in guidance here 'Regulatory Advice 3: Registration of new providers for 2019-20'.

Assessment and risk assessment

101. The OfS will assess a provider's application and relevant evidence to determine whether the provider satisfies the initial conditions of registration. The OfS may seek clarification and further information.
102. Where a provider is subject to the access and participation plan condition, there will be a process of negotiation between the Director for Fair Access and Participation and the provider before a plan is approved to ensure that the plan is sufficiently ambitious, strategic, evidence-informed, and appropriately resourced.
103. The OfS will carry out a formal risk assessment in relation to each of the ongoing conditions of registration in order to determine the extent of the risk that the provider will breach one or more of its general ongoing conditions. The risk of a future breach will be assessed taking into account both the probability of a breach and the potential severity of its impact.
104. The OfS will consider the pattern of risk for the provider as a whole – across all ongoing conditions – to ensure that any regulatory intervention can be tailored specifically to the exact nature of any increased risk. The OfS will also seek to understand the underlying causes of any increase in risk, paying close attention to circumstances where an increased risk in one specific area, or a weak response to that risk, may indicate wider concerns about the provider, for example where there is a concern relating to governance arrangements.
105. The risk assessment of a provider will inform decisions about:
- a. Whether a provider can be registered.
 - b. Which general ongoing conditions of registration are applied to the provider.

- c. Whether specific ongoing conditions of registration should be applied to the provider to mitigate areas of additional or increased risk.
- d. How the OfS intends to approach the ongoing monitoring of that provider.

106. The risk assessment undertaken at the point of registration will not be published on the OfS's Register, but any specific conditions applied as a result of the risk assessment, and the reasons for this, will be published unless the OfS considers it inappropriate to do so.

107. When the OfS has determined that a provider is eligible for registration and that it satisfies the initial conditions of registration, the OfS will determine which general and specific ongoing conditions should apply to that provider. It will do this in accordance with the requirements of the registration category in which the provider will be registered and on the basis of its risk assessment.

108. HERA allows the OfS to decide that one or more of the general ongoing conditions of registration may be disapplied for an individual provider when the provider is first registered or thereafter. In determining whether this would be appropriate, the OfS will give due consideration to those conditions that are fundamental to ensuring that student outcomes and interests are protected and that allow the OfS to carry out its regulatory function effectively.⁷ The expectation is that ongoing conditions will seldom be disapplied, as they are all closely aligned with protecting students.

109. If the OfS decides to register a provider it will list the provider in the relevant category of the Register.

Representations when the OfS intends to refuse registration

110. If the OfS intends to refuse an application for registration it must follow the procedure set out in HERA. The OfS must first notify the governing body of a provider of its intention to refuse registration and the reasons for this. It must set out the method and timeframe (which must not be less than 28 days from when notification is received) for the governing body of the provider to make representations about the intention to refuse to register the provider. The OfS must consider these representations before making its decision and must inform the provider of its decision. If the decision is to register the provider, the OfS will confirm the provider's date of entry to the Register and the ongoing conditions of registration that will apply. If the decision is to refuse registration, the OfS must set out the grounds for refusal.

111. If a provider fails to meet the registration requirements, it may reapply to the OfS for registration once it has taken action to address any areas of non-compliance.

⁷ Specific conditions can be applied on registration, or set later by following the procedure as laid out in section 6 of HERA. This risk assessment will have at its core the requirements of each ongoing condition, along with the other general duties to which the OfS must have regard, as set out in section 2 of HERA.

Requirements to remain registered

Ongoing general conditions of registration

112. When the OfS grants an application for registration for a provider, it will apply:

- a. The mandatory general ongoing conditions of registration.
- b. The general ongoing conditions of registration that apply to the registration category for which the provider has applied.
- c. Any specific ongoing conditions of registration that the OfS considers desirable to mitigate increased risk of a future breach of general ongoing conditions.

113. To remain registered, a provider must continue to meet the definition of ‘an English higher education provider’ and must demonstrate that it satisfies the ongoing general conditions of registration applicable to the category of the Register in which it is registered. It must also satisfy any specific ongoing conditions that have been applied. Likewise, the OfS will have regard to its general duties in applying any ongoing specific condition of registration.

114. In developing the general ongoing conditions of registration, the OfS has had regard to its general duties as set out in section 2 of HERA.

115. The general ongoing conditions of registration, and the categories of the Register to which they apply, are set out in Annex A.

116. As with the initial conditions of registration, the general conditions in each of the approved categories are the same, with the exceptions of the requirements for access and participation and for receipt of public grant funding.

117. HERA allows the OfS to decide that one or more of the general ongoing conditions of registration may be disapplied for an individual provider when the provider is first registered or thereafter. In determining whether this would be appropriate, the OfS will give due consideration to those conditions that are fundamental to ensuring that student outcomes and interests are protected and that allow the OfS to carry out its regulatory functions effectively. The expectation is that ongoing conditions will seldom be dis-applied, as they are all closely aligned with protecting students.

The OfS’s approach to risk assessment for registered providers

118. HERA requires the OfS to perform its functions in relation to a registered higher education provider in proportion to the OfS’s assessment of the regulatory risk posed by the provider. The OfS’s assessment of a provider’s risk is therefore a critical component of its regulatory approach.

119. The sections that follow set out the OfS’s approach to risk assessment and the way that this will operate for registered providers. In developing this approach the need to identify and respond to increased risk, before it crystallises and conditions of registration are breached, has been taken into account.

120. Underpinning this approach to risk assessment is an expectation that registered providers will behave responsibly, transparently and collaboratively. They will be expected to provide sufficient and reliable data and information on an ongoing basis (or as requested by the OfS to follow up on changes in a provider's risk profile). The OfS's approach will be based on cooperation with regulated providers, in the best interests of students.
121. Individual providers, that become aware of areas of increased risk, will be expected to bring these to the attention of the OfS before it becomes aware of these through its own monitoring processes. This includes the requirement to notify the OfS of particular 'reportable events' but also extends to any area in which the risk of a breach of an ongoing condition of registration has increased. The provider would not be expected to highlight all risks but to demonstrate sound judgement about when it considers that mitigation may not be sufficient to prevent a breach of an ongoing general or specific condition. If a provider fails to behave transparently the OfS will take the provider's behaviour into account in the context of the provider's ongoing management and governance condition.

Risk profile for an individual provider

122. The formal risk assessment carried out for a provider when it is first registered will be expressed in a risk profile covering each of the general ongoing conditions applicable to that provider. The risk profile will be updated as necessary as a result of ongoing monitoring activity. Through this mechanism, the OfS will maintain an audit trail of its evolving assessment of risk for an individual provider and the actions taken in response to any increase or decrease in risk.
123. The individual risk profile will ensure that the OfS is able to focus its monitoring activity on any areas of increased risk and apply specific conditions of registration where these are deemed desirable to mitigate particular areas of risk. It will ensure that the OfS has a view of risk across all of the ongoing conditions that apply to an individual provider.
124. The OfS will pay particular attention to providers with a risk profile that suggests one or more of the following:
- a. An increased risk across a number of areas.
 - b. An actual or possible breach of one or more of its ongoing conditions.
 - c. A breach with a severe impact on students is more likely than is typical.
125. Such providers are likely to be subject to significant intervention by the OfS, until such time as increased risk has effectively been mitigated and/or a breach resolved.
126. OfS will not assign an overall summative 'risk rating' or classification for an individual provider (i.e. it will not divide providers into high risk/medium risk/low risk, or apply RAG ratings). Such an approach would artificially group providers with diverse types of risks and differing probability of a breach of conditions and would therefore not be a useful comparative tool.
127. The OfS does not intend to publish its risk assessments or the risk profiles for individual providers. Such information could be erroneously treated as equivalent to judgements on a provider's quality and have an unnecessary reputational impact. Publication could in fact be harmful to the OfS's ability to carry out its regulatory functions, for example, by creating confusion, giving providers insights that allow them a commercial advantage, or affecting the OfS's ongoing relationships with providers.

Monitoring of risk for registered providers

128. The OfS will monitor registered providers to ensure that any increased risk of a breach of one or more ongoing conditions of registration can be identified and decisive action taken before the risk crystallises into a breach, allowing the OfS to limit the exposure of students and taxpayers.

129. There are two levels of monitoring activity to allow the OfS to respond proportionately to the regulatory risks posed by regulated providers and enable early identification of changes in risk levels:

a. General monitoring of all providers, based on:

- i. Lead indicators (indicators constructed from data and information flows, in as near real time as possible, that will assist the OfS to identify trends and anticipate future events).
- ii. 'Reportable events' (a requirement to notify the OfS of material decisions/issues/changes).
- iii. Other intelligence and information obtained by the OfS, such as from whistleblowing or student complaints.

b. Enhanced monitoring and/or engagement in areas in which:

- iv. Increased risk has been identified through an initial risk assessment or a revision to a risk assessment as a result of general monitoring.
- v. There has been a suspected or actual breach of one or more conditions of registration.

130. In addition, the OfS will use findings from its activities to monitor the higher education sector more broadly to inform its risk assessment for an individual provider or groups of providers.

131. Table 6 provides an overview of the range of measures which will inform the OfS's monitoring of risk for registered providers.

Approach to general monitoring

132. The approach to general monitoring is designed to identify where further investigation is necessary to identify whether risk has increased in any particular area for an individual provider. The OfS will use 'lead indicators' constructed from regularly obtained reliable data from providers and others, alongside 'reportable events' that providers must report to the OfS. It will also make use of wider strategic intelligence relating to the sector and/or individual providers, where appropriate, including whistleblowing and student complaints.
133. Where these sources of information suggest that further investigation is necessary, the OfS will engage with the provider to seek further information and make a judgement about whether the risk of a breach has increased. The OfS will consider whether action is necessary and being taken by the provider. The purpose of this dialogue will be to obtain assurance about whether the provider continues to satisfy its conditions of registration and to reassess the extent of the risk of a future breach. Regulatory intervention, such as the imposition of specific conditions, will not usually be taken only and immediately on the basis of the lead indicators themselves, but after the OfS has established through further assessment that the risk of a breach has increased. Sanctions will not be applied unless one or more conditions have been breached.
134. The OfS will not systematically reassess the compliance of each provider with each of its conditions of registration on a scheduled cyclical basis, other than as a result of random sampling. This targeted approach to monitoring allows the OfS to discharge its duty to have regard to the need to use its resources in an efficient, effective and economic way.
135. As it conducts its monitoring activities, the OfS will update as necessary the risk profile for an individual provider. For example, notification of a 'reportable event' would prompt a further risk assessment of that provider in relation to its ongoing conditions of registration.

Lead indicators

136. The OfS will identify a small number of lead indicators that will provide signals of change in a provider's circumstances or performance. Such change may signal that the OfS needs to consider whether the provider is at increased risk of a breach of one or more of its ongoing conditions of registration. These indicators will be based on regular flows of reliable data and information from providers and additional data sources, and will include information about outcomes for students from different backgrounds. Lead indicators are likely to include, but not be limited to, the following:
- overall student numbers and patterns that might suggest unplanned and/or unmanaged growth or contraction
 - applications, offers and acceptances for students with different characteristics
 - changes in student entry requirements and the qualifications profile of students on entry.
 - continuation and completion rates
 - TEF performance
 - degree and other outcomes, including differential outcomes for students with different characteristics, or where there is an unexpected and/or unexplained increase in the number of firsts and 2:1s awarded
 - the number, nature or pattern of student complaints to the OIA
 - graduate employment and, in particular, progression to professional jobs and postgraduate study

- composite financial viability and sustainability indicators based on annual financial statements and forecasts.

137. The lead indicators are likely to show changes that might not, in themselves, reveal areas of weakness or concern for an individual provider, but simply flag possible increased risk, such as a rapid increase or decrease in student numbers. The OfS will not use crude ‘triggers’ or performance thresholds to monitor risk, preferring a more flexible approach that takes into account the context for an individual provider.
138. Absolute performance against an indicator will form part of the overall context for assessing risk. For example, when monitoring continuation rates, a decrease for an individual provider could mean performance had worsened. However, levels of absolute performance need to be considered in the context of performance across the sector as a whole and might be considered to be of less concern in the wider context.
139. The OfS will seek to ensure that the selection and specification of lead indicators allow the identification of possible increased risk before this crystallises. Indicators that provide strong signals of likely future risk (for example significant shifts during the student recruitment cycle) and data trends over time will be more useful than data that retrospectively reveals where problems have already occurred (unless those problems have not previously been identified).
140. The OfS will ensure that its lead indicators allow it to monitor a provider’s performance for all students from all backgrounds, for example by splitting student outcome indicators for different student characteristics. The OfS will also pay particular attention to outcomes achieved for students studying at different levels and in different modes (e.g. undergraduate/postgraduate).
141. The OfS will evaluate whether its selection of indicators remains effective in identifying increased risk, and will ensure the range of indicators provides sufficient coverage of the areas of regulatory concern. While the starting point is to use the same set of indicators for all providers, the OfS will consider whether different indicators should be used for providers with different characteristics.
142. The provision of reliable and timely data by providers to the OfS and the DDB is central to achieving a risk-based and proportionate approach to monitoring and regulation. The implementation of the OfS’s data strategy may initially increase regulatory burden, but the long term aim is to use data to reduce regulatory burden. Such data requirements are not therefore intended as a regulatory burden on providers but to provide the information that allows the OfS to be an effective and proportionate regulator. It is anticipated that this data will be largely quantitative and generated as a result of a provider’s existing management functions, minimising the burden on providers and allowing for greater consistency, comparability and objectivity when looking across a range of providers. The OfS’s data strategy will address these issues.

Reportable events

143. Providers will be required to notify the OfS of certain types of changes or events that would not usually be picked up by data flows alone. The OfS will publish guidance on the events it requires registered providers to report.

144. Reporting of such changes or events may prompt the OfS to undertake a reassessment of risk in relation to one or more of a provider's ongoing conditions of registration. The OfS will then use this risk assessment to determine whether any further regulatory action is required, such as the imposition of specific conditions of registration and/or increased monitoring. For example, the OfS might reassess the financial sustainability of a provider, and the effectiveness of governance arrangements, if it is notified that a merger is taking place. Similarly, in response to a change of ownership, the OfS would investigate the new owner, consider its suitability to own an English higher education provider, and reassess the risk presented by the provider.

Other sources of information about particular providers

145. The OfS will also draw on information volunteered by providers and others, including whistle blowers, as well as any wider experience it gains through other contact with that provider.

146. The OfS will seek input from students – this may be insights from lead indicators from the national student surveys, complaints raised with the OIA, or by inviting information from individual students and student bodies.

Random sampling

147. The OfS will seek confirmation that all systemic risks are being identified by its routine approach to the monitoring of individual providers. The OfS will operate a process to reassess providers' compliance with their ongoing conditions of registration and will do this for a random sample of providers each year.

148. Although random sampling will afford the OfS the opportunity to check risk or compliance with conditions at a provider level, its main purpose is to provide:

- a. Assurance about the effectiveness of ongoing monitoring approaches – by comparing findings from random sampling against findings from ongoing general monitoring, the OfS will better understand the effectiveness of its overall approach and decide whether changes to its approach might be required.
- b. Incentives – by moving from scheduled cyclical reviews to a random sampling approach, it is anticipated that providers will be incentivised to ensure that they satisfy conditions of registration on an ongoing basis.
- c. Understanding of sectoral practice – reviewing in detail how individual providers meet their conditions will help the OfS identify and recognise good practice.

149. The initial probability of a provider being identified by random sampling will be equal across all providers, regardless of risk assessment and the conditions (ongoing or specific) in place for each of them. To maintain proportionality, no provider will be subject to further selection by random sampling if it has been sampled during the previous three years.

150. The OfS will begin by sampling five per cent of all registered providers each year. The probability of being assessed will increase incrementally for each year in which a provider is not sampled. The systemic benefits of uncertainty are intended to promote the desired provider behaviours, while creating a more proportionate system overall.

151. The sample pool will be categorised, with providers of different kinds grouped so that the sample in each year represents the diversity of the sector (e.g. by different legal forms or different categories on the Register).
152. The OfS will use the assessments undertaken through this process to confirm that a provider continues to satisfy its ongoing conditions of registration, to update the individual provider's risk profile, and to put in place any specific conditions or enhanced monitoring required. Through random sampling, the OfS will better understand the extent to which it is able to identify increased risk through monitoring. If significant new issues are identified by this process, the OfS will refine its overall approach to provider monitoring.

Efficiency studies

153. Section 69 of HERA enables the OfS to conduct efficiency and effectiveness studies in the management or operations of a registered provider. This is designed to allow the OfS to ensure that providers are delivering value for money for students and taxpayers.
154. The OfS will deploy this power as part of its risk-based approach to regulation. If it has concerns about the efficiency or effectiveness of a particular provider identified through its risk monitoring and risk assessment processes, it may carry out a study to investigate whether the provider is providing value for money to both students and taxpayers. The OfS may work collaboratively with providers across the sector, to benchmark efficient performance and highlight areas of good practice, benefitting students, providers and the public purse more generally.

Monitoring for other purposes

155. The OfS will undertake monitoring activity for purposes beyond its regulation of individual providers. For example, the OfS is required under section 38 of HERA to monitor student transfers, and under section 68 to monitor the financial sustainability of the sector. In collecting information for these purposes the OfS will, where possible, seek to rely on the same data and information, statements and forecasts collected for its routine monitoring of individual providers and will follow the general principles of proportionality.
156. Audited financial statements and financial forecasts will usually give the OfS sufficient data and information to monitor and report on the financial sustainability of the relevant providers. It is therefore not the intention to normally ask for any additional information or data from providers to enable the OfS to fulfil its duty under section 68 of HERA (there may be exceptions, such as when data returns are incomplete or unreliable).
157. When compiling the financial sustainability summary for its annual report, the OfS will take into account any wider developments and external factors it is aware of, such as changes in the costs of borrowing.
158. The responsibility for monitoring the 'Prevent duty' in the higher education sector, as set out in the Counter Terrorism and Security Act 2015 (CTSA), is currently held by the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) and will be transferred to the OfS. This allows for effective monitoring of providers' compliance with the duty and the action to be taken if they fail to comply.

Exempt charity status

159. Most higher education providers hold charitable status. Some are registered with, and regulated directly by, the Charity Commission. However, many are 'exempt charities', exempt from registration with and direct regulation by the Charity Commission. Exempt charities have a Principal Regulator appointed whose duty is to promote compliance with charity law by the charities they regulate.
160. From 1 April 2018, the OfS will succeed HEFCE as the Principal Regulator for higher education providers that are exempt charities. The OfS will discharge its obligations as Principal Regulator as part of its routine monitoring activities.

Interventions

161. This section explains how the OfS will make use of its powers of intervention in circumstances in which it perceives there to be an increased risk of a provider breaching one or more of its ongoing conditions of registration, or when such a breach has occurred.

162. The OfS has a range of interventions at its disposal:

- a. Enhanced monitoring of providers.
- b. Imposition of specific ongoing conditions of registration.
- c. Imposition of formal sanctions:
 - i. Monetary penalties.
 - ii. Suspension from the Register.
 - iii. Deregistration.

163. The use of the OfS's intervention powers will be subject to the requirements of its own internal governance arrangements.

164. The OfS may also use interventions that relate specifically to access and participation plans (refusal to agree a new access and participation plan) and degree awarding powers and university title (variation or revocation of degree awarding powers and revocation of university title).

165. The OfS will usually intervene when there is, or has been, a breach of an ongoing condition of registration, or when it perceives that the risk of a breach is increased. The OfS will use its risk assessment, and a provider's risk profile, in deciding whether an intervention is required and, if so, which form(s) that intervention should take. The OfS's response will be proportionate and relevant to the risk it is seeking to mitigate. The OfS may only impose a sanction where there is, or has been, a breach of one or more of a provider's conditions of registration.

166. The OfS must have regard to its general duties under section 2 of HERA when deciding whether and how to intervene. In particular, the OfS will be required to take into account the need to use its resources in an efficient, effective and economic way and follow best regulatory practice by ensuring its actions are:

- a. Prioritised: the OfS will focus on matters that pose a risk of harm, especially to the interests of students or taxpayers.
- b. Proportionate: the OfS will take all the relevant circumstances into account and take action which is proportionate to the severity of the risk or breach, the culpability and behaviour of the provider, and the impact on students.
- c. Targeted: the OfS will take action to address the particular risks that are posed by the provider.

- d. Transparent: the OfS will clearly set out the intervention process, the action it is taking and the reasons for this. For entry and search, and specific ongoing conditions and sanctions, this will be as described in the relevant provisions of HERA and should include a provider's right to appeal. As set out above, in the section on the Register, the OfS will publish information about interventions for an individual provider.
- e. Accountable: the OfS will be accountable for the decisions it makes and explain to relevant providers the reasons for taking these decisions.

Intervention factors

167. The OfS will consider a range of factors before deciding whether to intervene, and if so, which form that intervention should take. Not all factors will be relevant in every circumstance, and the OfS will consider the relevant factors in the round when making its decision. The factors include:

- a. How significant the risk of a breach is, on the basis of its likelihood and the severity of the impact of the breach should it occur. An intervention is more likely where the OfS considers the risk of breach to be significant, or when a breach has already occurred.
- b. The actual or likely severity of the impact of a breach (either from a single instance or a number of instances). An intervention is more likely where: the impact on students is significant (e.g. student study is disrupted, there are breaches to the student contract, a large number of students are affected); the taxpayer's interests have been severely affected (costs have increased affecting value for money); or there is reputational damage to the sector as a whole (and considering fairness to providers that did comply).
- c. The impact of an intervention on students. Where the use of an intervention would have a materially negative impact on students and their experience, the OfS is more likely to decide to use enhanced monitoring or a specific ongoing conditions of registration to address the issue.
- d. The nature of the increased risk or breach and whether a particular intervention would be effective in mitigating the risk or remedying the breach.
- e. How the OfS became aware of the increased risk or breach. An intervention is more likely where the provider has not notified the OfS and the OfS has become aware from other sources, such as through its own regulatory activity, whistleblowing, or media reporting.
- f. How long the underlying causes of the increased risk or the breach have existed and the extent to which these occurred deliberately or recklessly, or whether there is dishonesty involved. An intervention is more likely where the issues are longstanding, the provider has been deliberate or reckless or where issues have been concealed.
- g. Steps taken by the provider to mitigate the increased risk or remedy the breach. An intervention is more likely to be used where a provider has not provided sufficient evidence that it has taken reasonable steps to mitigate an increased risk or prevent or remedy a breach.

- h. The likelihood that a breach could happen again, including the provider's history of regulatory compliance. An intervention is more likely to be used where a provider has a history of non-compliance or the OfS has concerns that a breach could happen again.
- i. The extent to which the provider cooperates with the OfS's investigations and enquiries. An intervention is more likely where a provider does not fully cooperate with the OfS.
- j. Any gain (financial or otherwise) made by the provider as a result of the increased risk or the breach. An intervention is more likely where a provider has gained from increased risk or non-compliance.
- k. The provider's behaviour. An intervention is more likely when increased risk of a breach or a breach is as a result of the provider acting deliberately or recklessly; failing to act, or acting dishonestly or seeking to cover-up information.
- l. The action that the regulator has taken in previous similar cases. An intervention is more likely where the OfS has intervened in a previous similar case.
- m. Any action taken by another regulator to remedy the increased risk or breach. An intervention is more likely to be used where an increased risk or a breach is not being remedied by another regulator's actions.
- n. The extent to which any increased risk or breach has created a lack of confidence in the higher education sector. An intervention is more likely where action taken by a provider or a group of providers has undermined confidence in the higher education sector and therefore affected providers that have complied.

Types of intervention

168. The OfS has a range of interventions available to it, described below. Alongside these interventions, there are other tools that the OfS will use to encourage compliance, but which are not considered direct 'interventions' for individual providers. For example, the OfS can ask for clarification or further information, and may publish any information that it deems relevant about an individual provider, or about the sector as a whole.

Enhanced monitoring and/or investigation

169. The OfS may put in place more frequent or more intensive monitoring requirements of a provider. For example:

- a. If the OfS considers a provider to be at increased risk of a breach of the financial viability and sustainability condition it could require the provider to submit copies of its monthly management accounts to allow the OfS to monitor the financial position more closely.
- a. If a provider is merging with another provider, the OfS may wish to discuss progress with the provider on a regular basis to identify any signs of increased risk.

170. The OfS may also take targeted action if it needs to establish the facts before reaching a judgement about whether there is, or is likely to be, a breach of one or more ongoing conditions of registration. Relying on general ongoing condition F3, the OfS:

- b. May require a provider to provide additional data or information to allow the OfS to assess the extent to which the risk of a breach has increased. In such circumstances, the OfS will notify the provider's governing body in writing of the additional data or information required, the reasons for this requirement, and what the data and/or information will be used for.
- c. Will allow a reasonable timescale for submission of this data or information. The timescale will be set following consultation with the provider where appropriate, and will be informed by the urgency of the circumstances, whether the provider has the data or information available or needs to collect or prepare it before supplying it to the OfS.
- d. May investigate specific concerns, which may involve, but not be limited to:
 - i. Investigation using data audit or other appropriate methods.
 - ii. Requiring information to be re-audited by a specified auditor, where the OfS has reasonable concern that the audit opinion does not provide the necessary assurance.
- e. May require the provider to take particular co-operative action by a specified deadline – these actions may include access to, information (including data), records or people, to enable the OfS to investigate any concerns effectively and efficiently.

171. The OfS will aim to notify the provider of the outcome of any investigation and/or consideration of the provider's response within 15 working days of the conclusion of the investigation unless there are circumstances which mean that this is not possible.

Powers of entry and search

172. The OfS may use its powers of entry and search as set out in section 61 and schedule 5 of HERA, to investigate suspected serious breaches of a provider's ongoing conditions of registration or its OfS funding or student support funding conditions. In order to exercise this power, the OfS must seek and obtain a magistrate's warrant. As set out in Schedule 5, a magistrate would need to be satisfied that four tests are met before granting a warrant, as follows:

- a. That the OfS has reasonable grounds for suspecting that there is, or has been, a breach of a condition of registration or funding condition of the provider.
- b. That the suspected breach is sufficiently serious to justify entering the premises.
- c. That entry to the premises is necessary to determine whether the suspected breach is taking place or has taken place.
- d. That entry to the premises has been, or it is likely to be, refused or requesting entry may frustrate or seriously prejudice the purpose of entry.

173. The OfS will exercise these powers rarely and only in exceptional circumstances where it appears to the OfS that its usual investigation methods would not be effective, for example where there is reason to believe that relevant information would be destroyed or interfered with if requested in the usual way or if the provider has not complied with prior requests for information or cooperation.

Specific ongoing conditions of registration

174. The OfS may decide to impose a specific ongoing condition where it considers that a provider presents a specific risk that is not addressed by a general ongoing condition; to mitigate an increased risk that a provider may breach an ongoing condition of registration; or to prevent or remedy a breach. The specific ongoing condition will be targeted to mitigate the specific risk that is posed and will be focused on actions or activities by the provider that the OfS may require, or prohibit, to ensure that the provider is able to satisfy its ongoing conditions of registration.
175. The OfS could impose a variety of specific ongoing conditions on an individual provider. Some examples are set out below:
- a. To notify the OfS before a provider undertakes an activity/ takes action. For example, where a provider has had financial sustainability issues which have resulted in a dip in its surpluses, a specific ongoing condition could require that the provider inform the OfS before it enters into large financial commitments.
 - b. To specify action to be taken before the provider can undertake an activity. For example, where there have been poor employability rates of students at a provider, a specific ongoing condition could require the provider to improve its employment outcomes before it can increase the number of students it recruits.
 - c. To limit a provider's activity. For example, where forecast student number growth risks having a significant negative impact on quality and the student experience due to the overstretching of a provider's finances and resources, a specific ongoing condition might require the provider to have a student number control.
 - d. To specify action to be taken to ensure that the provider makes sufficient progress towards agreed targets. For example, where a provider has set itself a target within its access and participation plan to increase access for a defined group of students, but is considered by the OfS to be neither making sufficient progress towards the target nor taking necessary action to make such progress.
176. Section 6 of HERA sets out the process by which the OfS will vary or remove a specific condition of registration, or impose a new specific ongoing condition. The OfS will notify the provider's governing body of its intention. This notification will include:
- a. The reason for proposing to take the step in question.
 - b. The period during which the governing body of the provider may make representations about the proposal, the way in which those representations may be made and the deadline for making any such representations (this will not be less than 28 days beginning with the date on which the notice is received).
177. If the provider's governing body makes any representations by the deadline, the OfS will have regard to these in deciding whether to vary, remove or impose the specific ongoing condition(s) of registration. The OfS will then inform the provider's governing body of its decision and the date when it takes effect. In addition, the OfS will inform the provider's governing body about:
- a. How it will monitor the provider's compliance with any varied or new specific ongoing condition of registration.

- b. What the provider needs to do, or not do, to provide the OfS with sufficient assurance and confidence to remove the condition.

Monetary penalties

178. The OfS is empowered by HERA to impose a monetary penalty instead of, or in addition to, other sanctions. This sanction may be appropriate where, for example, a provider has engaged in one of the following practices: deliberately or negligently breached its ongoing conditions of registration; been dishonest and concealed information; benefitted financially from failing to comply with its ongoing conditions of registration (for example by failing to ensure necessary resourcing); or had repeated breaches. The OfS would take into account the severity of the impact of any monetary penalty, especially on the provider's students.
179. The Secretary of State will set out in regulations the matters to which the OfS must/must not have regard when imposing a monetary penalty and the penalty amount.
180. If the OfS intends to impose a monetary penalty, it will notify the provider's governing body of this intention and the amount of, and reason for, the proposed penalty. The provider will have a specified period to make representations, which must be not be less than 28 days from the date when the notice is received by the provider. The OfS must have regard to these representations in taking a final decision about the monetary penalty. At the end of that process the OfS may issue a penalty, specifying the amount and the period within which it must be paid. If the provider disagrees with the decision to impose the penalty, or the amount of the penalty, the provider can appeal to the First Tier Tribunal. The requirement to pay the penalty is suspended at any time when an appeal could be brought or such an appeal is pending. An appeal can be made on one or more of the following grounds:
- a. The decision is based on a factual error.
 - b. That it is wrong in law.
 - c. That it is unreasonable.
181. There are four possible outcomes of an appeal. The Tribunal may:
- a. Withdraw the requirement to pay the penalty.
 - b. Confirm that requirement.
 - c. Vary that requirement.
 - d. Remit the decision whether to confirm the requirement to pay the penalty, or any matter relating to that decision, to the OfS.

Suspension of registration

182. The OfS may decide to suspend a provider's registration (or suspend some of elements of its registration), in the event of a breach of an ongoing condition of registration, to immediately reduce the impact of the breach on students or taxpayers. During the suspension, the provider will be expected to take remedial action (secured through the imposition of specific conditions of registration), with the OfS lifting the suspension once it is satisfied that the breach has been remedied.

183. An example of where suspension might be appropriate is where a particular course has very weak retention rates or with few students progressing to professional jobs or postgraduate study. Following investigation, it is apparent that changes need to be made to the course design. The provider has breached one of its ongoing conditions, but will be able to remedy the breach. To prevent more students from being affected, and to ensure that the provider takes action to remedy the breach, the OfS may decide to suspend the provider's recruitment of new students to the relevant course until remedial action is taken.
184. The OfS will usually notify the provider's governing body of the intention to suspend its registration, including:
- a. The purposes for which the provider is not to be treated as a registered higher education provider during the suspensions.
 - b. The remedial conditions that the provider needs to meet in order to restore registration.
 - c. The period of time (not fewer than 28 days from receipt of the notification) to make any representations.
 - d. The way in which representations may be made.
185. The OfS will have regard to any representations made by the deadline in deciding whether to suspend the provider's registration. The OfS will notify the provider's governing body of its final decision and this notification will include the date on which the suspension takes effect, the excepted purposes, the remedial conditions (if any) and confirmation as to the grounds for suspension.
186. Where the OfS considers there to be an urgent need to protect public money (e.g. due to the material risk of fraud or the misuse of public funds), the OfS will suspend registration with immediate effect and notify the governing body of the suspension – the notification will include the same information as required for OfS's notification of a final decision.
187. The suspension will remain in place for as long as is necessary to resolve the issues that led to the suspension. Resolution of these issues may be through further investigation (i.e. an intervention) and could lead to further sanctions, as appropriate, or restoration of registration.

Deregistration

188. HERA sets out the circumstances in which the OfS has the power to deregister a provider. One of the following two conditions must be met:
- a. Where the OfS has previously imposed a monetary penalty or suspended the provider in relation to a breach of one of its ongoing conditions of registration and it appears to the OfS that there is again a breach, or a continuing breach, of that condition or there is or has been a breach of a different condition.
 - b. Where it appears to the OfS that there is, or has been, a breach of one of the provider's ongoing conditions of registration and that a monetary penalty or suspension is insufficient to deal with the breach.
189. The OfS may decide to deregister a provider where the risk to the student or taxpayer is so serious that using another sanction would not be sufficient. Before deciding to deregister a provider the OfS will consider, in particular, the impact of deregistration on the provider's students.

190. A provider must also be removed from the Register where the OfS becomes aware that the provider no longer is, or no longer intends to become, an English higher education provider.
191. A provider may request to be removed from the Register on a voluntary basis, as set out in section 22 of HERA, for example, where a provider chooses to exit the market. In such cases, the governing body of the provider must formally apply to the OfS, setting out why it wishes to be deregistered and when it would like the deregistration to come into effect. The OfS will normally deregister the provider on the date requested, unless such a date gives insufficient time to deregister the provider in an orderly fashion and without impact on the provider's students. If the OfS is minded to alter the date of deregistration from that requested, it will usually seek to agree this with the provider. Under section 22 of HERA, the OfS must then remove the provider from the Register, but is obliged to keep a list of providers removed from the Register in this way. This will be part of other, historic information the OfS will make available.
192. If a provider is deregistered, or suspended from the Register to the extent that students cannot complete their courses, the provider's student protection plan would be triggered.
193. Where the OfS has determined that it is necessary to deregister a provider, it will notify the provider's governing body of the intention to remove its registration, including:
 - a. The reasons for proposing to remove the provider from the Register.
 - b. The period of time (not fewer than 28 days from receipt of the notification) to make any representations.
 - c. The way in which representations may be made.
194. The OfS will have regard to any representations made by the deadline in deciding whether to remove the provider's registration. The OfS will notify the provider's governing body of its final decision and, if it decides to deregister the provider, this notification will include the date on which the removal takes effect and information about the grounds for removal, rights of appeal and the period within which the appeal may be made.
195. A provider that OfS is proposing to remove from the Register has a right of appeal against the decision itself and the date of removal from the Register. The provider may appeal to the First Tier Tribunal. A provider can make an appeal on the following grounds:
 - a. That the decision was based on an error of fact.
 - b. Was wrong in law.
 - c. Was unreasonable.
196. There are four possible outcomes of an appeal. The Tribunal may:
 - a. Withdraw the removal.
 - b. Confirm the removal

- c. Vary the date on which the removal takes effect
- d. Remit the decision whether to confirm the removal, or any matter relating to that decision, to the OfS.

Refusal to approve an access and participation plan

197. Section 21 of HERA sets out a power for the OfS to refuse to approve an access and participation plan for a provider for a specified period after a plan that is currently in force has expired. This sanction may be applied where in the view of the OfS, the provider has failed to comply with a general provision of its current plan or with its mandatory fee limit condition. Section 12 of HERA states that a provider should not be regarded as having breached an equality of opportunity provision of its plan if it can show that it has taken all reasonable steps to comply with it.
198. The expectation is that, where the OfS has concerns in relation to access and participation plans, it will consider the intervention factors as set out above and will, in exceptional circumstances, consider use of the power to refuse to agree a new access and participation plan alongside its range of other interventions.
199. In those circumstances the OfS will notify the provider that it will refuse to approve a new plan after the current one comes to an end. That refusal may last for a period that the OfS specifies in a notice. The Secretary of State will make regulations about the matters the OfS must take into account in deciding whether or not to refuse to approve a plan, and the procedure it should follow when giving notice of refusal and the effect that the notice has.

Sanctions and interventions for providers with degree awarding powers and university title

200. HERA gives the OfS powers to vary or revoke degree awarding powers, and to revoke university title. These sanctions may be used regardless of how and when the provider obtained degree awarding powers or university title, and applies whether or not a provider is registered.

Transitional or Saving Provision (including teach out)

201. Should a provider be deregistered, the OfS may put in place transitional arrangements or a 'saving provision' in particular to protect the interests of students. This means that a provider may continue to be treated as a registered higher education provider following deregistration, for purposes specified by the OfS, for a transitional period. Such provision may allow a deregistered provider's existing students to continue to access student support, where the quality and standards of the provider's provision are adequate and it is in the students' interest to remain at the provider. The provider would be required to meet its continuing obligations to its students for the ordinary duration of (or until withdrawal from) their course. This is called a 'teach out' period. Under these circumstances, the OfS will notify the governing body of its intention to allow the provider to continue to deliver courses to its current students for a specified period and that no new students are allowed to be registered. The OfS will set out the conditions that will apply to the provider and the processes that it will need to follow during this specified period.

PART IV – Validation, degree awarding powers and university title

Validation

202. The OfS will undertake an assessment of the operation of the current validation system to identify any unnecessary barriers for providers seeking a validation partner, or any areas of current practice that are not in the interests of students. Where it is possible to intervene to remove or mitigate such barriers, and to ensure that students are protected, the OfS will take action at a sector-wide level. This might include increasing transparency of the operation of validation system or setting out exemplar validation arrangements to help informed negotiation between prospective validators and providers that seek validation. Where the OfS concludes that such interventions are not sufficient to secure improvements it deems necessary in the operation of the validation system, it will make use of its powers under section 50 of HERA to enter into commissioning arrangements. It may also ask the Secretary of State to make regulations under section 51 of HERA to authorise the OfS to enter into validation agreements with registered higher education providers itself.

Commissioning arrangements

203. The OfS has been granted powers to enter into commissioning arrangements with registered providers requiring those providers to offer to enter into validation arrangements in respect of some or all of the taught awards they are authorised to grant. For the purposes of section 50 of HERA, ‘validation arrangements’ are arrangements between one registered higher education provider and another registered provider under which the first provider:

- a. Grants a taught award to a person who is a student at the other provider.
- b. Authorises the other provider to grant a taught award on behalf of the first provider.

204. The OfS cannot force a provider to enter into a commissioning arrangement, and it will only enter into a commissioning arrangement with a provider that has the knowledge, experience, and intellectual capital to award the relevant qualifications. Such a provider must have the necessary degree awarding powers to award those qualifications.

205. To put in place commissioning arrangements, the OfS will:

- a. Seek expressions of interest from qualified registered providers willing to enter into a commissioning arrangement.
- b. Assess the expressions of interest against published criteria that include the appropriateness of the provider to address the gaps in validation provision that the OfS has identified.
- c. Select one or more suitable providers to provide the required validation services.
- d. Set out the terms and conditions that apply to the commissioning arrangements in a ‘commissioning agreement’ between the OfS and the selected provider.

206. The OfS may use its powers to fund registered providers under section 39 of HERA to incentivise appropriate providers to enter into commissioning arrangements.

Validation by the OfS

207. If authorised by regulations made under section 51, the OfS will consult on the most appropriate way in which to exercise this function. It is expected that the OfS would operate a validation service similarly to other validators, to the extent that this is consistent with any conditions in the regulations. Therefore, it is expected that the OfS would enter into contractual validation agreements with individual providers. Students would be taught by their provider, with the OfS having no involvement in day to day teaching. However, as the OfS will act as the degree awarding body, it will be responsible for the academic standards of any awards granted in its name, and for the quality of the academic experience.

Degree awarding powers (DAPs)

Legal basis for OfS authorisations

208. A provider that is currently authorised to grant taught awards, or research awards, or both, does not need to apply to the OfS to retain this authorisation.

209. The OfS may authorise a registered higher education provider to grant taught awards, or research awards, or both, under section 42 of HERA. Such an authorisation may allow a provider to grant:

- a. Taught awards or research awards of any description.
- b. Specified taught awards or research awards (e.g. BSc Maths).
- c. Taught awards or research awards of a specified description (e.g. only at bachelor level, or only in particular subject areas).

210. Only that particular registered institution (e.g. not a subsidiary of it) may apply for the powers in question.

211. The OfS may authorise providers to grant different types of degrees. Providers will be able to apply for authorisation to grant:

- a. Foundation degrees only (level 5 of the FHEQ)⁸.
- b. Awards up to, and including, bachelor degrees (up to and including level 6).
- c. All taught awards (up to and including level 7).
- d. Research awards (level 8 and research masters degrees at level 7).

212. Providers may apply for these authorisations on a subject specific basis, or covering all subjects⁹. Providers authorised to grant taught awards of any description will be authorised to grant all taught awards that fall within the definition set out in section 42(3) of HERA¹⁰.

⁸ Only a registered provider that is also an English further education corporation may obtain a foundation degree only authorisation. An English further education provider is: (a) is an institution incorporated under Section 15 or 16 of the Further and Higher Education Act 1992 or which has become a further education provider by virtue of section 33D or 47 of that Act; (b) has been designated under Section 28 of that Act; or (c) is a sixth form college conducted by a sixth form corporation (as defined in section 191(1) of the Further and Higher Education Act 1992).

⁹ Subject specific powers to grant research awards are expected to be rare.

OfS Orders

213. The OfS authorisation is in the form of an order which is also a statutory instrument. This order will set out the extent of the provider's authorisation, and, for example, whether there are any restrictions. The order will also state the date on which the authorisation takes effect and, if it is time limited, the period during which it has effect. The order can also contain incidental, supplementary, transitional and saving provision (see section 42(11) of HERA).

214. An authorisation may include powers that enable a provider to authorise other institutions to grant awards on its behalf. Similarly, an authorisation may contain restrictions in this area. An authorisation enables providers to make awards jointly with another institution; to revoke awards; to grant honorary degrees or degrees to members of staff. However, again, such powers may be subject to restrictions.

Criteria for authorisation for degree awarding powers

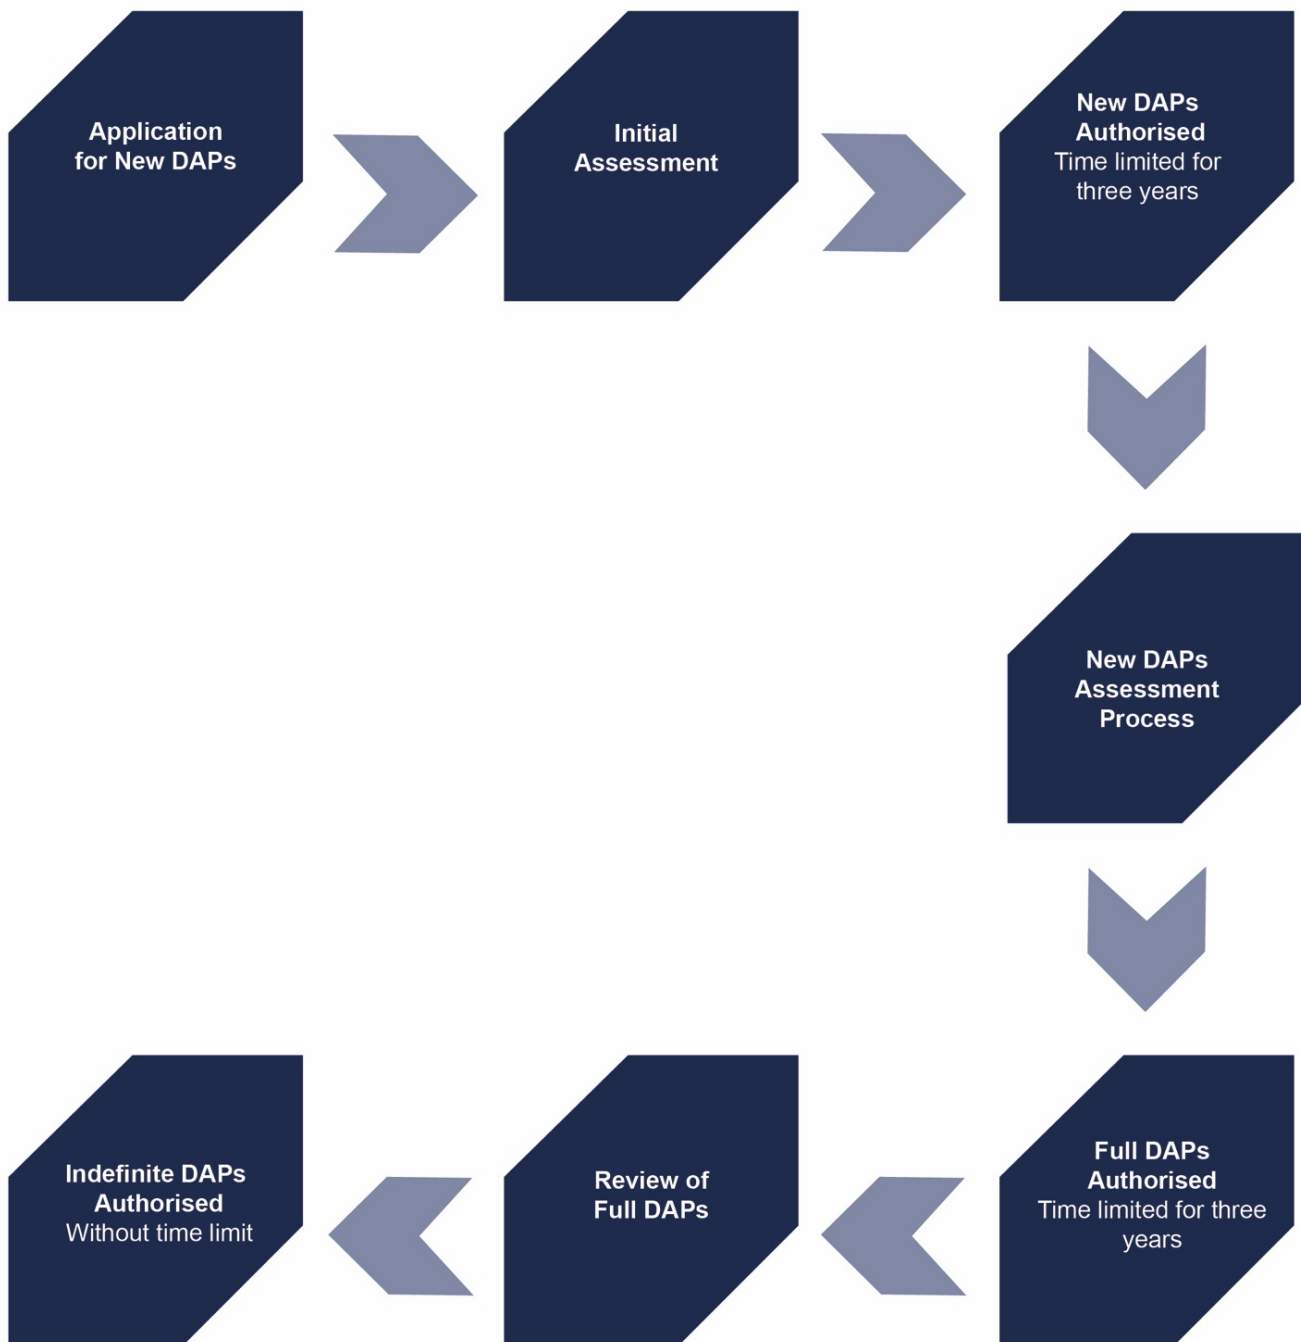

215. The criteria for authorisation for DAPs are designed to ensure that a provider with DAPs has demonstrated a firm guardianship of academic standards, a firm and systematic approach to the assurance of the quality of the higher education that it provides, and the capacity to contribute to the continued good standing of English higher education.

216. The overarching criterion for the authorisation for DAPs:

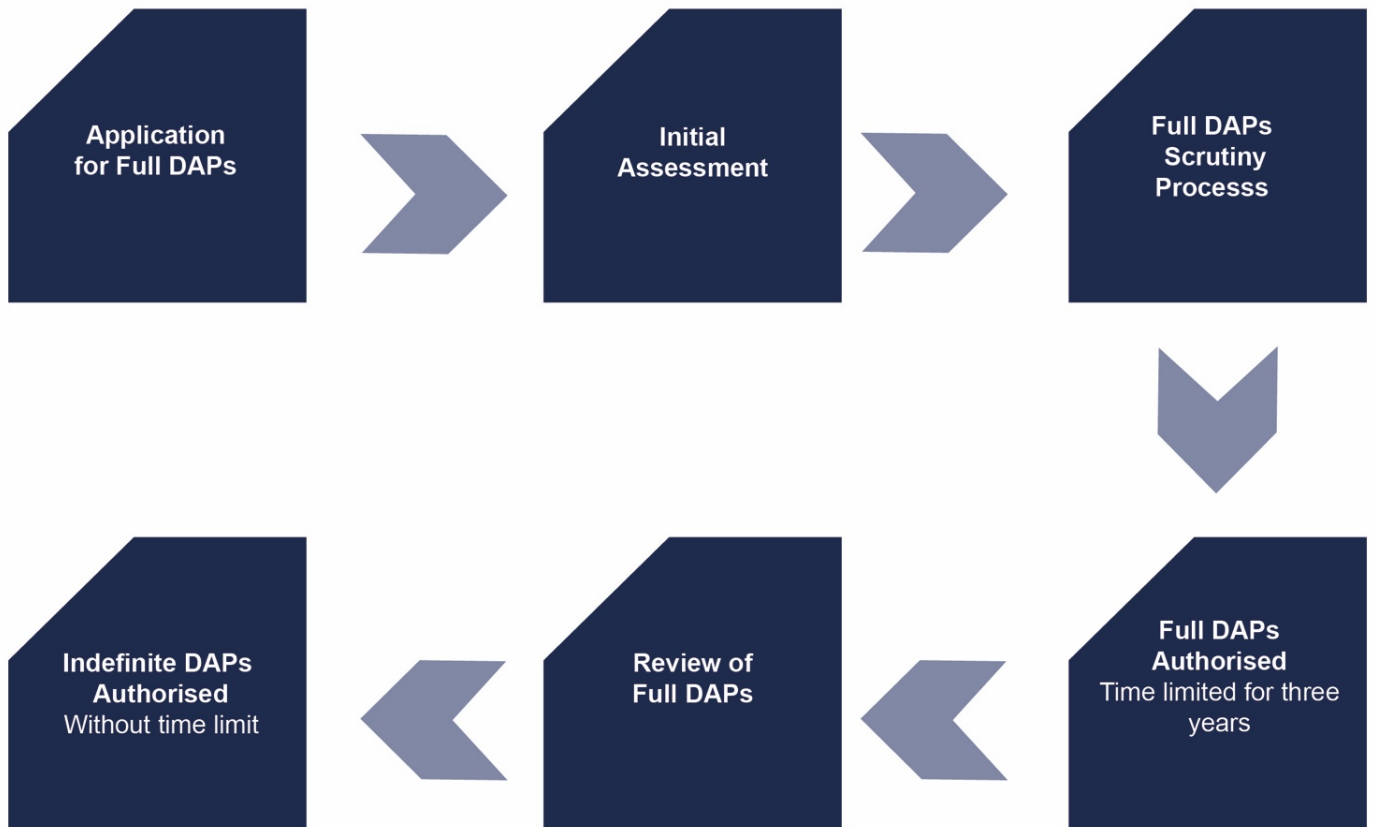

For New DAPs	An emerging self-critical, cohesive academic community with a clear commitment to the assurance of standards supported by effective (in prospect) quality systems
For Full DAPs	A self-critical, cohesive academic community with a proven commitment to the assurance of standards supported by effective quality systems

217. Guidance on the underpinning criteria for the authorisation for DAPs is set out in Annex C.

Providers that have been delivering higher education for less than three years (New DAPs)

Providers with a three year track record of delivering higher education

Providers that have been delivering higher education for less than three years (New DAPs)

218. A provider that has been delivering higher education for less than three years does not have a sufficient track record to apply for Full DAPs authorisation. It may instead apply for authorisation on a probationary basis. This type of authorisation is referred to as 'New DAPs'. A provider that does have a sufficient track record to apply for Full DAPs authorisation may nevertheless apply for New DAPs if it prefers to do so.

219. A provider may seek authorisation for New DAPs for the following taught awards only:

- a. Foundation degrees only¹¹.
- b. Awards up to, and including, bachelor degrees.
- c. All taught awards.

220. Providers may apply for these authorisations on a subject-specific basis, or covering all subjects.

221. To apply for New DAPs authorisation, a provider must:

- a. Be or become registered with the OfS.
- b. Satisfy all of its ongoing conditions of registration¹².
- c. Normally have registered or intend¹³ to register more than 50 per cent of its higher education students on courses at level 6 of the FHEQ or above, or at level 5 or above for foundation degree only authorisation.

222. The OfS will adopt the following approach to calculating student numbers for this purpose: Student numbers will be calculated using data collected by the DDB or in the Individualised Learner Record (ILR). The calculation will be based on intensity of study where a full time student will typically count as one, and a part time student will be treated as a proportion of a full time student. The calculation will only take into account students who are registered with the provider, rather than students registered with another provider but taught by the provider under a subcontractual arrangement. The OfS will publish a technical specification of the way it will perform this calculation.

¹³ This is only applicable if the provider is not yet providing higher education.

223. For providers applying for authorisation for bachelor degrees only, the OfS may adopt a more flexible approach to the normal requirement that more than 50 per cent of its students are registered on level 6 courses. In these circumstances, the OfS will consider factors including, but not limited to, the number of level 6 courses delivered by the provider; the overall number of students studying on level 6 courses; the number or proportion of higher education students who progress to level 6 courses and the views of the applicant's validating or subcontracting partner(s) about its suitability to hold DAPs.
224. A provider may apply for registration and for New DAPs authorisation at the same time, but the DAPs application will automatically be unsuccessful if the provider fails to satisfy the registration requirements.
225. A provider will only obtain New DAPs authorisation if it can demonstrate that it has the ability to operate securely as a degree awarding body and that there can be confidence that the awards it will make conform to recognised thresholds for standards and quality.

Application and initial assessment

226. A provider must make a correct application that contains all the required information, and includes the provider's New DAPs plan and supporting evidence. A provider seeking foundation degree only authorisation must also include in its application:
- a statement on progression, demonstrating that it is promoting clear progression routes for learners wishing to proceed to a course of higher-level study on completion of the foundation degree.
227. The OfS will published guidance that sets out the information that it requires to be submitted in an application.
228. The OfS will consider its existing risk assessment for the provider to determine the provider's suitability for DAPs. In particular, the OfS will consider its assessment of the provider's financial viability and sustainability, and its management and governance arrangements to ensure that the provider has understood and planned for the resources and governance necessary to set and maintain academic standards securely.
229. Where a provider is subject to one or more specific ongoing conditions of registration, and the OfS considers these to be relevant, for example because they have been imposed to mitigate increased risk of a breach of an ongoing condition relating to quality, standards, financial viability and sustainability, and management or governance, an application for New DAPs may be less likely to succeed.
230. A registered provider must have in place a student protection plan that has been agreed with the OfS. As part of its application for New DAPs, a provider must update and resubmit its student protection plan. This is to mitigate the risk to students that the provider's New DAPs authorisation may be revoked or not extended beyond the initial three-year authorisation
231. The OfS will ask the DQB to undertake an initial assessment (the 'New DAPs test') when the OfS is satisfied that the provider:
- a. Has submitted a correct application.

- b. Meets the eligibility requirements set out in paragraph 221.
- c. Appears to the OfS to be suitable for DAPs as set out in paragraphs 228 and 229 above.
- d. Has in place a suitable student protection plan, agreed by the OfS.
- e. Has provided a satisfactory progression statement as part of an application for foundation degree only authorisation.

232. The purpose of the New DAPs test is to:

- a. Assess the credibility of the provider's New DAPs plan.
- b. Assess the provider's understanding of the DAPs criteria.
- c. Confirm that the standards set for the provider's proposed courses are at an appropriate level.

233. The New DAPs test will involve a visit to the provider and meetings with its governors and senior managers and with staff and students (where students are already registered). As a result of the New DAPs test, the DQB may require changes to the New DAPs plan to ensure that it provides a suitable basis for monitoring and assessment.

234. The outcome of the New DAPs test will be advice provided by the DQB to the OfS which will be one of:

- Ready now
- Not ready now.

235. In each case, the DQB will provide reasons and evidence for its advice.

236. The OfS will have regard to the advice and the supporting reasons and evidence provided by the DQB. Where the OfS accepts advice that a provider is 'ready now', it will make an order granting authorisation on a probationary basis for a three-year period. The provider will be required to implement its agreed probationary plan and to engage in monitoring and scrutiny activities during the probationary period. The OfS may impose specific conditions of registration in relation to the section 42 order.

237. Where the OfS accepts advice that a provider is 'not ready now', it will not make an order under section 42 of HERA and will provide the reasons for this decision. A provider may reapply for New DAPs and must set out in its new application the changes that it has made to address the reasons for its previous unsuccessful application. The OfS will determine whether or not it will accept an application in these circumstances.

238. A provider authorised by New DAPs will be subject to certain restrictions during the probationary period, in particular:

- a. Entitlement to make awards to students only in the areas included in the provider's New DAPs plan. This may include intermediate awards for students who want to exit before completion of their programme.
- b. No entitlement to validate or subcontract provision to other providers.

239. The OfS will exercise its functions so as to require a provider to always ensure that prospective and current students are aware of the status of the provider's New DAPs authorisation. The OfS Register will be clear that powers are held on a probationary basis.

240. The OfS will issue guidance on the way that the process for the authorisation and monitoring of New DAPs will operate.

Monitoring and assessment during the probationary period

241. From the date on which the New DAPs order takes effect, a provider is considered to be in its probationary period. During this period it is subject to monitoring by the OfS and by the DQB. The purpose of such monitoring is to:

- a. Confirm that the provider is setting and maintaining academic standards securely – this will be monitored by the DQB.
- b. Confirm that the provider is making sufficient progress in implementing its probationary plan to ensure that it will be able to demonstrate that it meets the DAPs criteria in full before the end of its probationary period – this will be monitored by the DQB.
- c. Ensure that the provider's ongoing conditions of registration and any specific conditions of registration imposed by the OfS are met – this will be monitored by the OfS.

242. As part of this monitoring process, the provider will be required to provide regular reports, at least on a quarterly basis, on its progress in implementing its New DAPs plan to the DQB. The provider is also required to report to the DQB any issues that arise that may prevent it from implementing its plan as agreed. The DQB will undertake visits to the provider to verify the information it receives.

243. The DQB will provide a quarterly update to the OfS about the provider's progress during its probationary period. The OfS will take this information into account as it undertakes its routine monitoring activities for the provider. It will consider the use of its intervention powers, including the revocation of the New DAPs authorisation, if it considers that this is desirable in light of any of its primary regulatory objectives.

Outcome of the probationary period

244. Before the end of the probationary period, the DQB will undertake an assessment of the provider's arrangements against the Full DAPs criteria. The assessment will be designed to provide the same degree of confidence as the assessment of a provider seeking Full DAPs. The DQB will provide this assessment in its advice to the OfS together with its view about whether the provider has the ability:

- a. To provide, and maintain the provision of, higher education of an appropriate quality.
- b. To apply, and maintain the application of, appropriate standards to that higher education.

245. The OfS will have regard to the advice provided by the DQB. It may also seek, and have regard to, advice from others in relation to quality or standards. It will also consider its own risk assessment for the provider and will decide whether or not the provider meets the criteria for Full DAPs. The OfS may decide:

- a. That the provider meets the Full DAPs criteria. In such cases the OfS will vary the provider's DAPs authorisation to lift the probationary restrictions and to put in place a new time-limited order for Full DAPs authorisation which may also include restrictions.
- b. That the provider does not fully meet the DAPs criteria, but that it is likely to do so within the next 12 months. In such cases the OfS will extend the New DAPs authorisation for a period of not more than 12 months, at the end of which there will be a further assessment and decision about whether the provider does or does not meet the Full DAPs criteria. A New DAPs authorisation may only be extended in this way once.
- c. That the provider does not meet the DAPs criteria, and is unlikely to do so within the next 12 months. In such cases the OfS will either revoke the New DAPs order, or allow the order to expire, and require the provider to implement the provisions of its student protection plan.

246. Where the OfS decides that the provider does not meet the DAPs criteria it will provide the reasons for this decision. The OfS would, on request, review that it had followed its procedures correctly. A provider may reapply for New DAPs but it must set out in its new application the changes that it has made to address the reasons for its previous unsuccessful application. The OfS will determine whether or not it will accept an application in these circumstances.

Providers with a three-year track record of delivering higher education

247. A provider that has been delivering higher education for three or more years may apply for full authorisation, with a time limit of three years. This type of authorisation is referred to as 'Full DAPs'. At the end of that period, the provider will be able to apply for an authorisation to grant awards without a time limit ('indefinite DAPs'). A provider may seek authorisation for Full DAPs for the following awards:

- a. Foundation degrees only;
- b. Awards up to, and including, bachelor degrees;
- c. All taught awards; and/or
- d. Research awards (if Full DAPs for taught awards are already held or are applied for at the same time).

248. Providers may apply for these authorisations on a subject-specific basis, or covering all subjects.

249. To apply for Full DAPs authorisation, a provider must:

- a. Be registered with the OfS.
- b. Satisfy all of its ongoing conditions of registration¹⁴.

¹⁴ And, if it is a provider for which some conditions of registration are satisfied by assurances provided by the ESFA, for DAPs purposes, the provider must demonstrate that it is able to satisfy these conditions directly itself.

- c. Have had no fewer than three consecutive years' experience, immediately preceding the year of application, of delivering higher education courses in England at a level at least equivalent to the level of the DAPs authorisation for which the provider is applying.
- d. Normally have registered more than 50 per cent of its higher education students on courses at level 6 of the FHEQ or above, or at level 5 or above for foundation degree only authorisation.

250. The OfS will adopt the following approach to calculating student numbers for this purpose: Student numbers will be calculated using data collected by the DDB or in the Individualised Learner Record (ILR). The calculation will be based on intensity of study where a full time student will typically count as 1, and a part time student will be treated a proportion of a full time student. The calculation will only take into account students who are registered with the provider, rather than students registered with another provider but taught by the provider under a subcontractual arrangement. The OfS will publish a technical specification of the way it will perform this calculation.

251. For providers applying for authorisation for bachelor degrees, the OfS may adopt a more flexible approach to the normal requirement that more than 50 per cent of its students are registered on level 6 courses. In these circumstances, the OfS will consider factors including, but not limited to, the number of level 6 courses delivered by the provider; the overall number of students studying on level 6 courses; the number or proportion of higher education students who progress to level 6 courses and the views of the applicant's validating or subcontracting partner(s) about its suitability to hold DAPs.

252. A provider may apply for registration and for Full DAPs authorisation at the same time, but the DAPs application will automatically be unsuccessful if the provider fails to satisfy the registration requirements.

Application and initial assessment

253. A provider must make a correct application that contains all the required information, and includes the provider's self-assessment against the DAPs criteria and supporting evidence. The provider must also provide evidence that it meets the three-year track record requirement for Full DAPs, for example by providing evidence of a validation agreement.

254. A provider seeking foundation degree only authorisation must also include in its application:

- a statement on progression, demonstrating that it is promoting clear progression routes for learners wishing to proceed to a course of higher level study on completion of the foundation degree.

255. The OfS has published guidance that sets out the information that it requires to be submitted in an application in 'Regulatory Advice 2: Registration of current providers for 2019-20', and 'Regulatory Advice 3: Registration of new providers for 2019-20'

256. The OfS will consider its existing risk assessment for the provider to determine the their suitability for DAPs. In particular, the OfS will consider its assessment of the provider's financial viability and sustainability, and its management and governance arrangements to ensure that the provider has understood and planned for the resources and governance necessary to set and maintain academic standards securely.

257. Where a provider is subject to one or more specific ongoing conditions of registration, and the OfS considers these to be relevant, for example because they have been imposed to mitigate increased risk of a breach of an ongoing condition relating to quality, standards, financial viability and sustainability, and management or governance, an application for Full DAPs may be less likely to succeed.
258. The OfS will ask the DQB to undertake an initial assessment when the OfS is satisfied that the provider:
- a. Has submitted a correct application.
 - b. Meets the eligibility requirements set out in paragraph 249.
 - c. Appears to the OfS to be suitable for DAPs as set out in paragraphs 256 and 257 above.
 - d. Has provided a satisfactory progression statement as part of an application for foundation degree only authorisation.
259. The purpose of the DQB's initial assessment is to assess the credibility of the provider's self-assessment as the basis for the scrutiny process. The initial assessment will not normally involve a visit to the provider.
260. Where the DQB determines that the provider's self-assessment is suitable, it will notify the OfS that it intends to begin the scrutiny process.
261. Where the DQB determines that the provider's self-assessment is not suitable, it will provide such advice to the OfS and provide the reasons for this. The OfS will have regard to the advice from the DQB and, if agrees with the advice, will inform the provider that its application for Full DAPs has been unsuccessful. A provider may reapply for Full DAPs. If it does so within one year of the OfS's decision that an application was unsuccessful, it must set out in its new application the changes that it has made to address the reasons for its previous unsuccessful application. The OfS will determine whether or not it will accept an application in these circumstances

Monitoring and scrutiny process

262. The DQB will conduct a scrutiny process to assess the extent to which the provider's arrangements meet the DAPs criteria. The scrutiny process will extend over a number of months and will include visits to the provider and meetings with its governors and senior managers and with staff and students.
263. A provider that is already authorised to grant taught awards, including where such authorisation was not granted under section 42 of HERA, and that applies for RDAPs is required to provide evidence through the scrutiny process that it satisfies all the criteria for authorisation to grant taught awards and that it continues to meet these criteria. In the event, for example, that a provider that was authorised to make taught awards in specific subjects was to apply for authorisation to grant unrestricted research awards, the OfS would need to be satisfied that the applicant could satisfy the DAPs criteria for unrestricted taught awards as part of its consideration of an application for authorisation to grant unrestricted research awards.

264. The OfS will continue to undertake its routine monitoring activities in relation to the provider during the scrutiny process to ensure that the provider's ongoing conditions of registration and any specific conditions of registration imposed by the OfS are satisfied.
265. The DQB will notify the OfS of any issues that may arise during the scrutiny process that may affect the OfS's assessment of the risk of a breach of one or more of the provider's ongoing conditions of registration.

Outcome of the scrutiny process

266. At the end of the scrutiny process, the DQB will undertake an assessment of the provider's arrangements against the Full DAPs criteria. As it does so for applicants for authorisation for research degrees, its assessment will be informed by the views of UKRI. It will provide this assessment in its advice to the OfS together with its view about whether the provider has the ability:
- a. To provide, and maintain the provision of, higher education of an appropriate quality.
 - b. To apply, and maintain the application of, appropriate standards to that higher education.
267. The OfS will have regard to the advice provided by the DQB. It may also seek, and have regard to, advice from others in relation to quality or standards. It will also consider its own risk assessment for the provider and will decide whether or not the provider meets the criteria for DAPs. The OfS may decide:
- a. That the provider meets the relevant Full DAPs criteria. In such cases the OfS will make a time-limited DAPs order under section 42 of HERA and will decide whether any additional restrictions are necessary to the order.
 - b. That the provider does not meet the relevant Full DAPs criteria. In such cases the OfS will not make an order under section 42 of HERA and will provide the reasons for this decision. The OfS would, on request, review that it had followed its procedures correctly.
268. Where the OfS makes a decision that a provider does not meet the relevant Full DAPs criteria, the provider may re-apply for Full DAPs but it must set out in its new application the changes that it has made to address the reasons for its previous unsuccessful application. The OfS will determine whether or not it will accept an application in these circumstances.

Variation and revocation of degree awarding powers

269. Under HERA, the OfS has express powers to vary or revoke DAPs to grant taught awards or research awards for an individual provider. These powers include the ability to vary or revoke DAPs where authorisation was originally made under Acts or Royal Charters.
270. This power might be used positively, for example, to make time-limited DAPs indefinite. The variation powers may also be used as a regulatory intervention where the OfS considers it appropriate, i.e. for the benefits of students to limit the scope of a provider's DAPs, for instance to bachelor only DAPs, or limit a provider's ability to validate provision elsewhere.
271. HERA provides that the OfS may revoke DAPs if certain conditions are met. There are three conditions, of which at least one must be met for the OfS to take the step of revocation. In the vast majority of scenarios, the OfS would expect to have made use of its other intervention powers before taking the step of revocation.

272. The OfS will exercise its functions so as to require a provider to ensure that where DAPs are varied or revoked, it must ensure that this is reflected in any advertising material, governing documents or other instances where these powers were set out or referred to, or where the authorisation was used. This means that where a provider has its powers set out in a Royal Charter or Private Act, it must amend these accordingly. If a provider fails to do so, the Secretary of State has powers under section 116 of HERA to make consequential changes.¹⁵

273. The OfS expects providers that already hold DAPs to be registered because having organisations with such powers operating outside of the regulated system could be a risk for students and the reputation of English degrees and universities. The OfS may therefore revoke DAPs if a provider does not register, or is deregistered.

274. The conditions for revocation of DAPs are set out in sections 44 and 45 of HERA together with a detailed statutory process that the OfS must follow if it intends to vary or revoke DAPs, including requirements to:

- a. Notify the governing body of the provider of its intention, which must include:
 - i. The OfS's reasons for proposing to take the step in question.
 - ii. The period during which the governing body may make representations (which must be at least 28 days).
 - iii. The way in which those representations may be made.
- b. Have regard to any representations.
- c. Notify the provider of its decision, including the date on which the variation or revocation takes effect, and the rights of appeal and period where they can be brought.

275. A provider may appeal to the First Tier Tribunal against any decision to vary or revoke DAPs.

276. Where an appeal relates to a decision to vary DAPs, or against the date at which a revocation of comes into effect, then the grounds for appeal are:

- a. That the decision was based on an error in fact.
- b. That the decision was wrong in law.
- c. That the decision was unreasonable.

277. If the appeal is against a decision to revoke DAPs, the grounds for appeal are not specified, and the First Tier Tribunal must consider the decision afresh, and may take into account evidence that was not available to the OfS.

¹⁵ These powers cannot be used to revoke a Royal Charter in its entirety.

Extending powers and review of powers

278. A provider that is granted DAPs of any type by the OfS will hold its award on a time-limited basis in the first instance. After three years of operating with an authorisation for Full DAPs, the provider will be subject to a review, which, if passed, would enable authorisation with no time limit. This is referred to as 'indefinite DAPs'.
279. The OfS will ask the DQB to undertake an assessment of the provider's arrangements against the Full DAPs criteria. This would not replicate the detailed scrutiny carried out when DAPs are first awarded, but is intended to confirm that the powers in question had been exercised securely during the preceding three years. As it does so for applicants for authorisation for research degrees, its assessment will be informed by the views of UKRI. The DQB will provide this assessment in its advice to the OfS together with its view about whether the provider continues:
- a. To provide, and maintain the provision of, higher education of an appropriate quality.
 - b. To apply, and maintain the application of, appropriate standards to that higher education.
280. The OfS will have regard to the advice provided by the DQB. It may also seek, and have regard to advice from others in relation to quality or standards. It will also consider its own risk assessment for the provider and will decide whether or not the provider continues to meet the criteria for DAPs. The OfS may decide:
- a. That the provider continues to meet the relevant Full DAPs criteria. In such cases the OfS will vary the provider's DAPs order to remove the time limit under section 42 of HERA and will decide whether any additional restrictions are necessary to the order.
 - b. That the provider does not continue to meet the relevant Full DAPs criteria. In such cases the provider would remain with time-limited powers until such time as the concerns in question had been resolved. Where the OfS has significant concerns about the provider's ability to exercise DAPs securely, it may decide to vary or revoke the provider's DAPs authorisation.
281. A provider with time limited DAPs that has already successfully operated with DAPs for three years or more at 1 August 2019 will be able to seek indefinite DAPs on the same basis as providers that obtained their powers from the OfS. A provider that has successfully operated with DAPs for a period of less than three years at 1 August 2019 will be able to seek indefinite DAPs once it has completed the required three-year period.

Reportable events

282. A registered provider is required to notify the OfS of a 'reportable event' under ongoing condition of registration F3, the OfS will consider the implications of the reported event for the provider's DAPs authorisation. As part of its consideration of the reported event, the OfS will consider whether a review of DAPs is necessary. In particular, the OfS will determine whether the provider still meets the DAPs criteria and whether the institution holding DAPs is the same as that originally assessed and awarded DAPs.

Other awards

283. All awards made by a provider authorised to grant such awards by the OfS will be considered as recognised awards for the purposes of section 214 of the Education Reform Act 1988 and will not be subject to the offence of offering unrecognised degrees as set out in section 214. Under this section, as amended by section 53 of HERA, the OfS will be the appropriate authority in England, and as such, it will be responsible for the making of the recognised and listed bodies orders.

University title

Eligibility to apply for university college or university title

284. A higher education provider is eligible to apply for university college title when it:

- a. Is registered with the OfS.
- b. Satisfies all of its ongoing conditions of registration.
- c. Has obtained authorisation to grant taught awards (other than foundation degree only DAPs) or research awards and where that authorisation is not time limited.

285. A higher education provider is eligible to apply for university title when it meets the criteria for university college title above and, in addition, the following criterion:

- The number of full time equivalent higher education students must exceed 55 per cent of the total number of full time equivalent students, of which at least 50 per cent must be on courses at level 6 or above on the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications.

286. The OfS will adopt the following approach to calculating student numbers for this purpose: Student numbers will be calculated using data collected by the DDB or in the Individualised Learner Record (ILR). The calculation will be based on intensity of study where a full time student will typically count as 1, and a part time student will be treated a proportion of a full time student. The calculation will only take into account students who are registered with the provider, rather than students registered with another provider but taught by the provider under a subcontractual arrangement. The OfS will publish a technical specification of the way it will perform this calculation.

287. For both university college and university title:

- a. A provider with time-limited Full DAPs, New DAPs, or foundation-only DAPs is not eligible.
- b. A provider that is part of the further education sector (i.e. an English further education provider as defined in section 83 of HERA) is not eligible to apply¹⁶.
- c. The registered provider making the application must be the same institution that was assessed for and granted degree awarding powers, and any university college or university title would only apply to this institution, and not to any different or wider corporate group or structure.

Application and assessment

288. A provider must make a correct application that contains all the required information. The OfS has published guidance that sets out the information that it requires to be submitted in an application ('Regulatory Advice 2: Registration of current providers for 2019-20', and 'Regulatory Advice 3: Registration of new providers for 2019-20'.)

¹⁶ A further education corporation must apply to the Secretary of State to re-incorporate as a higher education corporation before becoming eligible to apply. A provider that is not a further education corporation, but is part of the statutory further education sector, would normally need to take any necessary steps to move out of this sector to become eligible to apply.

289. A provider is not entitled to any particular name, and the OfS will have regard to the need to avoid names that are, or may be, confusing or misleading. A provider seeking university college or university title is required to consult, as set out in guidance by the OfS, on its proposed new name before making an application to the OfS and must provide evidence of this consultation in its application. The OfS will only approve names that it considers not to be, or not to have the potential to be, confusing or misleading. Should the OfS consider that a proposed name is confusing or misleading, the provider will be asked to choose and consult on a different name.
290. The OfS will assess whether the provider meets the criteria for university college or university title and will, in particular:
- a. Ensure that an applicant for university title meets the student number requirements.
 - b. Determine whether the provider's chosen title may be, or may have the potential to be, confusing.
291. The OfS will consider its existing risk assessment for the provider to determine the provider's suitability for university college or university title. Where a provider is subject to one or more specific ongoing conditions of registration, and the OfS considers these to be relevant, for example because they have been imposed to mitigate increased risk of a breach of an ongoing conditions relating to quality, standards, financial viability and sustainability, and management or governance, an application for university college or university title may be refused for that reason.
292. Where the OfS decides that the provider meets the criteria for university college or university title, and its chosen name is suitable, the OfS will write to the provider inviting it to formally change its name. The processes for this differ depending on the legal form of the provider. Most providers will be able to change their name in their own governing documents, and to change their name with Companies House as required.
293. Where a provider is obliged to register or change a business or company name with Companies House, the OfS will provide a non-objection letter to the use of the word 'university' in the new name or within the provider's governing documents. This letter should be submitted to Companies House alongside the request to use the sensitive word 'university'.
294. Chartered bodies or providers with Private Acts must follow the relevant procedures to change their name. The precise requirements relating to changes to such governing documents are likely to vary, and providers that remain subject to any Privy Council oversight should contact the Privy Council Office.
295. Where the OfS considers that the criteria for university college title or university title have not been met, it will provide the reasons for this. The OfS would, on request, review that it had followed its procedures correctly. A provider may reapply for university college or university title once it has addressed the reasons for the previously unsuccessful application.

Revocation of university college title or university title

296. Under HERA, the OfS has express powers to revoke university college title and university title. This is irrespective of how the title was originally granted.
297. HERA provides that the OfS may revoke university college title and university title, but only if certain conditions are met. There are three conditions, of which at least one must be met for the OfS to take the step of revocation. In the vast majority of scenarios, the OfS would expect to have made use of its other intervention powers before taking the step of revocation.
298. The OfS will exercise its functions so as to require a provider to ensure that where its university college title or university title is revoked, it must change its name and ensure that this is reflected in any advertising material, governing documents or other instances where this title was set out or referred to, or where the name was used. This means that where a provider has its title set out in a Royal Charter or Private Act, it must amend these accordingly. If a provider fails to do so, the Secretary of State has powers under section 116 of HERA to make consequential changes.¹⁷
299. The OfS will exercise its functions so as to require a provider to ensure that where a provider has a registered business or company name that includes the word 'university', and permission to the use of this word was granted as a result of the provider obtaining university title, the name in question must be changed to no longer include the word 'university'.
300. The OfS expects providers with university college or university title to be registered because having organisations with such titles operating outside of the regulated system could be a risk for students and the reputation of English degrees and universities. The OfS may therefore revoke university college or university title if a provider does not register, or is deregistered.
301. The conditions for revocation of university college title and university title are set out in section 58 of HERA together with a detailed statutory process the OfS must follow if it intends to revoke such title, including requirements to:
- a. Notify the governing body of the provider of its intention, which must include:
 - i. The OfS's reasons for proposing to take the step in question.
 - ii. The period during which the governing body may make representations (which must be at least 28 days).
 - iii. The way in which those representations may be made.
 - b. Have regard to any representations.
 - c. Notify the provider of its decision, including the date on which the variation or revocation takes effect, and the rights of appeal and period where they can be brought.
302. A providers may appeal to the First Tier Tribunal against any decision to revoke university title.

¹⁷ These powers cannot be used to revoke a Royal Charter in its entirety.

303. Where an appeal relates to the date at which a revocation comes into effect, then the grounds for appeal are:

- a. That the decision was based on an error in fact.
- b. That the decision was wrong in law.
- c. That the decision was unreasonable.

304. If the appeal is against a decision to revoke university title, the grounds for appeal are not specified, and the First Tier Tribunal must consider the decision afresh, and may take into account evidence that was not available to the OfS.

Reportable events

305. Where a registered provider is required to notify the OfS of a 'reportable event' under ongoing condition of registration F3, the OfS will consider the implications of the reported event for the provider's university title or university college title. As part of its consideration of the reported event, the OfS will consider whether a review of the provider's suitability to hold university title or university college title is necessary. In particular, the OfS will determine whether the provider still meets the criteria for university college or university title as part of such a review.

306. The OfS will work to protect the meaning and concept of a university, and to ensure that providers cannot retain university title or university college title after structural changes that would undermine this. For example, if a university were to merge with a large further education provider, it may no longer be a predominantly higher education provider, and thus it would be misleading if it could continue to call itself a university. If it is no longer appropriate for a provider to call itself a university, the OfS will revoke university title.

PART V – Guidance on the general ongoing conditions of registration

Overview

308. HERA requires the OfS to publish, as part of its regulatory framework, guidance for registered higher education providers on the general ongoing conditions of registration. This will assist in determining whether or not behaviour complies with the general ongoing conditions of registration. It may, in particular, specify descriptions of behaviour that the OfS considers compliant with, or not compliant with, a general ongoing conditions of registration, and factors that the OfS will take into account in determining whether or not behaviour is compliant with a general ongoing condition of registration. This part of the regulatory framework sets out this guidance.
309. References to whether a condition is ‘mandatory’ or ‘not mandatory’ relate to whether the OfS is legally required to impose the condition (mandatory) or has discretion to impose the condition (not mandatory). For a provider, both mandatory and not mandatory conditions will be requirements where the OfS chooses to impose them as conditions of registration.
310. The general ongoing conditions of registration, and the categories of the Register to which they apply, are set out in Annex A.

Condition A1: Access and participation plan

Condition A1: An Approved (fee cap) provider intending to charge fees above the basic amount to qualifying persons on qualifying courses must:

- i. have in force an access and participation plan approved by the OfS in accordance with HERA;
- ii. take all reasonable steps to comply with the provisions of the plan.

Summary

Applies to: Approved (fee cap) providers charging fees above the basic amount.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Legal basis: Section 12 of HERA – mandatory for those providers wishing to access the higher fee limits available in respect of the fee limit condition.

Guidance

Condition A1(i)

311. A 'qualifying course' means a course subject to the regulated undergraduate tuition fee regime: this includes those undergraduate courses and postgraduate initial teacher training courses for which Student Loan Company (SLC) student support may be provided.

312. An 'access and participation plan' means a document or documents complying with sections 30-32 and approved under section 29 of HERA.

313. To register in the Approved (fee cap) category and be able to charge fees above the basic amount to qualifying persons on qualifying courses subject to regulated undergraduate fees during an academic year for which the access and participation plan is in force, a provider must first have this plan approved by the OfS.

314. The Director for Fair Access and Participation, under authority delegated from the OfS board, has published guidance on priorities and expectations for access and participation plans, and the approach to approving them, in accordance with section 29(4) of HERA.

315. A provider will satisfy this condition by continuing to have an approved access and participation plan in force for any period in which it intends to charge fees above the basic amount.

Condition A1(ii)

316. In judging whether a provider has taken all reasonable steps to comply with the provisions of its plan, the OfS will have regard to:

- a. The progress made by the provider in delivering the objectives and targets in its plan.
- b. The approach and actions the provider has taken to deliver the provisions of its plan.

Assessment

317. During registration, the OfS will assess a provider's access and participation plan and will approve a plan that meets the OfS's requirements.
318. The OfS will monitor a provider's performance against the objectives and targets in its access and participation plan on the basis set out in 'Regulatory Notice 1: Guidance on access and participation plans for 2019-20'. Where the OfS is concerned that a provider may not have taken all reasonable steps to comply with the provisions of its plan it may request further information to assess the steps that have been taken by the provider and may make further interventions, including the imposition of a specific ongoing condition of registration to ensure that reasonable steps are taken and sufficient progress made.
319. Where the OfS determines that a provider has not taken all reasonable steps to deliver a general provision of its access and participation plan and so has breached this condition of registration, it may use its sanctions powers. In particular, it has the power under section 21 of HERA to notify a provider that it will refuse to agree a new access and participation plan for a period specified in the notice. Paragraphs 197-199 above set out the process for such a refusal.

Behaviours

320. In order to determine whether or not a provider is complying with this condition on an ongoing basis, the OfS's judgement will be informed by the provider's behaviour, as well as information submitted by the provider or available to OfS.
321. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this general ongoing condition. The provider:
- has an approved plan in place
 - is delivering the objectives and targets in its plan
 - has a governing body that is appropriately engaged with monitoring of performance against the provisions of its plan
 - is taking reasonable steps to comply with the provisions of its plan and has taken appropriate action where it appears that the intentions of the plan may not be delivered.
322. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these general ongoing conditions. The provider:
- does not have an approved plan in force for any period in which the provider intends to charge fees above the basic amount
 - has not put in place appropriate arrangements to monitor its performance against the provisions of its plan and/or has not taken appropriate action where it appears that the intentions of the plan may not be delivered.

Condition A2: Access and participation statement

Condition A2: An Approved provider or an Approved (fee cap) provider charging fees up to the basic amount to qualifying persons on qualifying courses must:

- i. publish an access and participation statement;
- ii. update and re-publish this statement on an annual basis.

Summary

Applies to: Approved (fee cap) providers charging fees up to the basic amount and all Approved providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Legal basis: Section 5 of HERA.

Guidance

Condition A2(i)

323. An 'access and participation statement' means a statement published by the provider setting out its commitment to supporting access and participation in higher education by students from disadvantaged backgrounds and under-represented groups.

324. To register in either of the Approved categories and charge fees up to the basic amount for qualifying undergraduate courses, a provider must publish an access and participation statement.

325. It is for a provider to determine the content of its statement. The OfS expects that statements will be informed by a provider's circumstances and the characteristics and needs of its students. It will set out the provider's plans and achievements in this area. Unlike an access and participation plan, the content and ambition of a statement does not have to be approved by the OfS.

Condition A2(ii)

326. A provider will satisfy this condition by updating and republishing its statement each year.

Assessment

327. To satisfy the initial condition of registration a provider must develop its access and participation statement and provide this to the OfS as part of its application to register. The OfS will check that a statement has been published on the provider's website so that it is easily accessible for students and for anyone who might be seeking this information.

328. The OfS will check during its routine monitoring activities that a provider's statement has been updated and republished on an annual basis and that it is published in an accessible place.

Behaviours

329. In order to determine whether or not a provider is complying with this condition on an ongoing basis, the OfS's judgement will be informed by the provider's behaviour, as well as information submitted by the provider or available to OfS.

330. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this general ongoing condition:

- the provider has published an up-to-date statement on its website
- the statement is accessible to current and future students and to the wider public.

331. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these general ongoing conditions:

- the provider has not updated and republished its statement each year
- the statement is not accessible to current and future students and to the wider public.

Conditions B1, B2, B3, B4 and B5: Quality and standards

Condition B1: The provider must deliver well-designed courses that provide a high quality academic experience for all students and enable a student's achievement to be reliably assessed.

Condition B2: The provider must provide all students, from admission through to completion, with the support that they need to succeed in and benefit from higher education.

Condition B3: The provider must deliver successful outcomes for all of its students, which are recognised and valued by employers and/or enable further study.

Condition B4: The provider must ensure that qualifications awarded to students hold their value at the point of qualification and over time, in line with sector recognised standards.

Condition B5: The provider must deliver courses that meet the academic standards as they are described in the Framework for Higher Education Qualification (FHEQ) at Level 4 or higher.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing conditions: initial and ongoing conditions.

Legal basis: Sections 5 and 13 of HERA.

Notes

332. Section 13(1)(a) of HERA specifies that the OfS may set a 'condition relating to the quality of, or the standards applied to, the higher education provided by the provider (including requiring the quality to be of a particular level or particular standards to be applied)'.

333. Sections 13(2) and (3) of HERA state that standards are to be 'sector-recognised standards' where such standards exist. 'Sector recognised standards' means standards that apply to higher education and accord with guidance which (a) is determined by persons representing a broad range of registered higher education providers, and (b) commands the confidence of registered higher education providers.

334. Section 23(2) of HERA imposes a duty on the OfS to assess, or make arrangements to assess, the quality of, and the standards applied to, higher education for the purpose of determining whether a provider satisfies its initial or ongoing conditions of registration.

Guidance

Condition B1

335. This is a condition relating to the quality of the higher education provided by the provider.

336. In judging whether a provider delivers well-designed courses that provide a high quality academic experience for all students and enable a student's achievement to be reliably assessed, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Any assessment that the DQB may make about the extent to which the provider is meeting the relevant expectation of the UK Quality Code for Higher Education.
- b. National surveys of students' views for the provider.
- c. Student complaints, whether to the OIA or elsewhere, that courses are not well-designed and providing a high quality academic experience for all students and that student achievement is not being reliably assessed.
- d. Complaints from staff or others that courses are not well-designed and providing a high quality academic experience for all students and that student achievement is not being reliably assessed.

Condition B2

337. This is a condition relating to the quality of the higher education provided by the provider.

338. In judging whether a provider is providing all students, from admission through to completion, with the support that they need to succeed in and benefit from higher education, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Any assessment that the DQB may make about the extent to which the provider is meeting the relevant expectation of the UK Quality Code for Higher Education.
- b. National surveys of students' views for the provider.
- c. Any other information about the provider's admissions system or the support provided to all students.
- d. Student complaints, that all students are not provided with the support they need to succeed in and benefit from higher education, from admission through to completion.
- e. Complaints from staff or others that all students are not provided with the support they need to succeed in and benefit from higher education, from admission through to completion.

Condition B3

339. This is a condition relating to the quality of the higher education provided by the provider.

340. In judging whether a provider is delivering successful outcomes for all of its students, which are recognised and valued by employers and/or enable further study, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. A range of student outcomes indicators, broken down to show outcomes for students with different characteristics that include, but are not limited to:
 - i. Student continuation and completion rates.
 - ii. Degree and other outcomes, including differential outcomes for students with different characteristics.
 - iii. Graduate employment and, in particular, progression to professional and managerial jobs and postgraduate study.

- b. Any other information from employers and others about the extent to which a provider's qualifications are recognised and valued.

Condition B4

341. This is a condition relating to both the quality of, and the standards applied to, the higher education provided by the provider.
342. The sector-recognised standards that will be used in relation to this condition are those that apply in England as set out in Table 1, and in paragraphs 4.10, 4.12, 4.15, 4.17 and 4.18, and in paragraphs 6.13-6.18, and in the Table in Annex C, in the version of 'The Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree Awarding Bodies' published in October 2014¹⁸(FHEQ). These sector-recognised standards represent the threshold academic standards for each level of the FHEQ and the minimum volumes of credit typically associated with qualifications at each level.
343. In judging whether a provider is ensuring that qualifications awarded to students hold their value at the point of qualification and over time, in line with sector recognised standards, material that the OfS may consider includes:
- a. Any assessment that the DQB may make about the extent to which the provider is meeting the relevant expectation of the UK Quality Code for Higher Education (quality).
 - b. Any assessment that the DQB may make about the extent to which the provider's qualifications are in line with sector-recognised standards as defined above (standards).
 - c. A range of student outcomes indicators (quality) that include, but are not limited to degree and other outcomes, including differential outcomes for students with different characteristics, and the trends in outcomes over time.
 - d. Student complaints, whether to the OIA or elsewhere, about the value of their qualifications at the point of qualification and over time (quality).
 - e. Complaints from staff or others that about the value of qualifications awarded to students at the point of qualification and over time (quality), in line with sector recognised standards (standards).

Condition B5

344. This is a condition relating to the standards applied to the higher education provided by the provider.
345. 'Academic standards as they are described in the FHEQ at Level 4 or higher' means the definition of 'sector-recognised standards' as set out below.
346. The sector-recognised standards that will be used in relation to this condition are those set out in relation to condition B4 above.

347. In judging whether a provider is delivering courses that meet the academic standards as they are described in the FHEQ at Level 4 or higher, material that the OfS may consider includes:
- a. Any assessment that the DQB may make about the extent to which the provider is meeting the relevant expectation of the UK Quality Code for Higher Education.
 - b. Any assessment that the DQB may make about the extent to which the provider's qualifications are in line with sector-recognised standards as defined above.
 - c. Complaints from staff or others that the provider is delivering courses that do not match the academic standards as they are described in the FHEQ at Level 4 or higher.

Assessment

348. A new provider seeking registration in one of the Approved categories of the Register must demonstrate that it is able to satisfy all of the initial conditions for quality and standards.
349. The assessment of whether a provider is able to meet these conditions will include a review visit to the provider by the DQB¹⁹. The method for such review visits will be developed by the DQB to assess the provider against the expectations and core practices in the version of the UK Quality Code for Higher Education published in March 2018. The OfS will consider the assessment made by the DQB when determining whether initial conditions B1, B2, B4 and B5 are met.
350. Where the provider has a track record of delivering higher education, the OfS itself will assess whether the provider is able to satisfy condition B3. The evidence used will consist of the actual performance of the provider over time rather than its performance when compared to a sector-adjusted benchmark, although the context in which the provider is operating will be taken into account. This approach is designed to ensure that a minimum level of performance is used to determine whether a provider may be registered (taking into account the context of that provider), rather than a view of the provider's performance as compared to other providers. The OfS will take into account the impact of a provider's performance on students with different equality characteristics in assessing whether or not the provider meets the minimum level of performance. Where the OfS has concerns, but nevertheless decides that the provider may be registered, it may require the provider to address any issues in its access and participation plan before it is willing to approve the plan.
351. If the OfS is not satisfied that the risk of future non-compliance is low, monitoring may be more frequent and/or more intensive and the OfS might set specific ongoing conditions including, but not limited to:
- the provider may be required to implement an agreed action plan in areas of concern
 - the DQB may be asked to complete a further quality and standards review visit, using the same approach as used for new providers, within a certain timeframe

¹⁹ The requirement for a quality and standards review visit will apply to new providers seeking registration but not to those providers that were funded by HEFCE or designated for student support by the Secretary of State at the time of their registration with OfS.

- student number controls may be imposed by the OfS.

352. Once registered, a provider for which the risk of non-compliance with its conditions of registration for quality and standards is considered to be low will be monitored using lead indicators. These indicators will normally reflect the actual performance of the provider over time rather than its performance when compared to a sector-adjusted benchmark. However, this approach will not involve setting an explicit numerical target for, for example, continuation. An indicator is intended to signal to the OfS that further regulatory investigation may be necessary
353. Routine monitoring of lead indicators, the assessment of reportable events and consideration of any concerns raised by students or other stakeholders will be undertaken by the OfS itself, drawing on the expertise of the DQB as necessary. The OfS may ask the DQB to undertake more detailed assessment of quality and standards issues in an individual provider should the OfS consider this necessary to inform its risk assessment.
354. The OfS will, as a matter of routine, undertake an annual analysis of degree classification trends at the sector and provider level. It will publish its findings and will identify as part of that exercise any case where the pattern of classifications over time may suggest good or poor practice. The OfS will use its routine monitoring activity in relation to Conditions B3 and B4 to identify any provider in which there is an upwards trend in degree classifications, and will challenge such a provider to explain data that suggests that students' degree classifications are being inflated. When considering indicators for these purposes the OfS may make comparisons with the performance of other providers.

Behaviours

355. Set out below against each condition are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance or non-compliance with each condition.

Condition	Behaviours than may indicate compliance include	Behaviours that may indicate non-compliance include
Condition B1: The provider must deliver well-designed courses that provide a high quality academic experience for all students and enable a student's achievement to be reliably assessed	The provider designs and/or delivers high quality courses. The provider has sufficient appropriately qualified and skilled staff to deliver a high quality academic experience. The provider has sufficient and appropriate facilities, learning resources and student support services to deliver a high quality academic experience. Where the provider offers research degrees, they deliver these in appropriate and supportive research environments. Where a provider works in partnership with other organisations, it has in place effective arrangements to ensure that the academic experience is high quality irrespective of where or how courses are delivered and who delivers them.	The OIA or the OfS receive a pattern of complaints about the quality of the academic experience. National student surveys show weak and/or declining performance in relevant banks of questions.

Condition	Behaviours than may indicate compliance include	Behaviours that may indicate non-compliance include
Condition B2: The provider must provide all students, from admission through to completion, with the support that they need to succeed in and benefit from higher education	The provider has a reliable, fair and inclusive admissions system. The data for the provider published under the transparency condition suggest that there is fair access to the provider's courses for students from all backgrounds The provider actively engages students, individually and collectively, in the quality of their educational experience. The provider supports all students to achieve successful academic and professional outcomes. Student continuation and qualification data suggests that the provider has a reliable and fair admission system that results in students from all backgrounds being matched to appropriate courses and provided with the support necessary for a high quality academic experience and successful completion²⁰. The provider has fair and transparent procedures for handling complaints and appeals which are accessible to all students.	Students are recruited to courses for which they do not have the capability to achieve a successful outcome. Students from all backgrounds with the potential to succeed are not provided with equality of opportunity to access a provider's courses. The quality of the education and the support provided to students does not match the needs of the students a provider recruits. The OfS receives a pattern of complaints about the provider's admissions system.
Condition B3: The provider must deliver successful outcomes for all of its students, which are recognised and valued by employers and/or enable further study	The outcomes achieved by the provider's students meet a minimum acceptable baseline set by the OfS. The outcomes achieved by the provider's students suggest that students from all backgrounds are able to succeed.	Significant numbers of students do not progress to appropriate employment or further study. There are significant differences in outcomes between students from different backgrounds.

Condition	Behaviours than may indicate compliance include	Behaviours that may indicate non-compliance include
Condition B4: The provider must ensure that qualifications awarded to students hold their value at the point of qualification and over time, in line with sector recognised standards.	The provider ensures that students who are awarded qualifications have the opportunity to achieve standards beyond the threshold level that are reasonably comparable with those achieved in other UK providers. The provider uses external expertise, assessment and classification processes that are reliable, fair and transparent. Where a provider works in partnership with other organisations, it has in place effective arrangements to ensure that the standards of its awards are credible and secure irrespective of where or how courses are delivered or who delivers them.	The OfS identifies concerns about the security of standards, whether provision is delivered by the provider or by a partner. Students and/or alumni report that certification and records of study are not provided to them. The standards of qualifications above the threshold change significantly over time and thus impact on their value.
Condition B5: The provider must deliver courses that meet the academic standards as they are described in the FHEQ at Level 4 or higher.	The provider ensures that the threshold standards for their qualifications are consistent with the relevant national qualifications framework.	The OfS identifies concerns about whether the standards set by the provider are consistent with the FHEQ.

Condition B6: Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework participation

Condition B6: The provider must participate in the Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework (TEF)

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers with more than 500 students on higher education courses.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: Section 5 of HERA.

Notes

356. Registered providers that have fewer than 500 students and that meet the eligibility requirements may participate in the TEF if they choose to do so.
357. Providers from the devolved administrations that meet the eligibility requirements will continue to be able to choose to participate in TEF if their government has given the appropriate consent for them to do so. Such providers are not able to register with the OfS and are therefore not subject to this condition of registration.

Guidance

358. The 'Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework (TEF)' means the scheme that the OfS has adopted under section 25 of HERA to give ratings to the quality of, and the standards applied to, higher education.
359. 'Participate' means that, if a provider does not currently have a TEF rating, or its TEF rating would expire within the next year, it must apply for TEF in the next TEF application window.
360. The OfS will adopt the following approach to calculating student numbers for this purpose: Student numbers will be calculated using data collected by the DDB or in the Individualised Learner Record. The calculation will be based on intensity of study where a full time student will typically count as one, and a part time student will be treated a proportion of a full time student. The calculation will only take into account students who are registered with the provider, rather than students registered with another provider but taught by the provider under a subcontractual arrangement. The OfS will publish a technical specification of the way it will perform this calculation
361. All registered providers with more than 500 higher education students are required to participate in TEF, provided they are eligible to do so. The eligibility criteria are set out in the published TEF specification²¹.

²¹ The current specification is published at: <https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/teaching-excellence-framework>

362. If a provider cannot take part in the TEF because it is not eligible to do so, it is not in breach of this condition of registration. However, as soon as the provider meets the eligibility criteria, this condition requires it to participate in the TEF at the next opportunity by applying in the next TEF application window.
363. If a provider is otherwise eligible for the TEF but does not have the necessary data for TEF purposes, then it is able to apply for a provisional award and it is considered that such a provider is eligible to participate.

Condition C1: Guidance on consumer protection law

Condition C1: The provider must demonstrate that in developing and implementing its policies, procedures and terms and conditions it has given due regard to relevant guidance about how to comply with consumer protection law.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Notes

364. Any assessment that the OfS makes about whether a provider has satisfied this condition is not a judgment about whether the provider is complying with consumer protection law and should not be seen as such. Providers will need to continue to seek their own legal advice to ensure compliance with the law.

Guidance

365. 'Policies, procedures and terms and conditions' means the arrangements that a provider has put in place to:

- a. Ensure that applicants and students are provided with accurate information about their course and the provider and that such information is quantifiable, timely, accessible and enforceable.
- b. Enter into student contracts that have transparent and fair terms and conditions.
- c. Ensure that complaint handling practices are clear, accessible and fair.

366. 'Student contracts' include the contract for academic services and other contracts into which a student may enter as part of the higher education experience, including but not limited to contracts governing the provision of accommodation, disability support packages, scholarships, sports facilities and additional course costs.

367. 'Relevant guidance' means the CMA's publication 'UK higher education providers: advice on consumer protection law'²², or other guidance that the provider can demonstrate to the satisfaction of the OfS is similarly authoritative.

368. In judging whether a provider has had due regard to relevant guidance about how to comply with consumer protection law, material that the OfS may consider includes:

²² <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/higher-education-consumer-law-advice-for-providers>. Compliance checklists are at Annex A of this guidance.

- a. Information provided or published by the provider about the approach it takes to ensuring compliance with consumer protection law.
- b. The information a provider publishes, or provides directly to applicants and students, about the provider and its courses.
- c. The contracts a provider uses to govern its relationship with students and the terms and conditions for these.
- d. Student complaints, whether to the OIA or elsewhere, that the provider is not operating in compliance with consumer protection law.
- e. Information from the CMA or from others, that the provider is not operating in compliance with consumer protection law.

Assessment

369. A provider seeking registration is required to submit a short self-assessment, describing how, in developing its policies, procedures and terms and conditions, it has given due regard to relevant guidance. Where the provider has used guidance other than that published by the CMA, it must demonstrate the appropriateness of this guidance.

370. The self-assessment must be evidenced by reference to supporting evidence, that might include, but not be limited to:

- information on organisational and staffing arrangements, for example, whether there is a department and / or designated staff member responsible for consumer law issues
- information about staff training on the provider's consumer law obligations
- minutes of relevant meetings and other relevant documentation
- information on working groups or committees established to ensure compliance with consumer law
- details of reviews (planned or actual) into information management and provision, complaint handling and the setting terms and conditions and/or contracts
- evidence that professional legal advice has been sought
- policies relating to sources of information for staff and students, with examples of how this is provided e.g. hyperlinks in the provider's submission
- policies and procedures intended to ensure that student contracts are fair and transparent
- policies and procedures relating to consumer law obligations, such as information management and provision, complaints handling and setting terms and conditions and/or contracts
- complaints process
- refund and compensation policy
- samples of web-site course descriptions, letters supporting offers to applicants, terms and conditions, model contracts

- information showing awareness of the OIA's Good Practice Framework.

371. In order to determine whether a provider continues to comply with this condition, the OfS's assessment will be informed by the provider's behaviour, information submitted by the provider, and any other information available to the OfS, such as whistleblowing / public interest disclosure reports submitted to OfS, or information from other relevant bodies, such as OIA, CMA or Trading Standards. The OfS may seek further information and evidence from a provider if it deems this to be necessary.

Behaviours

372. In order to determine whether or not a provider is complying with this condition on an ongoing basis, the OfS's judgement will be informed by the provider's behaviour, as well as information submitted by the provider or available to the OfS.

373. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this general ongoing condition. A provider:

- responds to the OfS's queries in relation to the condition quickly, openly and transparently
- regularly reviews the adequacy and effectiveness of its policies and procedures relating to the provision of information; terms and conditions; and complaints handling.

374. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these general ongoing conditions. A provider:

- does not follow the procedures set out in its original submission and this is evidenced to OfS through third party feedback from students, their representative organisations, CMA, OIA or Trading Standards
- does not engage with the OfS, and does not notify the OfS of any reportable events and/or does not retain and submit the required information in relation to any condition
- fails to comply with relevant statutory obligations, as indicated by judicial proceedings and/or steps taken by other regulators, or third parties such as Trading Standards, OIA, CMA, students or their representative bodies
- does not have management capacity and capability to ensure that it is able to continue to meet its ongoing conditions of registration.

Condition C2: Student complaints scheme

Condition C2: The provider must:

- i. cooperate with the requirements of the student complaints scheme run by the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education, including the subscription requirements;
- ii. make students aware of their ability to use the scheme.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 5 of HERA.

Notes

375. While it is not mandatory for the OfS to impose this condition of registration, section 89 of HERA amends the definition of qualifying institutions for the student complaints scheme for higher education so that all registered providers are required to become members of the scheme.

Guidance

Condition C2(i)

376. Cooperation with the requirements of the student complaints scheme is a general ongoing condition and is not assessed as an initial condition of registration.

377. In judging whether a provider is cooperating with the requirements of the student complaints scheme run by the OIA, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Information that it receives from the OIA in relation to a registered provider's cooperation with the complaints handling scheme.
- b. Information that it receives from the OIA in relation to the payment of the OIA's fee.

Condition C2(ii)

378. Making students aware of their ability to use the student complaints scheme is a general ongoing condition and is not assessed as an initial condition of registration.

379. In judging whether a provider is making its students aware of their ability to use the student complaints scheme, material that the OfS may consider includes information published on the provider's website and in its contractual and marketing and admissions materials.

Assessment

380. The OfS will assess, as part of its routine monitoring activity, the way that a provider draws the attention of its students to the OIA scheme in its marketing and contractual information.

Condition C3: Student protection plan

Condition C3: The provider must:

- i. have in force and publish a student protection plan which has been approved by the OfS as appropriate for its assessment of the regulatory risk presented by the provider and for the risk to continuation of study of all of its students;
- ii. take all reasonable steps to implement the provisions of the plan if the events set out in the plan take place;
- iii. inform the OfS of events, except for the closure of an individual course, that require the implementation of the provisions of the plan.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Legal basis: sections 5 and 13 of HERA.

Guidance

Condition C3(i)

381. 'Student protection plan' means a document or documents approved by the OfS under the condition imposed under sections 5 and 13(1)(c) of HERA.

382. To register, a provider is required to produce a student protection plan which meets the requirements set out below. The purpose of a student protection plan is to preserve the continuation and quality of study for all of the provider's students whenever a risk to the continued study of students crystallises.

383. The student protection plan must be tailored to the specific circumstances of an individual provider. It must include the provider's assessment of the risks to the continuation of study of the provider's students, the likelihood that those risks will crystallise, and the severity of the impact on students should the risks crystallise. The range of risks considered by the provider should include, but not be limited to, the risk that:

- the provider as a whole is no longer able to operate or no longer intends to operate
- the provider is no longer able to award the qualifications for which its students are registered because the OfS has varied or revoked the provider's degree awarding powers, or a validating partner has withdrawn validation
- one or more of the locations at which the provider delivers courses to students is no longer available
- the provider is no longer able to deliver courses to students in one or more subject areas and/or departments

- the provider is no longer able to deliver one or more courses to students, particularly if course closures are likely in the next three years
- the provider is no longer able to deliver material components of one or more courses, particularly if there are areas of vulnerability, such as single person dependencies for teaching
- the provider is no longer able to deliver one or more modes of study to students, particularly if withdrawal of a mode of study is likely
- the provider is no longer able to recruit or teach a particular type of student.

384. On the basis of the provider's risk assessment, the plan must set out the measures that the provider has put in place to mitigate those risks that it considers to be reasonably likely to crystallise. This will include existing procedures that are in place to respond should risks crystallise, and the steps the provider will take to ensure that mitigations are fair and reasonable for students. This will need to take into account the diversity of students and their needs, including for example considerations of mobility, educational need, parity of course content or financial consequences. The provider should make a commitment to offer students advice and support in the event that any of the risks to the continuation of study crystallise.

385. The plan should also contain information about the provider's refund and compensation policy for cases where it is not possible to preserve continuation of study.

386. The plan should be revised regularly to ensure that the risk assessment remains current and the mitigating measures remain practicable, relevant and effective. The plan should be produced in collaboration with students to ensure that their views, interests and needs are taken into account. The plan should be published in a clear and accessible way.

Condition C3(ii)

387. A provider will satisfy this condition by informing the OfS promptly of events that require the implementation of any of the provisions of the plan.

Condition C3(iii)

388. A provider will satisfy this condition by implementing the provisions of the plan when the events set out in the plan take place.

389. In judging whether a provider has implemented the provisions of its plan, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Student complaints, whether to the OIA or elsewhere, that the provisions of the provider's plan have not been implemented as set out in the plan.
- b. Information from the provider about how it intends to implement its plan.

Assessment

390. During the initial registration process, the OfS will complete a risk assessment for a provider to determine the extent of the risk of a future breach of any of its ongoing conditions of registration. The OfS will assess the provider's student protection plan in the context of this risk assessment and in the context of the provider's own assessment of risks to the continuation of study for its students. This will allow the OfS to decide whether the provisions of the plan are appropriate for the provider's circumstances and for its students. Where the OfS considers there to be an increased risk of a future breach and/or an increase in the risk to students' continuation of study, it may require additional mitigation in the provider's student protection plan before this can be approved. It may also impose specific conditions of registration where it considers additional mitigation to be necessary.

391. Registration will not take place, if the mitigations in a provider's student protection plan are considered inadequate to the risks identified by the provider or by the OfS.
392. A provider that is a further education college or a sixth form college will need to ensure that the measures in its student protection plan align with other student protection measures that apply in the further education sector, such as special administration regimes.
393. Where the OfS's routine monitoring activities identify a change in the extent of the regulatory risk for an individual provider or in the risk to the continuation of study for the provider's students, it may seek assurance that the measures in the provider's student protection plan remain sufficient to mitigate risks identified. The OfS may require further mitigating measures to be included and/or may require the plan to be revised and provided to the OfS on a more frequent basis.

Behaviours

394. In order to determine whether or not a provider is complying with this condition on an ongoing basis, the OfS's judgement will be informed by the provider's behaviour, as well as information submitted by the provider or available to OfS.
395. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this general ongoing condition:
- a clear commitment to preserving the continuation of study for all current and potential students in the provider's student protection plan
 - a plan that is credible, deliverable and its measures will in practice protect students
 - publication of the plan and making it available to all current and prospective students and staff
 - regular review and updating of the plan, preferably on an annual basis
 - the measures in the plan are fair and viable, and take into account the potential impact on the diversity of students and their needs, including for example considerations of mobility, educational need, parity of course content or financial consequences
 - the provider works with its students when creating and implementing the student protection measures, including giving adequate notice of changes to courses and providing appropriate support to all students.
396. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these general ongoing conditions. The provider:
- fails to publish its plan in a clear and accessible way

- is not meeting the obligations set out in its plan
- fails to submit an updated plan to the OfS as required
- does not regularly review its plan and fails to update the plan to reflect changes in its circumstances
- fails to engage with the OfS about the content of, and any updates to, its plan
- has a plan that is not tested or fails to take into account the diversity of its students and their needs
- fails to provide clear information about when and how the measures in its plan may be triggered.

Condition D: Financial viability and sustainability

Condition D: The provider must:

- i. be financially viable;
- ii. be financially sustainable;
- iii. have the necessary financial resources to provide and fully deliver the higher education courses as it has advertised and as it has contracted to deliver them;
- iv. have the necessary financial resources to continue to comply with all conditions of its registration.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 5 of HERA.

Notes

397. The information submitted by a provider to demonstrate that it satisfies this ongoing condition of registration will also be used by the OfS to monitor and report on financial sustainability under section 68 of HERA.

398. The OfS forms judgements as to a provider's financial performance and position solely for its own purposes. No responsibility is accepted to the provider or any third party. Neither the provider nor any third party may place any reliance upon such a judgement.

Guidance

Condition D(i)

399. 'Financially viable' means that the OfS judges that there is no reason to suppose the provider is at material risk of insolvency within a period of three years from the date on which the judgement is made.

400. 'Insolvency' means a provider being unable to pay its debts as they fall due.

401. Being unable to pay debts as they fall due has the meaning given by section 123 of the Insolvency Act 1986, substituting 'the OfS' for 'the court' in section 123(2).

402. In judging whether a provider is at material risk of insolvency, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The provider's most recent audited financial statements.
- b. The provider's financial forecasts.
- c. Previous audited financial statements, to identify trends in the provider's financial situation.

- d. Other information concerning the provider's financial situation.
- e. The provider's current obligations.
- f. Obligations that it is reasonable to assume the provider intends to undertake within the next three years, having regard to any announcements it may make, its stated objectives, business plans, and other relevant material.

403. The OfS will have regard to the availability of financial facilities or legally binding obligations of financial support from third parties (which includes any entity that is not the provider itself). A legally binding obligation of financial support means an unqualified undertaking enforceable by court action to meet the financial obligations of the provider as they fall due, or to put the provider in funds so that it may itself meet those obligations, if the provider is unable to do so. In having such regard:

- a. The OfS will consider the terms of any financial facilities and in particular whether they are repayable on demand or are term facilities, and if term facilities the date of expiry.
- b. Where facilities are on demand or will expire during the period in respect of which a judgement as to solvency is being made, the likelihood of the facilities being called in or renewed and if so on what terms.
- c. Where a legally binding obligation of financial support is in place, the duration and other terms of that obligation and the overall financial strength of the counterparty, evidenced by audited financial statements of the counterparty and if necessary its ultimate parent company.

404. It will be for the provider to ensure that the OfS is fully informed as to its financial facilities, and it will be expected to consent to the OfS making direct enquiry of the finance provider if requested to do so. The OfS may draw inferences from a failure to provide such consent.

405. OfS will not place weight on a legally binding obligation of financial support from third parties unless that obligation is:

- a. Governed by the laws of England and Wales.
- b. Subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Courts of England and Wales.
- c. Expressed to be directly enforceable by the OfS in addition to the provider.

406. The OfS is unlikely to place significant weight on a legally binding obligations of financial support from third parties unless the third party is incorporated in the United Kingdom or in a state in which a judgement of the Courts of England and Wales may be directly enforced.

407. The OfS will not have regard to non-legally binding expressions of financial support from third parties, including a parent company of the provider.

Condition D(ii)

408. 'Financially sustainable' means the OfS judges that the provider's plans and protections show that it has sufficient financial resources to fulfil conditions D(iii) and D(iv) for the period of five years from the date on which the judgement is made, and that it is likely to be able to operate in accordance with these plans and projections over this period.

409. In judging whether a provider is financially sustainable, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Whether the provider is financially viable.
- b. The material set out under guidance on condition D(i) above.
- c. Whether the provider's current and recent audited financial statements show that it is generating appropriate levels of cash and profit or surplus.
- d. The causes of any losses made or deficits incurred, whether these were planned or unplanned, and the credibility of the provider's actions or plans to eliminate such losses or deficits.
- e. The provider's balance sheet including the extent to which assets exceed liabilities, and the ability to liquidate assets if required.
- f. Obligations that it is reasonable for the OfS to expect a registered provider comparable to the provider to incur, regardless of the provider's actual intention, to account for what the OfS considers to be appropriate investment in the provider's staff, estate and physical and virtual infrastructure to deliver a high quality learning experience.
- g. Obligations that the provider intends to, or has announced that it is considering, incurring. This will include obligations implied by announced or adopted plans and intentions, even if not detailed within those plans or intentions.

410. The OfS will have regard to the availability of financial facilities or legally binding obligations of financial support from third parties. In having such regard the OfS will consider the same material and apply the same approach as detailed above under condition D(i).

Condition D(iii)

411. In judging whether a provider has the necessary financial resources to provide and fully deliver the higher education courses as it has advertised and as it has contracted to deliver (thus enabling students to complete their courses), material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Any or all material set out in guidance on condition D(i) and D(ii) above.
- b. Student complaints, whether to the OIA or elsewhere, that courses have been/are not being delivered as advertised or as contracted.
- c. Staff complaints that courses have been/are not being delivered as advertised or as contracted.

412. For the avoidance of doubt, this condition does not oblige a provider to continue to offer a course or part of a course that it judges to be no longer financially viable, provided in doing so it honours any obligations already entered into.

Condition D(iv)

No specific guidance.

Assessment

413. During the initial registration process the OfS will carry out a comprehensive assessment of a provider's financial performance and position, to inform the OfS's risk assessment under section 7 of HERA. This will enable the OfS to identify any particular pressure points and areas of risk and to ensure that the ongoing conditions of registration that are applied to the provider on registration are proportionate to regulatory risk.

414. A provider can demonstrate compliance with the initial condition on financial viability and sustainability by submitting satisfactory evidence of its past and current financial performance (where a provider has operated previously), as well as forecasts. The evidence²³ that the OfS would normally require is:

- Full audited financial statements (for the last three years, where a provider has been in operation and providing higher education for this period, or, where a provider has been in operation for less than three years, for the period in which the provider has been in operation and providing higher education) comprising (as set out in FRS102) statement of financial position; either a statement of comprehensive income or a statement of income and retained earnings; statement of changes in equity; statement of cash flows; and notes to the financial statements. The auditor must be independent of the provider, and of the preparer of the financial statements, and be listed on the Register of Statutory Auditors.
- Financial forecast tables approved by the provider's governing body (including the current year budget and four year forecasts for financial and student number data, as well as underlying details of any growth or divestment plans).
- Commentary to support the financial forecast tables to ensure that the OfS understands the provider's context and the assumptions underlying its forecasts.

415. Where relevant, the OfS will also seek information about:

- The provider's business plan (in particular where the provider is financially weak or new to the market, with no or only a short track record of operations and/or delivery of higher education), including robust and well evidenced forecasts and assumptions.
- Legally binding parental or other legally binding deed of undertaking, including evidence that the guarantor can fulfil the deed (if a provider is relying on such a guarantee to meet the condition) – this may include audited financial statements where the guarantor is a company or similar entity (see paragraph 403 above for what guarantees are acceptable) and proof of the guarantor's identity and funding sources.
- Any other relevant supporting evidence, such as endorsement by the validating body for any student numbers forecasts, access to bank and or equity finance, and any restrictions on funds (for example, by charitable trusts).

416. In order to demonstrate compliance with the general ongoing condition on financial viability and sustainability, providers that the OfS considers not to be posing specific risks in this area, and that are notified accordingly, will be required to report the minimum level of necessary information and data to the OfS on a regular basis. The minimum information required for this condition is:

- Full, audited financial statements as per FRS102²⁴ and in accordance with the OfS's accounts direction, to be submitted on an annual basis.
- Financial forecasts, to be submitted annually for most providers. The OfS may choose to vary the frequency, depending on provider size and/or risk, and in line with condition I.

417. This information will be used to inform lead indicators, described in part III above.

418. In addition, under condition F3, a provider is required to inform the OfS of any changes that might affect its ability to comply with the general ongoing conditions, including this condition.

419. If any of the lead indicators, or any other information available to the OfS, trigger concerns that the provider's risk profile in this area has changed, and/or that the provider may be at increased risk of no longer fully complying with the condition, the OfS may request further information, and may revisit the initial, comprehensive assessment of the provider's financial viability and sustainability.

420. Providers that are not considered to be at low risk of breaching this condition on registration or as a result of monitoring, may be subject to specific ongoing conditions that could be associated with additional reporting requirements, to enable the OfS to more closely monitor and mitigate the provider-specific risks. The procedure for imposing such a condition after registration is set out in section 6 of HERA.

Behaviours

421. In order to determine whether or not a provider is complying with this condition on an ongoing basis, the OfS's judgement will be informed by the provider's behaviour, as well as information submitted by the provider or available to the OfS.

422. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this general ongoing condition:

- financial forecasts and business plans, including underlying assumptions, are credible and show how resources will be used
- the provider complies with the OfS's accounts direction
- financial forecasts are met
- the provider operates within existing financial facilities
- invoices are paid within terms (save where disputed on substantial grounds)

²⁴ Within the requirements of FRS102, a provider should use the accounting rules most appropriate to its circumstances and should discuss with its auditor whether it is appropriate to follow the FEHE SORP. It is not a requirement of the OfS that it should do so.

- unplanned changes to courses or activities are avoided
- registration fees are paid on time
- accounts are filed on time.

423. The following are non-exhausted examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these general ongoing conditions:

- forecasts and/or business plans are not credible, and/or not based on accurate data and information
- the provider does not comply with the OfS's accounts direction
- financial forecasts are not met
- new and extended financial facilities are sought and used
- existing financial facilities are revoked, not renewed, or have more onerous terms imposed on them
- invoices are not paid within terms (except if disputed on substantial grounds)
- court judgements are not paid within terms
- unplanned or disorderly changes to courses or activities are made
- accounts are overdue for filing.

Condition E1: Public interest governance

Condition E1: The provider's governing documents must uphold the public interest governance principles that are applicable to the provider.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Legal basis: sections 13 and 14 of HERA.

Guidance

424. 'Governing documents' means the documents adopted, or that should have been adopted by the provider, that describe any of the provider's objectives or values, its powers, who has a role in decision making within the provider, how the provider takes decisions about how to exercise its functions, or how it monitors their exercise. This test will be broadly rather than narrowly applied. Where a document in part deals with any such matters, and in part with other matters, the whole of the document is a 'governing document'.
425. Depending on the legal form of the provider its 'governing documents' may include a Royal Charter, Statutes and Ordinances, articles of association, or Instruments of Government and/or a trust deed or deeds. They are also likely to include documents such as schemes of delegation, terms of reference of committees to which significant functions have been delegated, the provider's policies on matters such as management of conflicts of interest, support for freedom of speech or academic freedom, and/or member/shareholder agreements where these may influence the operation of the provider.
426. 'Uphold the public interest governance principles' means as a minimum to reflect them, and where a public interest governance principle requires an active step to be taken, to provide a suitable framework to ensure that that step is identified, defined, taken, and can be shown to have been taken.
427. 'The public interest governance principles that are applicable to the provider' means the principles identified as applicable in Annex B.
428. 'Governing body' (used below) has the meaning given by section 85 of HERA.
429. In judging whether a provider's governing documents uphold the public interest governance principles that are applicable to the provider, material that the OfS may consider includes:
- a. The provider's governing documents.
 - b. The provider's self-assessment of those documents.
 - c. The size, complexity and legal form of the provider.

Assessment

430. During the initial registration process the OfS will carry out an assessment of the extent to which a provider's governing documents uphold the public interest governance principles. A provider is required to submit its governing documents and a self-assessment of how those documents uphold the public interest governance principles.

431. If a provider follows a governance code, the provider's self-assessment may point to its use of the code as evidence that its governing documents uphold the relevant public interest governance principles. It is the provider's responsibility to demonstrate how use of its chosen code ensures that its governing documents uphold the public interest governance principles. Where the provider's chosen code does not deliver all of the principles, the provider will need to demonstrate separately how its governing documents uphold the remaining principles.
432. Alternatively, a provider may wish to demonstrate that its governing documents uphold the public interest governance principles without the adoption of a particular code of governance.

Behaviours

433. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this condition. The provider:
- notifies the OfS in advance of any changes to its governing documents that might affect the public interest governance principles, and submits the revised documents
 - gives timely notification to the OfS of relevant changes in its governing documents.
434. The following is a non-exhaustive example of behaviour that may indicate non-compliance with this condition:
- the provider makes changes to its governing documents that affect the public interest governance principles without submitting an updated version to the OfS as soon as reasonably practicable following the change.

Condition E2: Management and governance

Condition E2: The provider must have in place adequate and effective management and governance arrangements to:

- i. operate in accordance with its governing documents;
- ii. deliver, in practice, the public interest governance principles that are applicable to it;
- iii. provide and fully deliver the higher education courses advertised;
- iv. continue to comply with all conditions of its registration.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: initial and ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 5 of HERA.

Guidance

435. An arrangement is 'adequate' if it is capable of delivering its stated or implied objective.

436. An arrangement is 'effective' if it is operated so as to deliver its stated or implied objective and those objectives are delivered as a result.

437. 'Governing documents' (used below) has the meaning set out for Condition E1.

438. 'Operate in a way that is consistent with its governing documents' includes that the provider seeks to achieve its objectives, that its decisions are informed by its values, and that decisions are in fact taken by the body or individual identified in the governing documents as taking those decisions, acting without direction coercion or covert influence.

439. 'Governing body' (used below) has the meaning given by section 85 of HERA.

440. As different providers will have different levels of complexity (including size, nature of the business and legal form), different management and governance arrangements may be appropriate for different providers. Arrangements that may be appropriate for small providers might not be appropriate for large, complex providers, those with degree awarding powers, or with university title. A provider will therefore need to demonstrate that its particular management and governance arrangements are appropriate for its size, complexity and risk environment.

441. In judging whether a provider's arrangements are adequate, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The provider's management and governance arrangements.
- b. The provider's self-assessment of those arrangements.

- c. The size, complexity and legal form of the provider.
- d. Any governance code to which the provider says it is committed, the appropriateness of this code, and the visibility and strength of that commitment.

442. In judging whether a provider's arrangements are effective, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The provider's management and governance arrangements.
- b. The provider's self-assessment of those arrangements.
- c. Records of how the provider takes and monitors its decisions, such as agenda, reports, and minutes.
- d. Whether decisions are taken in public or in private.
- e. The substance of decisions and actions taken by the provider.
- f. The outcomes achieved by the provider, including whether courses are delivered as advertised and whether conditions of registration are met.
- g. Whether the provider takes appropriate action to mitigate increased risk of a breach of its conditions of registration.

443. In judging whether a provider has in place adequate and effective management and governance arrangements that operate in accordance with its governing documents, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The provider's governing documents.
- b. The provider's self-assessment of those documents.
- c. Records of how the provider takes and monitors its decisions, such as agenda, reports, and minutes.
- d. Whether decisions are taken in public or in private.
- e. The substance of decisions and actions taken by the provider.

444. In judging whether a provider has in place adequate and effective management and governance arrangements to deliver, in practice, the public interest governance principles that are applicable to it, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The actions of the provider and whether they deliver the applicable public interest governance principles in practice, including but not limited to:
 - i. Whether there is a student member of the provider's governing body, where the provider's legal form does not preclude this.
 - ii. Regular publication of clear information about its arrangements for securing value for money including, in a value for money statement, data about the sources of its income and the way that its income is used.

- iii. Inclusion in the provider's audited financial statements of information about the pay of senior staff in accordance with the OfS's accounts direction, and publication of this information.
- iv. Whether the governing body publishes its written commitment to comply with the higher education remuneration code published by the CUC, and the visibility and strength of that commitment, or any explanation provided by the governing body about why it has not published its written commitment to comply with that remuneration code.
- v. Publication of a code of practice to ensure compliance with the statutory duty on freedom of speech in section 43 of the Education (No.2) Act 1986.

Assessment

445. The OfS will assess the extent to which a provider's governance arrangements are adequate and effective. The evidence required for this purpose may vary from provider to provider. When it first seeks registration each provider is required to submit a self-assessment of the adequacy and effectiveness of its management and governance arrangements. The OfS may require additional supporting evidence from the provider, and this may include but not be limited to:

- information that demonstrates that the provider is owned and controlled by fit and proper persons
- information to provide transparency of inter-relationships between companies/organisations
- membership and terms of reference of the governing body and its committees
- evidence of risk management tools and processes (e.g. a risk register)
- Audit Committee annual report (where appropriate)
- internal audit plan and annual report (where appropriate)
- the report of any recent effectiveness review of the governing body and any of its committees, and the actions taken in response to the report
- information about governor (or equivalent) recruitment and induction.

446. Once registered, and in order to demonstrate compliance with the general ongoing condition, the OfS will require those providers that it considers pose no increased risk in this area to submit or make available the minimum information required:

- provide to the OfS the latest version of the provider's governing documents when any changes are made
- make publicly available the minutes of the meetings of its governing body and committees, except where such material is genuinely confidential.

447. In addition to this minimum, providers in receipt of public grant funding subject to the additional public interest governance principles, are likely to be required to provide additional information, including but not limited to:

- an opinion by an external auditor that the provider is using the funds for the purposes given
- information about value for money for public grant funding
- an opinion from an audit committee and/or internal audit on the adequacy and effectiveness of arrangements for securing value for money from such funding.

448. Where the OfS considers that the risk of a provider breaching this condition is not low, it may require additional information to be provided and may put in place additional monitoring. This may include, but not be limited to, the information set out in paragraph 445 above.

449. The OfS may carry out an on-site review of the provider's management and governance arrangements, where it considers this to be necessary or desirable to confirm that a provider satisfies the initial or ongoing condition. The need for, and frequency of, such reviews will be proportionate to the OfS's assessment of risk. A provider for which the OfS determines that the risk of a breach is not low is more likely to require such a review.

Behaviours

450. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this condition:

- the provider adopts and follows a recognised and appropriate governance code
- the provider publicly explains its approach to the remuneration of senior staff and remuneration decisions are transparent
- the provider publishes information about senior staff pay as required by the OfS's accounts direction
- the provider follows and adheres to the principles and structures set out in its governing documents
- the provider's actions appear to align with its objectives and values
- the provider complies with its other statutory duties
- the provider takes responsibility for its own decision making, and does so in an open and accountable way
- the provider provides timely, accurate and complete information to the OfS, a designated body, or other person nominated by the OfS, and to its students and other stakeholders
- the provider regularly reviews the adequacy and effectiveness of its own governance arrangements, with external input, particularly with regard to the public interest governance principles, and to course delivery and compliance with its conditions of registration and takes appropriate action
- governing documents, as described above, are readily and publically available
- delegations are appropriate, reserving important matters to the governing body while delegating matters that may require specialist detailed scrutiny, or that may be insufficiently important ordinarily to require governing body attention

- full reports are provided to decision making bodies within the provider to inform their work
- full minutes of decisions are kept
- reports and minutes are in the public domain, and the designation of material as confidential is kept to the minimum necessary
- the provider maintains a public register of conflicts of interest and such conflicts are appropriately managed in practice
- the provider ensures that the use to which it puts funds received from whatever source is consistent with the purposes for which those funds were given (regularity)
- the provider provides sufficient information on a regular basis to demonstrate it operates in an open and accountable way, and provides and publishes information about how it ensures value for money.

451. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these conditions:

- the provider does not act openly, honestly, accountably and with integrity
- the provider is unable or unwilling to provide timely, accurate and complete information to the OfS, a designated body or other person nominated by the OfS, and to its students and other stakeholders
- the provider does not review the adequacy and effectiveness of its own governance arrangements, in particular with regard to the public interest governance principles and to ensure course delivery and compliance with its conditions of registration, or it carries out such a review but does not take appropriate action
- delegations are inappropriate, either delegating important matters below the governing body or retaining too much material for the governing body and so reducing its ability to scrutinise important issues
- not all governing documents, as described above, are readily and publically available
- reports to or minutes of decision making bodies are perfunctory, or designate extensive material as confidential without adequate reason
- students or staff complain that higher education courses are not delivered as advertised
- conditions of registration are breached and/or steps are not taken to mitigate an increased risk of a breach
- a provider does not engage with the OfS, obstructs the OfS regulatory activity, and/or does not notify the OfS of any reportable events and/or does not submit the required information in relation to any condition
- a provider fails to comply with its other statutory obligations, as indicated by judicial proceedings and/or steps taken by other regulators
- the provider does not have sufficient management capacity and capability to ensure that it is able to continue to meet its conditions of registration

- the provider fails to comply with legislation on equality and diversity, and does not have regard to its policies on equality and diversity
- the provider misuses funding, for example through fraud, abuse of funds, financial mismanagement or irregularity
- the provider does not comply with conditions imposed on it by or under regulations made under s22 of the Teaching and Higher Education Act 1998 (financial support for students)
- the provider seeks to abdicate responsibility for decision making, and seeks steers from the OfS
- the provider does not provide sufficient information on a regular basis to demonstrate it operates in an open and accountable way, and does not provide and publish information about how it ensures value for money
- the provider fails to abide by its own freedom of speech code.

Condition E3: Accountability

Condition E3: The governing body of a provider must:

- i. accept responsibility for the interactions between the provider and the OfS and its designated bodies;
- ii. ensure the provider's compliance with all of its conditions of registration and with the OfS's accounts direction;
- iii. nominate to the OfS a senior officer as the 'accountable officer' who has the responsibilities set out by the OfS for an accountable officer from time to time.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 5 of HERA.

Guidance

452. 'Governing body' has the meaning given by section 85 of HERA.

453. 'Accounts direction' means the document that the OfS publishes from time to time to set out its requirements for the content and publication of a provider's audited financial statements. The accounts direction will include, but not be limited to, the disclosures that the OfS requires in relation to:

- a. Senior staff pay in all registered providers.
- b. Those providers that are exempt charities.

454. The OfS's first accounts direction will require disclosures that include, but are not limited to:

- a. The number of staff with a basic salary of over £100,000 per annum, broken down into bands of £5,000.
- b. Full details of the total remuneration package and job title for each member of staff with a basic salary of over £150,000 per annum, including bonuses, pension contributions and other taxable benefits.
- c. A justification for the total remuneration package for the head of the provider and the provider's most senior staff.
- d. The relationship between the head of provider's remuneration and that of all other employees, expressed as a pay multiple.

455. 'Accountable officer' means a senior officer at the provider, who should normally be the head of the provider, vice-chancellor, principal, chief executive or equivalent. An accountable officer who is not the most senior officer of the provider would only be accepted where the

OfS considers that there is sufficient reason for this, for example, if the provider has a number of activities not all of which are related to its higher education provision, and there is a senior officer who is not the overall CEO but is responsible for the higher education activities.

456. In judging whether a provider's governing body accepts responsibility for its the interactions between the provider and the OfS, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The substance of the provider's interaction with the OfS and its designated bodies.
- b. The substance of decisions and actions taken by the provider.
- c. Whether the provider's interactions with the OfS and its designated bodies are open and honest.

457. In judging whether a provider's governing body ensures the provider's compliance with all of its conditions of registration, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Any breaches of the provider's conditions of registration.
- b. The actions taken by the provider to mitigate an increased risk of a breach of conditions of registration.
- c. The substance of the provider's responses to the OfS's regulatory requirements.

458. In judging whether a provider's governing body nominates to the OfS, a senior officer as the 'accountable officer' who shall be accountable to the OfS on behalf of the governing body, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The individual nominated as the accountable officer and their suitability.
- b. The way in which the accountable officer discharges their responsibilities.
- c. Whether the governing body promptly informs the OfS of any reasons that the nominated accountable officer is unable to discharge their responsibilities.
- d. Whether the governing body promptly informs the OfS of a change of accountable officer.

Assessment

459. As part of its initial application for registration, the governing body of a provider must provide the OfS with the name, job title, and contact details of the individual it wishes to nominate as its accountable officer. If this individual is acceptable to the OfS, the OfS will write to that individual setting out the responsibilities of an accountable officer. The governing body must subsequently inform the OfS of a proposed change in the provider's accountable officer.

460. Where the OfS is not satisfied with the way in which the accountable officer is discharging their responsibilities, it may impose a specific condition of registration requiring the governing body to appoint a more suitable individual as accountable officer.

Condition E4: Notification of changes to the Register

Condition E4: The governing body of the provider must notify the OfS of any change of which it becomes aware which affects the accuracy of the information contained in the provider's entry in the Register.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 8 of HERA – mandatory.

Guidance

461. The purpose of this condition is to ensure that the OfS is able to maintain its Register as an authoritative and accurate record of the providers for which it has regulatory oversight.
462. A provider must provide information whenever the information on the Register has become inaccurate. The provider is likely to be the primary source of updated information, and will be expected to be proactive in supplying this information.
463. The OfS requires a provider to inform it of any change within 28 days of the provider becoming aware of the change. This notification must be accompanied by any relevant supporting evidence to allow the OfS to verify that the change is required. The evidence required to verify a change will vary depending on the change, for example this might be the URL for a new website or proof of address where the contact address has changed. The OfS may ask for further information if it deems this necessary.
464. The OfS will update the Register with the latest information it has about a provider. Providers will be expected to notify the OfS if any of the changes the OfS has made to the Register have resulted in inaccurate information being published and to support this process, the OfS will require a provider to check and confirm its entry on the Register once a year.

Assessment

465. The OfS may request information from a provider if it wishes to verify the accuracy of information displayed on the Register, or to investigate any concerns that may have been brought to its attention that information may be incorrect or out of date.
466. Where inaccurate information is identified, the OfS may require the provider to supply an explanation or commitment to correct the information within a timescale specified in correspondence.
467. Where the OfS finds evidence that information is incorrect through the provider's mismanagement, negligence or deliberate intent to delay or conceal correct information from appearing, it may take appropriate action which may include putting in place enhanced monitoring or specific ongoing conditions requiring, for example, a provider to supply evidence that they have checked and verified the data on a regular basis. The OfS may consider whether behaviour of this type represents an increased risk of a breach of other conditions of registration such as those for information or management and management and governance.

Condition E5: Facilitation of electoral registration

Condition E5: The provider must comply with guidance published by the OfS to facilitate, in cooperation with electoral registration officers, the electoral registration of students.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: sections 5 and 13 of HERA.

Guidance

468. 'Guidance published by the OfS' means directions set out by the OfS under this condition of registration.

469. 'Electoral registration officer' means a registration officer appointed under section 8(2) of the Representation of the People Act 1983.

470. 'The electoral registration of students' means the registration of students on a register of electors maintained by such an officer under section 9 of that Act.

471. In judging whether a provider has complied with guidance published by the OfS to facilitate, in cooperation with electoral registration officers, the electoral registration of students, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. the substance of decisions and actions taken by the provider
- b. the provider's cooperation with electoral registration officers
- c. the outcomes achieved by the provider, including whether students are registered on a register of electors.

Behaviours

472. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this condition. The provider:

- provides information to an electoral registration officer when asked to do so in line with the legal requirement on it under regulation 23 of the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001
- has facilitated cooperation and an effective partnership with the electoral registration officer
- has provided its students with easily accessible information about how to register to vote.

473. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with this condition:

- an electoral registration officer reports a lack of cooperation from the provider

- the provider's students are not aware of how they should register to vote.

Condition F1: Transparency information

Condition F1: The provider must provide to the OfS, and publish, in the manner and form specified by the OfS, the transparency information set out in section 9 of HERA.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers, subject to approval by Parliament.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 9 of HERA – mandatory – and section 5.

Notes

474. Under section 9 of HERA, the OfS must impose an ongoing condition of registration requiring the governing bodies of certain registered providers, prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State, to provide to the OfS, and to publish, such information as the OfS requests in relation to one or more of the types of data set out in sections 9(2) and 9(3) of HERA.

Guidance

475. 'The transparency information' means such information as the OfS requests in relation to the following:

- a. The number of applications for admission on to higher education courses that the provider has received.
- b. The number of offers made by the provider in relation to those applications.
- c. The number of those offers accepted and the number of those who go on to register at the provider.
- d. The number of students who registered and went on to complete their course with the provider.
- e. The number of students who attained a particular degree or other academic award, or a particular level of such an award, on completion of their course with the provider.

476. In each case, the information that the OfS may request includes those numbers by reference to the following:

- the gender of the individuals to which they relate
- their ethnicity
- their socio-economic background.

477. In judging whether a provider has provided to the OfS, and published, in the manner and form specified by the OfS, the transparency information set out in section 9 of HERA, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The quality, reliability and timeliness of the transparency information provided to the OfS.

- b. The manner and form of the published transparency information.
- c. The accessibility of the transparency information published on the provider's website.

Assessment

478. The OfS will not ask for the transparency information when a provider first registers. After its initial registration, a provider must provide and publish its most recent transparency information on an annual basis. The OfS will publish technical guidance about the specification of information and the timing and format for its publication.
479. In order to satisfy this condition on an ongoing basis, a provider will need to ensure that the transparency information is published on its website so that it is easily accessible for students and for anyone who might be seeking this information.
480. While the condition requires that individual providers publish this information, and share the data with the OfS, the OfS may also make the data returned to it available through a central service and/or as an open dataset for use by other information providers.
481. The OfS will monitor the quality, reliability and timeliness of a provider's transparency information. It will also monitor the clarity and accessibility of the transparency information on the provider's website.

Behaviours

482. In order to determine whether or not a provider is complying with this condition on an ongoing basis, the OfS's judgement will be informed by the provider's behaviour, as well as information submitted by the provider or available to the OfS.
483. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this general ongoing condition. The transparency information:
- is provided to the OfS in the required format and by the published deadline
 - is published on the provider's website in the required form in an accessible place.
484. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with these general ongoing conditions. The transparency information:
- is not provided to the OfS in the required format or on time
 - is not published in line with the guidance in an accessible place on the provider's website
 - is inaccurate or incomplete.

Condition F2: Student transfer arrangements

Condition F2: The provider must provide to the OfS, and publish, information about its arrangements for a student to transfer.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 5 of HERA.

Guidance

485. 'A student transfer' is as defined as in section 38(2) of HERA.

486. In judging whether a provider has provided to the OfS and published information about its arrangements for a student to transfer, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The information about arrangements for transfer provided to the OfS by the provider.
- b. The information about arrangements for transfer published by the provider.
- c. Any explanation from the provider about how it facilitates student transfer.

Assessment

487. Providers will demonstrate compliance with this condition by providing and publishing information on their transfer arrangements as described above.

488. If a provider fails to satisfy this condition of registration, the OfS may request further information from the provider and make this publicly available. It may also work with the provider to facilitate the provision of student transfer arrangements in accordance with section 38 of HERA.

Condition F3: Provision of information to the OfS

Condition F3: For the purpose of assisting the OfS in performing any function, or exercising any power, conferred on the OfS under any legislation, the governing body of a provider must:

- i. provide the OfS, or a person nominated by the OfS, with such information as the OfS specifies at the time and in the manner and form specified;
- ii. permit the OfS to verify, or arrange for the independent verification by a person nominated by the OfS of such information as the OfS specifies at the time and in the manner specified, and must notify the OfS of the outcome of any independent verification at the time and in the manner and form specified;
- iii. take such steps as the OfS reasonably requests to co-operate with any monitoring or investigation by the OfS, in particular, but not limited to, providing explanations or making available documents to the OfS or a person nominated by it or making available members of staff to meet with the OfS or a person nominated by it.

The requirements in paragraphs (ii) and (iii) do not affect the generality of the requirement in paragraph (i).

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: Section 8 of HERA – mandatory.

Guidance

489. The information that a provider must supply to meet this condition will depend on its category of registration and the OfS's assessment of the risk for that provider.

490. This condition also applies to any information held by any subcontractors that may be providing services on the provider's behalf.

491. In judging whether the governing body of a provider has provided the OfS, or a person nominated by the OfS, with such information as the OfS specifies at the time and in the manner and form specified, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The quality, reliability and timeliness of information provided by the provider to the OfS, or to a person nominated by the OfS, in respect of any of the provider's conditions of registration or in respect of any of the OfS's functions.
- b. Whether the provider has properly reported 'reportable events' as defined below to the OfS as soon as reasonably possible once such an event is contemplated or the provider becomes aware of it, or that it is likely to occur.
- c. Whether a provider in receipt of student support funding provides the information necessary for the Student Loans Company (SLC) to administer student support in line with regulations made under section 22 of the Teaching and Higher Education Act 1998. This information includes, but is not limited to:

- i. DATA related to eligible courses.
 - ii. Confirmation that the fee charged to a student correctly matches the student's course of study.
 - iii. Information about student registration and attendance.
 - iv. Information about any changes that may affect a student's eligibility for student support.
 - v. Timely information of a student's withdrawal from their course.
- d. Whether the provider has reported to the OfS any information relating to the provider that a reasonable regulator in the OfS's position could regard as material to any of the matters that it regulates.
- e. Whether the provider has in place sufficient and appropriate resource and expertise to be able to provide reliable and timely information.

492. In judging whether the governing body of a provider has permitted the OfS to verify, or arrange for the independent verification by a person nominated by the OfS, of such information as the OfS specifies at the time and in the manner specified and has notified the OfS of the outcome of any independent verification at the time and in the manner and form specified, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The substance of the actions taken by the provider to assist the OfS with the verification of information, or to provide information about the outcome of any independent verification.
- b. The findings of data audit activity carried out by, or on behalf of, the OfS or another body.

493. In judging whether the governing body of a provider has taken such steps as the OfS reasonably requests to cooperate with any monitoring or investigation by the OfS, in particular, but not limited to, providing explanations or making available documents to the OfS or a person nominated by it or making available members of staff to meet with the OfS or a person nominated by it, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The substance and promptness of the actions taken by the provider to cooperate with any monitoring or investigation by the OfS and to provide access to information, documents, systems and people as the OfS deems necessary.
- b. The credibility of any explanations given by the provider.
- c. The availability, completeness and reliability of documents provided to the OfS.
- d. The openness and honesty of members of staff with whom the OfS may ask to meet.

Reportable events

494. A reportable event is any event or circumstance that, in the judgement of the OfS, materially affects or could materially affect the provider's legal form or business model, and/or its willingness or ability to comply with its conditions of registration. Reportable events must be reported to the OfS under condition F3(i) and include, but are not limited to:

a. A change in the provider's circumstances, including but not limited to:

- a sale of either the provider itself, a part of it, or its parent
- a merger of the provider with another entity
- an acquisition by the provider of another entity
- a material change in the provider's business model, such as a move to focus on further instead of higher education
- a change in the provider's legal status
- other, similar structural changes, such as the establishment of joint ventures, or the separation of the provider into multiple entities
- other changes resulting in a change of ownership of the provider.

b. A change of ownership. The OfS is principally, but not exclusively, concerned with situations where 50 per cent or more in the shareholding of the registered provider (or the closest equivalent, where the provider is not limited by shares) are, or may be, in common ownership. Common ownership includes:

- ownership by the same person or entity
- ownership by multiple entities themselves under common ownership or control
- ownership by multiple individuals or entities who, by agreement or practice, exercise their ownership rights in a co-ordinated way (and without restricting the scope of our understanding of what constitutes common ownership, we will deem people who are 'connected' to be exercising their ownership rights in a co-ordinated way)
- ownership by multiple individuals or entities on behalf of, or acting under the direction or in the interests of, the same third party, including a case where ownerships are held on trust for a common beneficiary, and
- any similar structure.

Ownership does not require beneficial ownership. A provider:

- must inform the OfS of any changes in ownership where 50 per cent or more of the ownership of the registered provider is in common ownership, and a change affects the majority ownership rights. This includes the creation of majority ownership rights for the first time, the transfer of majority ownership rights to a new holder, the introduction of a new entity to majority ownership rights and majority ownership rights coming to an end
- must inform the OfS of any change in ownership that affects 15 per cent by value or voting rights of the registered provider's shares, or closest equivalent. A provider must do so whether the change is brought about in one transaction or a series of connected transactions. A provider does not need inform the OfS of entirely unconnected transactions provided none of those transactions is individually above our notification threshold

- is not required to inform the OfS of changes in ownership where 50 per cent or more of the ownership of the registered provider is in common ownership, and the changes only affect less than 15 per cent by value or voting rights of the minority ownership rights.

Some examples of changes that must be reported include:

- where all or any part of the majority ownership rights in the provider change:
 - i. Example 1: there are five shareholders, each holding 10 per cent of the shares in a provider. They are business partners and act in a co-ordinated way. One shareholder sells their shareholding to the others. This must be notified.
 - ii. Example 2: there are three shareholders, each holding 20 per cent of the shares in a provider. They are business partners and act in a co-ordinated way. One sells a 10 per cent shareholding to a relative who is a connected person. This must be notified.
 - iii. Example 3: There are three shareholders, each holding 20 per cent of the shares in a provider. They are business partners and act in a co-ordinated way. One sells their shareholding to a third party. This must be notified.
 - where additional share capital is issued, or shares are bought back, or the voting rights that attach to existing shares are changed
 - where a controlling proportion of a provider's shares is directly, or indirectly such as through those of its parent organisation(s), acquired by another individual(s), partnership(s) or organisation(s).
- c. A change of control. 'Control' has the meaning given by section 1124 of the Corporation Tax Act 2010, and 'change of control' means a change in control so defined. Where two or more entities or individuals, by agreement or practice, exercise their rights in a co-ordinated way, with the result that they together have control so defined, each will be treated as having control of the provider. A provider is required to notify the OfS of any change in the individual(s) or entity/ies who have control of the provider.
- d. The provider becoming aware of suspected or actual fraud or financial irregularity.
- e. The provider becoming aware of legal or court action.
- f. The provider resolving to cease to provide higher education.
- g. Regulatory investigation and/or sanction by other regulators, e.g. Charity Commission, Home Office.
- h. Loss of accreditation by a Professional, Statutory or Regulatory Body (PSRB).
- i. Any new partnerships, including validation or subcontractual arrangements.

- j. Opening a new campus.
- k. Intended campus, department, subject or provider closure.
- l. Any other material events with possible financial viability or sustainability implications, including but not limited to:
 - a material change in actual or forecast financial performance and/or position
 - a material change in gearing
 - a material change in student numbers that was not included in the provider's financial forecasts
 - for a provider with a legally binding obligation of financial support underpinning its financial sustainability, a withdrawal of the obligation (including as a result of a change of control, even where the new owner will offer a similar obligation) or a material adverse change in the counterparty's financial position or other standing that could affect its suitability as counterparty
 - the sale of significant assets
 - significant redundancy programmes.

Assessment

495. The OfS will assess, as part of its routine monitoring activities, the quality, reliability and timeliness of information supplied by a provider including through scheduled or ad hoc data audit activity. If the OfS has reason to believe that information received is not reliable, it may choose to investigate the matter. This investigation may result in additional steps to ensure compliance, whether through enhanced monitoring or the imposition of specific ongoing conditions. The OfS may, for example, require the provider's accountable officer to implement an agreed action plan to improve the provider's information systems and processes and the oversight arrangements for these.

Condition F4: Provision of information to the DDB

Condition F4: For the purposes of the designated data body (DDB)'s duties under sections 64(1) and 65(1) of HERA, the provider must provide the DDB with such information as the DDB specifies at the time and in the manner and form specified by the DDB.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 8 of HERA – a mandatory.

Guidance

496. In judging whether the provider has provided the DDB with such information as the DDB specifies at the time and in the manner and form specified by the DDB, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The quality, reliability and timeliness of information provided by the provider to the DDB.
- b. Whether the provider meets the DDB's published data collection requirements and timeframes.
- c. The substance of the provider's actions in response to data auditing activities carried out by, or on behalf of, the DDB or by the OfS.
- d. The findings of data audit activity carried out by, or on behalf of, the OfS.

Assessment

497. The DDB will provide the OfS with information about the quality, reliability and timeliness of information supplied by a provider. The OfS will assess such information from the DDB as part of its routine monitoring activities, including through scheduled or ad hoc data audit activity. If the OfS has reason to believe that information submitted to the DDB is not reliable, it may choose to investigate the matter. This investigation may result in additional steps to ensure compliance, whether through enhanced monitoring or the imposition of specific ongoing conditions. The OfS may, for example, require the provider's accountable officer to implement an agreed action plan to improve the provider's information systems and processes and the oversight arrangements for these.

Condition G1: Mandatory fee limit

Condition G1: A provider in the Approved (fee cap) category must charge qualifying persons on qualifying courses fees that do not exceed the relevant fee limit determined by the provider's quality rating and its access and participation plan.

Summary

Applies to: Approved (fee cap).

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: section 10 of HERA – mandatory.

Notes

499. Section 10 of HERA requires the OfS to impose a mandatory fee limit condition on providers within the Approved (fee cap) category of the Register, to secure that regulated course fees do not exceed a fee limit. Schedule 2 of HERA sets out that fee limits are determined on the basis of whether a provider has an agreed access and participation plan and according to their TEF award.

500. Section 11 of HERA requires the OfS to publish annually a list of all providers that are subject to a fee limit condition, and what that limits are in each case.

Guidance

501. In judging whether a provider in the Approved (fee cap) category is charging fees that do not exceed the fee limit determined by the provider's quality rating and any access and participation plan, material that the OfS may consider includes;

- a. The fees charged by the provider.
- b. The provider's quality rating.
- c. Any access and participation plan that is in force for the provider.

Assessment

502. Information about the fee limits that apply to a provider will appear in a provider's entry on the OfS's Register. The OfS will also publish an annual list of registered providers that have a fee limit condition and the level of that limit.

503. The OfS may request information from a provider to confirm the current or intended fees for all courses offered, to ensure that these comply with the relevant fee cap. Where the OfS identifies a breach of the relevant fee cap it will intervene, including by considering the use of sanctions. For example, the provider may be required to rectify incorrectly advertised fees or provide more detailed or regular information to the OfS about fees before they are advertised. The OfS may also use its power to impose a monetary penalty to ensure that a provider did not retain the financial benefit of exceeding the fee cap.

Condition G2: Compliance with terms and conditions of financial support Condition G2: The provider must comply with any terms and conditions attached to financial support received from the OfS and UKRI under sections 41(1) and/or 94(2) of HERA. A breach of such terms and conditions will be a breach of this condition of registration.

Summary

Applies to: All registered providers in receipt of financial support from the OfS or from UKRI.

Initial or ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: sections 5, 41(1) and 94(2) of HERA.

Notes

504. Section 41(1) of HERA allows the OfS to impose terms and conditions of funding, and section 94(2) of HERA allows UKRI to impose terms and conditions of funding. These are separate from, and in addition to, the conditions of registration applicable to a registered provider.

Guidance

505. 'Terms and conditions' means the content of the document(s) setting out the requirements placed on financial support, whether grant, loan or other payment, provided under sections 39, 40 and 93 of HERA which may relate to the specific or general uses of this funding. Terms and conditions will be set out by the OfS or UKRI when it makes funding allocations.

506. In judging whether a provider has complied with any terms and conditions attached to financial support received from the OfS and UKRI under sections 41(1) and/or 94(2) of HERA, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Any breaches of the terms and conditions applied to the financial support received by the provider.
- b. The actions taken by the provider to ensure that terms and conditions are not breached.
- c. The provider's management and governance arrangements that ensure that the public interest governance principles applicable to providers in receipt of financial support are delivered in practice.

Assessment

507. If a provider fails to comply with the terms and conditions of financial support provided by the OfS or by UKRI, the OfS may request further information from UKRI or from the provider to enable it to investigate and take appropriate action if required. The terms and conditions may include information about any actions that may be taken in response to a breach.

508. Where the OfS is satisfied that a breach of terms and conditions of financial support has occurred, it will also consider the steps it should take in response to the corresponding breach of this condition of registration. Such action may include, but not be limited to enhanced monitoring, for example to ensure closer scrutiny of future use of financial support, or the imposition of a specific condition of registration to require specific actions to support the delivery of funded projects such as the appointment of staff or implementation of an action plan. In cases of more serious mismanagement of financial support, the OfS may also impose a specific condition to restrict a provider's future eligibility for financial support.

Behaviours

509. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate compliance with this condition. The provider:

- complies with any terms and conditions attached to the financial support it receives
- has management and governance arrangements that are adequate and effective to ensure regularity, propriety and value for money.

510. The following are non-exhaustive examples of behaviours that may indicate non-compliance with this condition. The provider:

- fails to comply with any terms and conditions attached to the financial support it receives
- has management and governance arrangements that are not adequate or effective to ensure regularity, propriety and value for money.

Condition G3: Payment of OfS and designated body fees

Condition G3: The provider must pay:

- i. its annual registration fee and other OfS fees in accordance with regulations made by the Secretary of State;
- ii. the fees charged by the designated bodies.

Summary

Applies to: all registered providers.

Initial or general ongoing condition: ongoing condition.

Legal basis: sections 5 and 13 of HERA.

Guidance

511. 'Annual registration fee' means the payment required by the OfS under section 70 of HERA.

512. 'Other OfS fees' means any payments required by the OfS under section 71 of HERA.

513. 'Fees charged by the designated bodies' means the payments required by the DQB under section 28 of HERA and the payments required by the DDB under section 67 of HERA.

514. The Secretary of State will make regulations in relation to the fees that the OfS may charge. Information about how such fees are calculated will be set out by the OfS in its fee model.

515. Fees charged by the designated bodies and the arrangements for paying these will be determined by the designated bodies.

516. In judging whether a provider has paid its annual registration fee and other OfS fees, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. The provider's record of paying its fees in full by the deadlines set by the OfS.

517. In judging whether a provider has paid the fees charged by the designated bodies, material that the OfS may consider includes:

- a. Information provided by the DQB or the DDB about the provider's record of paying its fees in full by the deadlines set.

Assessment

518. A provider that does not pay any initial registration fee required by the OfS, or any fee required by a designated body to provide advice to the OfS as part of the initial registration process will not be registered. Once a provider is registered, it is required to pay fees to the OfS and to the designated bodies in full and by the published deadlines. A provider that is required to pay fees to the DQB as part of an application for degree awarding powers is required to pay such fees in full before the OfS will make an order to authorise DAPs.

519. Sanctions for the late payment of fees will be set out by the OfS and by the designated bodies. The OfS may also take account of any failure to pay fees in full or by the published deadlines as a breach of this condition of registration and may use its interventions or sanctions powers in response.

²⁵ This condition is applicable to providers in receipt of financial support from either the OfS or from UKRI.

Annex B: Public interest governance principles

The public interest governance principles applicable to all registered providers:

- I. Academic freedom: Academic staff at an English higher education provider have freedom within the law:
 - a. To question and test received wisdom; and
 - b. To put forward new ideas and controversial or unpopular opinions without placing themselves in jeopardy of losing their jobs or privileges they may have at the provider.
- II. Accountability: The provider operates openly, honestly, accountably and with integrity and demonstrates the values appropriate to be recognised as an English higher education provider.
- III. Student engagement: The governing body ensures that all students have opportunities to engage with the governance of the provider, and that this allows for a range of perspectives to have influence.
- IV. Academic governance: The governing body receives and tests assurance that academic governance is adequate and effective through explicit protocols with the senate/academic board (or equivalent).
- V. Risk management: The provider operates comprehensive corporate risk management and control arrangements (including for academic risk) to ensure the sustainability of the provider's operations, and its ability to continue to comply with all of its conditions of registration.
- VI. Value for money: The governing body ensures that there are adequate and effective arrangements in place to provide transparency about value for money for all students and (where a provider has access to the student support system or to grant funding) for taxpayers.
- VII. Freedom of speech: The governing body takes such steps as are reasonably practicable to ensure that freedom of speech within the law is secured within the provider.
- VIII. Governing body: The size, composition, diversity, skills mix, and terms of office of the governing body is appropriate for the nature, scale and complexity of the provider.
- IX. Fit and proper: Members of the governing body, those with senior management responsibilities, and individuals exercising control or significant influence over the provider, are fit and proper persons.

Additional public interest governance principles applicable to providers authorised with DAPs:

- X. Records: Where degree awarding powers are solely contained in the provider's governing documents, and no order either under section 76 of the Further and Higher Education Act 1992, or under HERA exists, the provisions setting out those powers must be retained and may not be altered without the consent of the OfS.²⁷

Additional public interest governance principles applicable to providers in receipt of financial support from the OfS or from UKRI:

- XI. Independent members of the governing body: There must be at least one external member of the governing body who is independent of the provider, and whose term of office is normally limited to a maximum of three terms of three years or two terms of four years. For providers with large governing bodies, or more complex legal forms, additional independent members may be appropriate
- XII. Regularity, propriety and value for money: The governing body ensures that there are adequate and effective arrangements in place to ensure public funds are managed appropriately, in line with the conditions of grant and the principles of regularity, propriety and value for money, and to protect the interests of taxpayers and other stakeholders. This also applies to any funds passed to another entity for the provision of facilities or learning and teaching, or for research to be undertaken.

Notes

Fit and proper persons

A fit and proper person:

- is of good character
- has the qualifications, competence, skills and experience that are necessary for their role;
- is able by reason of their health, after reasonable adjustments are made, to properly perform the tasks of the office or position for which they are appointed
- has not been responsible for, been privy to, contributed to, or facilitated any serious misconduct or mismanagement (whether unlawful or not) in their employment or in the conduct of any entity with which they are or have been associated.

The following are indicators that a person may not be a fit and proper person:

- disqualification from acting as a company director, or from acting as a charity trustee, as set out in the Company Directors Disqualification Act 1986 or the Charities Act 2011
- conviction of a criminal offence anywhere in the world²⁶

³⁴²⁷ This principle ensures that appropriate records are kept regarding degree awarding powers, where no order exists. This is primarily applicable to providers that obtained their powers before 1992, and/or that are incorporated via Royal Charter or a Private Act.

²⁶ Based on reasonable enquiries by the provider in which individuals are asked to disclose all relevant matters that occurred in the UK and/or in a foreign jurisdiction. The OfS would not expect individuals to

- subject of any adverse finding in civil proceedings, where relevant, including, but not limited to bankruptcy or equivalent proceedings (in the last three years)
- subject of any adverse findings in any disciplinary proceedings by any regulatory authorities or professional bodies
- involvement in any abuse of the tax systems
- involvement with any entity that has been refused registration to carry out a trade or has had that registration terminated
- involvement in a business that has gone into insolvency, liquidation or administration while the person has been connected with that organisation or within one year of that connection;
- dismissal from a position of trust or similar
- involvement with a higher education provider that has had its registration refused or revoked by the OfS or has had similar action taken against it by another regulator (this includes, but is not limited to, serving on a board/governing body, having voting rights, being a significant shareholder/owner, serving in a senior position, etc.).

Regularity, propriety and value for money

For these purposes, the OfS takes regularity, propriety and value for money to mean:

- Regularity: compliance with the relevant legislation (including State Aid legislation) and funds used only for the purpose for which they are given, and in compliance with any terms and conditions attached.
- Propriety: meeting high standards of public conduct, including the relevant Parliamentary expectations, especially transparency.
- Value for money: meeting the need for efficiency, economy, effectiveness and prudence in the administration of public resources, to secure value for public money in relation to the public grant funding received.

disclose matters that are 'spent' under the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974, but they may do so if they wish. Particular consideration will be given to offences of dishonesty, fraud, financial crime or an offence under legislation relating to higher education, further education and charities, whether or not in the UK.

Annex C – Guidance on the criteria for the authorisation for DAPs

Overarching criterion for the authorisation for DAPs

The overarching criterion for the authorisation for DAPs is:

For New DAPs	An emerging self-critical, cohesive academic community with a clear commitment to the assurance of standards supported by effective (in prospect) quality systems
For Full DAPs	A self-critical, cohesive academic community with a proven commitment to the assurance of standards supported by effective quality systems

The underpinning criteria for the different types of DAPs authorisation are set out below. These provide a framework to accommodate subject specific and level specific DAPs, without the need for separate sets of criteria. Differentiation for the different types of powers will be achieved through a tailored scrutiny process in which both the provider's submission of evidence and the scrutiny itself are focussed on the subject(s) or qualification level(s) for which powers are being sought. Some criteria and evidence requirements, for example those relating to academic governance, will apply in the same way regardless of the type of powers applied for. For other criteria focussing on staff expertise and learning resources, a provider will only need to demonstrate competence in the relevant subject(s) and level(s).

Underpinning criteria for taught DAPs

A: Academic governance

Criterion A1: Academic governance

A1.1 An organisation granted degree awarding powers has effective academic governance, with clear and appropriate lines of accountability for its academic responsibilities.

A1.2 Academic governance, including all aspects of the control and oversight of its higher education provision, is conducted in partnership with its students.

A1.3 Where an organisation granted degree awarding powers works with other organisations to deliver learning opportunities, it ensures that its governance and management of such opportunities is robust and effective and that decisions to work with other organisations are the result of a strategic approach rather than opportunism.

Explanation

There must be sound academic governance and management structures with integrity in all respects, so that there can be full public confidence in the integrity of the provider's qualifications. There should be appropriate safeguards to ensure that if the organisation decides to work with other organisations, these arrangements do not jeopardise academic standards or the quality of programmes. Such arrangements remain the ultimate responsibility of the organisation with degree awarding powers which must ensure that its oversight is effective for all its provision. Seeking to engage students as partners is an important part of the academic governance and management of academic standards and quality, as is effective oversight of the information which the organisation produces about its provision for all its stakeholders, especially prospective, current and completed students

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that criterion A1 is met, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. Its higher education mission and strategic direction and associated policies are coherent, published, understood and applied consistently.
- b. Its academic policies support its higher education mission, aims and objectives.
- c. There is clarity and differentiation of function and responsibility at all levels in the organisation in relation to its academic governance structures and arrangements for managing its higher education provision.
- d. The function and responsibility of the senior academic authority is clearly articulated and consistently applied.
- e. There is appropriate depth and strength of academic leadership.
- f. It develops, implements and communicates its policies and procedures in collaboration with its staff and students and external stakeholders.
- g. It will manage successfully the responsibilities that would be vested in it were it to be granted degree awarding powers.
- h. Students individually and collectively are engaged in the governance and management of the organisation and its higher education provision, with students supported, to be able to engage effectively.
- i. Where the organisation works with, or proposes to work with, other organisations to deliver learning opportunities, the arrangements are based on a strategic approach, informed by the effective assessment of risk including the carrying out of due diligence. They are defined in a written legal agreement and are subject to the same robust oversight and governance as the rest of the organisation's provision.

B: Academic Standards and Quality Assurance

Criterion B1 – Regulatory frameworks

B1.1 An organisation granted degree awarding powers has in place transparent and comprehensive academic frameworks and regulations to govern how it awards academic credit and qualifications.

B1.2 A degree awarding organisation maintains a definitive record of each programme and qualification that it approves (and of subsequent changes to it) which constitutes the reference point for delivery and assessment of the programme, its monitoring and review, and for the provision of records of study to students and alumni.

Explanation

The security of the academic standards of qualifications depends in large measure on the academic frameworks and regulations which govern their award. These can be expected to cover a wide variety of topics ranging from the approval of degree schemes, the use or not of credit, through to the conduct of student assessments and appeals against academic decisions. Organisations that award degrees are required to have in place a comprehensive set of regulations covering these matters. These academic frameworks and regulations are approved by the organisation's senior academic authority.

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that Criterion B1 is met, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. The academic frameworks and regulations governing its higher education provision (covering, for example, student admissions, assessment, progression, award, appeals and complaints) are appropriate to its current status and are implemented fully and consistently.
- b. It has created, in readiness, one or more academic frameworks and regulations which will be appropriate for the granting of its own higher education qualifications.
- c. Definitive and up-to-date records of each qualification to be awarded and each programme being offered by the organisation are being maintained. These records are used as the basis for the delivery and assessment of each programme and there is evidence that students and alumni are provided with records of study.

Criterion B2 – Academic standards

B2.1 An organisation granted degree awarding powers has clear and consistently applied mechanisms for setting and maintaining the academic standards of its higher education qualifications.

B2.2 Organisations with degree awarding powers are expected to demonstrate that they are able to design and deliver courses and qualifications that meet the threshold academic standards described in the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications (FHEQ). Organisations with degree awarding powers are expected to demonstrate that the standards that they set and maintain above the threshold are reliable over time and reasonably comparable to those set and achieved by other UK degree awarding bodies.

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that criterion B2 is met, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. Its higher education qualifications are offered at levels that correspond to the relevant levels of The Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree Awarding Bodies.
- b. The setting and maintaining of academic standards takes appropriate account of relevant external points of reference and external and independent points of expertise, including students.
- c. Its programme approval arrangements are robust, applied consistently, and ensure that academic standards are set at a level which meets the UK threshold standard for the qualification and are in accordance with their own academic frameworks and regulations.
- d. Credit and qualifications will be awarded only where the achievement of relevant learning outcomes (module learning outcomes in the case of credit and programme outcomes in the case of qualifications) has been demonstrated through assessment, and both the UK threshold standards and the academic standards of the relevant degree awarding body have been satisfied.
- e. Its programme approval, monitoring and review arrangements are robust, applied consistently and explicitly address whether the UK threshold academic standards are achieved and whether the academic standards required by the individual degree awarding body are being maintained.

- f. In establishing, and then maintaining, threshold academic standards and comparability of standards with other providers of equivalent level qualifications, it makes use of appropriate external and independent expertise.

Criterion B3 Quality of the academic experience

B3.1 Organisations with degree awarding powers are expected to demonstrate that they are able to design and deliver courses and qualifications that provide a high quality academic experience to all students from all backgrounds, irrespective of their location, mode of study, academic subject, protected characteristics, previous educational background or nationality. Learning opportunities are consistently and rigorously quality assured.

Explanation

Organisations offering higher education awards are expected to consider carefully the purposes and objectives of the programmes they are offering. They are also expected to design their curricula, learning and teaching activities and associated resources, and assessment and feedback, in a way that will give diligent students the best chance of achieving their purposes and objectives and the threshold academic standards for the qualification being sought. Organisations offering higher education qualifications must have the means of establishing for themselves that their intentions are, in practice, being met.

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that Criterion B3 is met the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

Design and approval of programmes

- a. The organisation operates effective processes for the design, development and approval of programmes.
- b. Relevant staff are informed of, and provided with guidance and support on, these procedures and their roles and responsibilities in relation to them.
- c. Responsibility for approving new programme proposals is clearly assigned, including the involvement of external expertise, where appropriate, and subsequent action is carefully monitored.
- d. Coherence of programmes with multiple elements or alternative pathways is secured and maintained.
- e. Close links are maintained between learning support services and the organisation's programme planning and approval arrangements.

Learning and teaching

- a. The organisation articulates and implements a strategic approach to learning and teaching which is consistent with its stated academic objectives.
- b. The organisation maintains physical, virtual and social learning environments that are safe, accessible and reliable for every student, promoting dignity, courtesy and respect in their use.
- c. Robust arrangements exist for ensuring that the learning opportunities provided to those of its students that may be studying at a distance from the organisation are effective.
- d. Every student is enabled to monitor their progress and further their academic development.

Assessment

- a. The organisation operates valid and reliable processes of assessment, including for the recognition of prior learning, which enable every student to demonstrate the extent to which they have achieved the intended learning outcomes for the credit or qualification being sought.
- b. Staff and students engage in dialogue to promote a shared understanding of the basis on which academic judgements are made.
- c. Students are provided with opportunities to develop an understanding of, and the necessary skills to demonstrate, good academic practice.
- d. The organisation operates processes for preventing, identifying, investigating and responding to unacceptable academic practice.
- e. Processes for marking assessments and for moderating marks are clearly articulated and consistently operated by those involved in the assessment process.

External examining

- a. The organisation makes scrupulous use of external examiners including in the moderation of assessment tasks and student assessed work.
- b. The organisation gives full and serious consideration to the comments and recommendations contained in external examiners' reports and provides external examiners with a considered and timely response to their comments and recommendations.

Academic appeals and student complaints

- a. The organisation has effective procedures for handling academic appeals and student complaints about the quality of the academic experience; these procedures are fair, accessible and timely, and enable enhancement;
- b. Appropriate action is taken following an appeal or complaint.

C: Scholarship and the pedagogical effectiveness of staff

Criterion C1 – the role of academic and professional staff

C1.1 An organisation granted powers to award degrees assures itself that it has appropriate numbers of staff to teach its students. Everyone involved in teaching or supporting student learning, and in the assessment of student work, is appropriately qualified, supported and developed to the level(s) and subject(s) of the qualifications being awarded.

Explanation

The capacity and competence of the staff who teach and who facilitate and assess learning are central to the value of the education offered to students. Organisations awarding their own qualifications have a crucial responsibility to ensure that every student has the chance to develop as an independent learner, and the opportunity to demonstrate the extent to which they have achieved the intended learning outcomes for the credit or qualification being sought. Chances are maximised by effective teaching and the facilitation of learning undertaken by staff with academic, professional and vocational expertise in line with the organisation's curriculum offer. This includes a responsibility for ensuring that staff maintain a professional understanding of current developments in research and scholarship in their subject and, where applicable, keep in touch with practice in their professions and for ensuring that structured opportunities for them to do so are both readily available and widely taken up. It also means that teaching for degree-level qualifications should reflect, in a careful, conscious and intellectually demanding manner, the latest developments in the subject of study. Organisations also have a responsibility for making certain that the assessment of their students is carried out in a professional, rigorous and consistent way.

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that criterion C1 is met, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that all staff involved in teaching or supporting student learning, and in the assessment of student work have:

- a. Relevant learning, teaching and assessment practices that are informed by reflection, evaluation of professional practice, and subject-specific and educational scholarship.
- b. Academic and (where applicable) professional expertise.
- c. Active engagement with the pedagogic development of their discipline knowledge.
- d. Understanding of current research and advanced scholarship in their discipline and that such knowledge and understanding directly inform and enhance their teaching. Also active engagement with research and/or advanced scholarship to a level commensurate with the level and subject of the qualifications being offered.
- e. Opportunities to engage in reflection and evaluation of their learning, teaching and assessment practice.
- f. Development opportunities aimed at enabling them to enhance their practice and scholarship.
- g. Opportunities to gain experience in curriculum development and assessment design and to engage with the activities of other higher education providers for example through becoming external examiners, validation panel members or external reviewers.
- h. Expertise in providing feedback on assessment which is timely, constructive and developmental.
- i. Experience of curriculum development and assessment design.
- j. Engagement with the activities of providers of higher education in other organisations (through, for example, involvement as external examiners, validation panel members, or external reviewers).

In addition, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. It has made a rigorous assessment of the skills/expertise required to teach all students and the appropriate staff/student ratios.
- b. It has appropriate staff recruitment practices.

D: Environment for supporting students

Criterion D1 – Enabling student development and achievement

D1.1 Higher education providers have in place, monitor and evaluate arrangements and resources which enable students to develop their academic, personal and professional potential.

Explanation

The teaching and learning infrastructure – all the facilities, digital resources and support activities that are provided to maximise students' chances of developing their potential and of obtaining the qualification they are seeking – is a means to an end. Organisations that award their own qualifications are expected to have mechanisms in place designed to support and develop students beyond the arrangements for learning, teaching and assessment addressed in criterion B3. These include the specialist support services such as counselling, disability and careers advice and cover both the generic provision of services to a cohort of students and the targeted support for individual students. It is part of an organisation's strategic approach which embodies the integration, coherence and internal cooperation between different areas of a provider, including for example links between professional services, academic departments and student representative bodies as well as with external organisations.

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that criterion D1 is met, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. The organisation takes a comprehensive strategic and operational approach to determine and evaluate how it enables student development and achievement for its diverse body of students.
- b. Students are advised about, and inducted into, their study programmes in an effective way and account is taken of different students' choices and needs.
- c. The effectiveness of student and staff advisory, support and counselling services is monitored and any resource needs arising are considered.
- d. Its administrative support systems enable it to monitor student progression and performance accurately and provide timely, secure and accurate information to satisfy academic and non-academic management information needs.
- e. The organisation provides opportunities for all students to develop skills that enable their academic, personal and professional progression, for example academic, employment and future career management skills.
- f. The organisation provides opportunities for all students to develop skills to make effective use of the learning resources provided, including the safe and effective use of specialist facilities, and the use of digital and virtual environments.
- g. The organisation's approach is guided by a commitment to equity.

E: Evaluation of performance

Criterion E1 An organisation granted degree awarding powers takes effective action to assess its own performance, respond to identified weaknesses and develop further its strengths.

Explanation

An organisation that has powers to award its own qualifications must have in place the means of critically reviewing its own performance, in particular in relation to standards and student outcomes. It needs to know how it is doing in comparison with other similar organisations, and have in place robust mechanisms for disseminating good practice. It must also be able to identify limitations or deficiencies in its own activities and take timely and effective remedial action when this is called for.

Evidence requirement

To assist in demonstrating that Criterion E is met the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. Critical self-assessment is integral to the operation of its higher education provision and that action is taken in response to matters raised through internal or external monitoring and review.
- b. Clear mechanisms exist for assigning and discharging action in relation to the scrutiny and monitoring of its academic provision.
- c. Ideas and expertise from within and outside the organisation (for example on programme design and development, on teaching, and on student learning and assessment) are drawn into its arrangements for programme design, approval, delivery and review.

Underpinning criteria for research DAPs

Where a provider has applied for research DAPs and either already holds Taught Degree Awarding Powers (TDAPs), or is seeking TDAPs at the same time, the following criteria will apply in addition to those set out above for taught awards.

Criterion F – Academic staff

F1 The organisation's supervision of its research students, and the teaching it undertakes at doctoral level, is underpinned by academic staff with high levels of knowledge, understanding and experience of current research and advanced scholarship in their subjects of study.

Explanation

The creation and interpretation of knowledge which extends a discipline, usually through original research, is a defining characteristic of the UK doctorate, and the award of research degrees places a particular and substantial responsibility on an awarding body. Accordingly, the organisation's academic staff should command the respect and confidence of their academic peers across the UK and international higher education sector, and be considered credible to deliver research degree programmes. Organisations wishing to offer research degrees should have a strong underpinning culture in place that actively encourages and supports creative, high quality research and scholarship among its academic staff, and its doctoral and other research students. Such a culture typically involves engagement with a range of discipline-based, professional practitioner and research-active communities, and this ensures that research students should only be accepted into an environment that provides support for doing and learning about research, and where excellent research, recognised by the relevant subject community, is occurring. Academic staff involved in the delivery of research degrees are expected to have knowledge, understanding and experience of research and advanced scholarship that go well beyond expectations for staff engaged in the delivery of taught degrees. Strength and depth in research supervision capacity, research performance in authoritative external peer reviews, and demonstrable involvement in research-related activities with other higher education providers or comparable organisations engaged in research, are all factors to be taken into account in any consideration of the merits of an application for research degree-awarding powers.

Evidence requirement

To assist in meeting criterion F1, the applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. Its policies and procedures relating to research, advanced scholarship, and research degree programmes are appropriate, effective and reflect sector best practice, and are understood and applied consistently, both by those involved in the delivery of research degrees and, where appropriate, by the students involved.

- b. It has a strong and sustainable research culture, which directly informs and enhances the supervision and teaching of research degree students.
- c. It has a critical mass of research staff and students, representing a viable and sustainable research community.
- d. It actively engages in discipline-based and broader based communities of researchers and scholars external to the organisation, and takes steps to engage the public at large with the research it undertakes.
- e. It has established productive research-relevant links, formal or informal, with other higher education and specialist research institutions through, for example, joint research activities.
- f. It has a critical mass of research leaders, normally at professorial level, whose role is to support the development of research and an effective research culture.
- g. Staff involved in the delivery of research degree programmes, in a teaching and/or supervisory capacity:
 - i. Are themselves active researchers who produce externally recognised outputs in research and advanced scholarship.
 - ii. Are examiners of research degrees, appointed as internal examiners by the awarding institution or as external examiners elsewhere.
 - iii. Command the respect and confidence of academic peers across the sector as reflected, for example, in Research Excellence Framework (REF) outcomes, other authoritative external reviews, awards of distinction, through research contracts and/or funding, as invited/keynote speakers at national and international research events and conferences, as members of national and international research committees or bodies.
 - iv. Have current knowledge of developments within the higher education sector relating to research and research degrees.
 - v. Have access to a systematic and effective approach to staff development and appraisal that enables them to develop and enhance their knowledge of current research and advanced scholarship.

The applicant organisation will also be required to provide an analysis of, and supporting commentary relating to, the data it has used to satisfy itself that the staff involved with the delivery of its research degree programmes have met the metric requirements outlined below. Data should be provided for the three years immediately preceding the submission of an application for research degree awarding powers. Applicant organisations should be aware that numeric criteria contribute to a broader assessment of their capacity to assume the 'particular and substantial responsibility' (criterion F1, explanation above) placed on organisations holding research degree awarding powers and necessarily involves an evaluative dimension.

The applicant organisation will be required to provide evidence that:

- a. A significant proportion (normally around a half as a minimum) of its academic staff are active and recognised contributors to at least one organisation such as a subject association, learned society or relevant professional body. Such contributions are expected to involve some form of public output or outcome, broadly defined, demonstrating the research-related impact of academic staff on their discipline or sphere of research activity at a regional, national or international level;

- b. A significant proportion (normally around a third as a minimum) of its academic staff have recent (i.e. within the past three years) personal experience of research activity in other UK or international higher education or specialist research institutions by, for example, acting as external examiners for research degrees, serving as panel members for the validation or review of research degree programmes, or contributing to collaborative research projects with other organisations (other than as a doctoral student). An applicant organisation will be required to demonstrate both that such activity has taken place, and that in the case of collaborative research activity, the member of staff has made a personal contribution to the research and that a tangible output has been or is in the process of being achieved.
- c. A significant proportion (normally around a third as a minimum) of its academic staff can demonstrate recent achievements (i.e. within the past three years) that are recognised by the wider academic community to be of national and/or international standing (e.g. as indicated by authoritative external peer reviews). It is expected that the evidence will largely relate to work undertaken within the applicant organisation rather than in other HEIs.

Criterion G – National guidance

G1 The organisation satisfies relevant national guidance relating to the award of research degrees.

Evidence requirement

To assist in meeting criterion G1, the applicant organisation will be required to demonstrate that it meets fully and will continue to meet, the expectations of:

- a. The Qualifications Frameworks in relation to the levels of its research degree programmes.
- b. Research degree management frameworks issued by relevant research councils, funding bodies and professional/statutory bodies, which might include Conditions of Research Council Training Grants issued by Research Councils UK and Statement of Expectations for Postgraduate Training issued by Research Councils UK and other training funders.

Criterion H – Minimum number of doctoral degree conferrals

H1 The applicant organisation has achieved more than 30 doctoral degree conferrals²⁷, awarded through partnerships with UK awarding bodies.

H2 In addition, the applicant organisation will need to demonstrate that:

- a. The majority of conferred doctoral degrees have been achieved by students who are not also academic staff of the organisation.
- b. Its completion rates meet sector norms.

Glossary

Accelerated degree

A qualification at level 6 of the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications where the number of academic years to be completed is at least one fewer than would normally be the case for that course. A variety of terms is in use for degree qualifications which appear to be accelerated, including 'fast-track', 'two-year', 'compressed', 'time-compressed', 'condensed' and 'intensive'.

Access and participation plan

A plan produced by a provider in the Approved (fee cap) category of the Register. The plan sets out how the provider will sustain or improve access to its provision for students from disadvantaged and underrepresented groups in higher education, and promote success for those students including retention, attainment and employability. Plans must be approved by the Director for Fair Access and Participation.

Access and participation statement

A statement published by a provider in the Approved category of the Register that sets out the provider's commitment to access and participation in higher education.

Alternative provider(s) (APs)

A provider of higher education courses which does not receive direct annual public funding from OfS or higher education funding bodies in the devolved administrations and is not a further education college.

Approved

Registration category for providers that wish their students to be able to access the student support system and do not want to be eligible for OfS grant funding and/or to have fee cap obligations.

Approved (fee cap)

Registration category for providers that want to be eligible for OfS grant funding in return for a fee cap and, where charging the higher fee amount, an access and participation plan.

Baseline requirements (and relationship with conditions)

Expressed in conditions of registration that seek to deliver the OfS's four primary regulatory objectives, as set out in Part I. Except where they refer to access and participation, they are expressed as outcomes, setting out the minimum level a provider must achieve and demonstrate in order to be registered. All are general ongoing conditions of registration, some are also initial conditions of registration which must be satisfied during application to the register.

Competition and Markets Authority (CMA)

The CMA is responsible for promoting competition for the benefit of consumers. Its aim is to make markets, including higher education, work well for consumers, businesses and the economy.

Conditions (ongoing, initial, specific)

'Conditions' and 'conditions of registration' are general terms used to mean all types of condition that a provider must satisfy in order to be registered. They include:

- initial conditions of registration, which a provider must satisfy as part of its application to join the Register
- general ongoing conditions of registration, which a provider must satisfy after it has joined the Register in order to maintain its registered status

- specific conditions of registration, which are additional conditions imposed by the OfS on a particular provider to mitigate or manage specific risks or weaknesses that it has identified.

Data

Facts and figures, both quantitative and qualitative, which can be collected, processed and analysed in order to generate additional information. References to information can be taken to include data as one source of information.

Degree awarding powers (DAPs)

In England degrees must be awarded by a body with degree awarding powers (DAPs). There are three types of degree awarding powers:

- Foundation degree awarding powers
- Taught degree awarding powers
- Research degree awarding powers.

Delivery provider

In the context of a subcontractual arrangement, the provider that delivers higher education provision to students on behalf of another higher education provider (the lead provider). The lead provider remains responsible for the students.

Deregistration

Removal from the OfS's Register.

Designated data body (DDB)

A body that performs the duties set out in sections 64 and 65 of HERA, including data collection, data processing, data storage, data publication and provision. The DDB is designated by the Secretary of State following consultation and a recommendation from the OfS.

Designated quality body (DQB)

A body that carries out the functions set out in sections 23 and 46 of HERA. The DQB is designated by the Secretary of State following consultation and a recommendation from the OfS.

Director for Fair Access and Participation (DFAP)

The Director for Fair Access and Participation's role is to ensure that higher education providers are doing all they can to support underrepresented groups, from widening access, to monitoring retention, attainment and progression from higher education. The DFAP is a member of the OfS board.

Efficiency studies

Efficiency studies are intended to improve the economy, efficiency and effectiveness in the management of a registered provider. Their findings may also inform the OfS's assessment of risk for that provider. They are intended to ensure that providers are delivering value for money for students and taxpayers, recognising the very significant investment both of these groups make in higher education.

Electoral registration of students

Entering students on a register of electors maintained by an electoral registration officer in England (as appointed under section 8(2) of the Representation of the People Act 1983).

Embedded college

A provider, usually part of a network, operating within or near to the main premises of an HE provider, in partnership or as part of a joint venture, usually delivering pathway courses which prepare students for entry to higher education programmes at that HE provider, or integrated higher education programmes which students complete at that HE provider.

Enhanced monitoring

Additional data/information required by the OfS from a provider, or an investigation of specific concerns where a provider is at risk of breaching one or more ongoing condition of registration.

Entry and search

The OfS may, in exceptional circumstances, use its powers of entry and search to investigate suspected serious breaches of a provider's ongoing conditions of registration, relating to its OfS funding or student support funding.

Equality of opportunity

Equality of opportunity for students from all backgrounds to benefit from access to and participation in the higher education provided by English higher education providers.

Exempt charity

A higher education institution established in England with charitable purposes which is exempt from registration with the Charity Commission for England and Wales and subject to oversight by a principal regulator on behalf of the Charity Commission.

Exit the market, see Market exit

Fee limit

An upper limit on the tuition fees which a provider in the Approved (fee cap) category of the Register may charge, as prescribed in regulations.

Fit and proper person

A fit and proper person: (a) is of good character, (b) has the qualifications, competence, skills and experience which are necessary for their role (c) is able by reason of their health, after reasonable adjustments are made, to perform properly the tasks of the office or position for which they are appointed and (d) has not been responsible for, been privy to, contributed to or facilitated any serious misconduct or mismanagement (whether unlawful or not) in their employment or in the conduct of any entity with which they are or have been associated.

Framework of Higher Education Qualifications (FHEQ)

Sets out the levels of higher education qualifications, and is illustrated by typical qualifications for that level, for example Higher National Certificates, graduate diplomas, bachelor degrees. Each level includes a descriptor that sets out the generic outcomes and attributes expected for the award of qualifications at that level.

Franchising – see Subcontractual arrangement

General ongoing conditions of registration, see Ongoing conditions of registration

Governing body

Persons responsible for the management of the provider. As defined in section 85 of HERA, this will be any board of governors of the institution or any equivalent controlling body, for example the board of a company, the trustees of a charity, etc.

Governing documents

Documents adopted, or that should have been adopted, by the provider that describe any of the provider's objectives or values, its powers, who has a role in decision making within the provider, how the provider takes decisions about how to exercise its functions or how it monitors their exercise. This test will be broadly rather than narrowly applied. Where a document in part deals with any such matters, and in part with other matters, the whole of the document is a 'governing document'.

Higher education

As defined in Schedule 6 of the Education Reform Act 1988.

Higher education provider

An organisation that delivers higher education, as defined in Schedule 6 of the Education Reform Act 1988. A provider can be a body with degree awarding powers or deliver higher education on behalf of another awarding body. Unless stated otherwise, in this document 'provider' or 'higher education provider' refers to a registered higher education provider, as defined in section 83 in HERA.

Information

Includes data, along with additional intelligence, evidence and knowledge.

Initial conditions of registration

The conditions a provider must satisfy as part of its application to join the Register. For more information, see conditions of registration.

Intervention

Action by the OfS (including the possibility of imposing sanctions) to address either a breach of conditions of registration by a provider, or an increased risk of a provider breaching its conditions.

Lead indicators

Indicators constructed from data and information flows, in as near real time as possible, that allow the OfS to anticipate future events.

Lead provider

In the context of a subcontractual arrangement, the lead provider allows another provider, the delivery provider to deliver all, or part, of a programme that is designed, approved and owned by the lead provider. The lead provider retains overall control of the programme's content, delivery, assessment and quality assurance arrangements.

Market entry

A provider starting to deliver higher education and seeking registration with the OfS.

Market exit

A provider ceasing to deliver higher education courses. A provider might exit the market deliberately (for example, for strategic reasons) or for other reasons (for example, because of a loss of registration, or financial failure).

Monetary penalties

The OfS may decide to impose a monetary penalty where a provider has breached one or more ongoing conditions or registration.

New provider

A provider that at the point of applying to join the OfS's Register has not previously been regulated by HEFCE or DfE.

Office of the Independent Adjudicator (OIA)

The OIA's role is to review individual and group complaints by students against higher education providers, after internal processes have been exhausted, and to promote good practice in handling complaints and appeals.

Ongoing conditions of registration

Conditions of registration that a provider must meet after it has joined the Register in order to maintain its registered status. For more information, see conditions of registration

Powers of Entry and Search see Entry and Search

Principal regulator

A higher education institution established in England with charitable purposes which is exempt from registration with by the Charity Commission for England and Wales is subject to oversight by a principal regulator on behalf of the Charity Commission. The OfS undertakes this duty to promote compliance with charity law by these providers.

Provider

An English higher education provider as defined in section 83 of HERA. A provider can be a body with degree awarding powers or deliver higher education on behalf of another awarding body.

Public interest governance principles

Section 14(2) of HERA makes provision for the OfS to determine and publish a list of principles applicable to the governance of English higher education providers.

Quality assessment

A collective term used to refer to arrangements for ensuring higher education providers meet baseline expectations for academic quality and standards.

Regulatory risk

The risk of the registered provider failing to comply with regulation by the OfS.

Reportable event

An event that requires a provider to notify OfS of material decisions/changes, such as a change in control or borrowing above a certain level.

Risk monitoring

The process by which the OfS will identify an increased risk that a provider will breach one or more of its conditions of registration and, if necessary, respond to it, in a proportionate manner. It will take two forms: (a) general monitoring, applied to all providers; and (b) enhanced monitoring/engagement for individual providers where an increased risk has been identified or where there is a suspected/actual breach of conditions.

Sanction

The OfS may impose a monetary penalty on, or suspend or deregister, a registered higher education provider where it appears that there is or has been a breach of a provider's ongoing conditions of registration.

Specific conditions of registration

The OfS may decide to impose a specific ongoing condition where it considers that a provider presents a specific risk that is not addressed by a general ongoing condition; to mitigate an increased risk that a provider may breach an ongoing condition of registration; or to prevent or remedy a breach. The specific ongoing condition will be targeted to mitigate the specific risk that is posed and will be focused on actions or activities by the provider that the OfS may require, or prohibit, to ensure that the provider is able to satisfy its ongoing conditions of registration.

Standards

The standards set by bodies with degree awarding powers for their courses, programmes and modules and expected to be achieved in order for an award to be made.

Student consumer rights

As set out in the CMA's guidance 'UK higher education providers – advice on consumer protection law' there are three areas where providers have obligations to students under consumer protection law: information, which must be clear, accurate and timely; terms and conditions of contracts, which must be fair and transparent; organisational complaint handling processes and practices, which must be accessible, clear and fair.

Student Panel

A panel of students and student representatives that assists the OfS to ensure that students' perspectives are taken into account in all OfS activity.

Student protection plan

A plan outlining the actions a provider will take to minimise the impact of any risks to its students' continuation of study. The plan includes examples of events that might trigger action by the provider, such as the closure of a course, campus or location, the discontinuation of a discipline or market exit. This document must be approved by the OfS, and be readily available to current and potential students.

Student support

The government provides financial support for tuition fees and living costs for eligible students who live permanently in England and students from the European Union, who are studying eligible courses in England.

Student transfer

Subcontractual arrangement

A relationship, based on a formal contract, in which a body with degree awarding powers (the lead provider) allows another provider (the delivery provider) to deliver all, or part, of a programme which has been designed, approved and owned by the degree awarding body. The lead provider or subcontracting provider retains overall control of the programme's content, delivery, assessment and quality assurance arrangements. Sometimes described as a franchise arrangement.

Suspension

The OfS may decide to suspend a provider's registration, in whole or in part, where the provider has breached its ongoing conditions of regulation and action needs to be taken to immediately reduce the impact of this on students or the taxpayer.

Teach out

Teach out may occur when a provider decides to discontinue provision in the longer term, but continues to teach existing students until their course is complete. It may also occur when the OfS deregisters a provider and allows the provider's existing students to complete their course while continuing to access student support because it is in the students' interest to do so. Teach out may be one of the measures identified by a provider in its student protection plan.

Teaching Excellence and Student Outcomes Framework (TEF)

A scheme for recognising excellent teaching, in addition to existing national quality requirements for providers. It provides information to help prospective students choose where to study.

Terms and conditions of funding

Also referred to as 'terms and conditions of grant' or 'terms and conditions associated with OfS and/or UKRI funding'. Terms and conditions attached to any funding given to providers by the OfS or UKRI under sections 39, 40 and 93 of the Higher Education and Research Act 2017. For example, grant funding for a particular purpose, such as a research project or a strategic development.

Tier 4

The UK operates a points-based immigration system underpinned by the principle of visa sponsorship. Tier 4 is the immigration category in which a student from outside the European Economic Area (or Switzerland) may be issued a visa to study in the UK.

UK Quality Code for Higher Education

The UK Quality Code for higher education sets out the expectations that all providers of higher education in the United Kingdom are required to meet in order for students to have a high quality learning experience.

UK Research and Innovation (UKRI)

A public body incorporating the seven Research Councils, Innovate UK, and the research and knowledge exchange functions of the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE).

University title (UT)

The word 'university' is a protected term, and not all higher education providers are universities. Those providers that wish to use the word in their title must apply for it and meet certain criteria, including holding degree awarding powers.

Value for money

Meeting the need for efficiency, economy, effectiveness and prudence in the administration and expenditure of financial resources.

Validation arrangement

A validated course is a module or programme which a degree awarding body approves to contribute, or lead, to one of its awards. The validated course is delivered by the provider that designed it and students on the course normally have a direct contractual relationship with that provider and not the validating provider. The validating provider remains responsible for the academic standards of the award granted in its name.
